Capt. Hawks Returns.
Surprising Barbarians.
If East Flew West.
Singing in the Drought.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE OTHER DAY Capt. Hawks, America's leading flier, traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific in less than 15 hours, by the light of the same day, arriving in Los Angeles in time for a game of golf by broad daylight.

NOW, CAPT. HAWKS has flown from the Pacific. East, in 12½ hours, breaking the eastbound record held by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, by nearly two and one-half hours.

Thanks to such men, real air travel will soon be a reality.

HAVING GIVEN the Afridis 24 hours' notice, the British airmen bomb their defense towers and many houses, knocking them down as children would overturn a house of sand.

The barbarians were surprised to see how one small bomb could destroy what they considered "an impregnable fortress."

What will happen to Western civilization, if the barbarians decide to build planes for their own use? What would happen if our highly civilized friends of Asia decided to stop fighting each other and attack through the air somebody in the West?

ASSOCIATED PRESS cables from Nanking, seat of China's Nationalist government, expressed fear that the city will fall into the hands of Communist troops led by leaders from Russia.

Hankow is preparing for a desperate Communist attack, erecting sandbag barriers, with machine guns ready. Thousands of refugees are pouring in from the countryside, where peasants, turning to Bolshevism and armed with rifles, are marching against the city.

STALIN, OF RUSSIA, has shown ability to manage men, organize industry and raise billions of dollars.

He feels that he has been insulted by capitalist nations, particularly this nation.

What would happen in this busy world if he used some of his new factories to build airplanes and sent them against "capitalism," with millions of armed Asiatics to back them up?

SOME DAY, after we have settled our prohibition, low price of wheat and drought problems, it might pay us to think about some other things that might be worse than those calamities.

MISS MARION TALLEY, "girl of the Golden West," cultivated her voice, sang in the golden Metropolitan Opera House, made money, returned West and bought a farm. The drought has ruined the corn on her 800 acres in Kansas, and she thinks she will come back to the Metropolitan Opera House for more. There is no drought in the Metropolitan diamond circle.

Other farmers unfortunately cannot do that.

ABOVE ST. LOUIS, Forest O'Brine and Dale Jackson had been in the air 554 hours and 41 minutes at 9:52 yesterday morning, breaking the world's endurance record of the Hunters. The fliers hope to stay up 1,000 hours.

In 1,000 hours, Capt. Hawks' plane, doing its best, could fly around the world 10 times. Many, now living, will see planes going round the world within 24 hours and without refueling.

HITLER, SAID to be the most brilliant orator in Europe, not long ago in jail for political offenses, now leads an important party in Germany, expected to win many victories in the Reichstag election of September 14.

The Hitler program includes annulment of the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain, no more reparations payments, a powerful German army, such as Germany used to have, profit-sharing for workmen, national ownership of industry, and "a nation-wide pogrom to disfranchise or drive from Germany all the Jews."

BEFORE PROCEEDING with the anti-Semitic idea, Hitler should inform himself as to what happened to Portugal when that country drove out all the Jews, sending them to Holland and England, and what happened to Holland and England after the Jews arrived, in the way of prosperity.

British Dirigibe Takes Off From Montreal Airport; Maintains Fast Clip

International News Service.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 14.—Pushing its great bulk out to sea on its return voyage to England from Montreal, the giant British dirigible R.100 swept through the straits of Belle Isle, separating Newfoundland from Labrador, today.

At 11:48 a. m. local time (10:18 a. m. Pittsburgh daylight saving time), the mammoth airship was clearly sighted from Daniels Harbor, a small community on the Straits. Twelve minutes later she was seen by thrilled watchers at Ferrole.

The dirigible was sighted at 8 a. m., Pittsburgh time, by the S. S. Montclare.

SMOOTH TAKE-OFF

ST. HUBERT'S AIR FIELD, MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Gaining speed with the break of dawn, the dirigible R-100 passed the Island of Anticosti on the Gulf of St. Lawrence at 5:15 a. m. today, Pittsburgh time.

CAPT. HAWKS LANDING IN NEW YORK LAST NIGHT WITH NEW TRANSCONTINENTAL RECORD

4 PHYSICIANS SUMMONED TO DUCHESS

Specialist at Glamis Castle Where Birth of Royal Child Is Expected

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Four physicians today were in attendance upon the Duchess of York, whose second baby has been expected for several days. Among them was Sir Henry Simson, noted obstetrician and expert in the caesarian section.

For many hours one of the physicians has remained constantly on duty.

Today was the ninth day Home Secretary J. R. Clynes had been waiting at Glamis to attest to the birth of the royal child.

Sir Henry Simson is the chief surgeon of the group. It was he who was in charge of the confinements of Princess Mary and also who ushered into the world the little Princess Elizabeth, first child of the Duke and Duchess of York, in April, 1926.

Mears Plans Survey Flight Over Russia

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—John Henry Mears, globe girdler, and his pilot, Henry J. Brown, of Cleveland, will sail for London within 10 days to fly in a Moth plane across Russia and Siberia and familiarize themselves with conditions, which will confront them in an attempted round-the-world flight in the summer of 1931.

Mears and Brown returned today by ship from Harbor Grace, N. F., where their plane cracked up Aug. 3 as it took off for Dublin.

HEAT WAVE TO FOLLOW SHOWERS

Stricken States Share in Downpour Bringing Crop Relief; Water Still Short

Pittsburgh today enjoyed its first heavy rainfall in seven weeks.

Shortly after 5 a. m. rain arrived from the west and fell steadily for several hours.

But with the rain, which helped to revive sagging crops, came a disturbing prediction from Weatherman Brotzman. He sees another heat wave approaching.

RAIN IN WEST

The rainfall was shared by the central states, Chicago dispatches reported. New York reported cool weather, but no rain.

The rain here was not enough to relieve the seriousness of the drought. Public Works Director Edward G. Lang went so far as to promise water to farmers and residents of boroughs and townships suffering a shortage.

FREE CITY WATER

Director Lang offered free use of city water from fire plugs.

Tank trucks, barrels or other containers may be filled with water at the plugs and transported to drought-stricken sections for all domestic purposes, he said. Wrenches with which to open the plugs can be obtained at fire stations.

Lang said the city had a plentiful supply of water, and in such an emergency could spare it to less-fortunate communities.

Good rains fell in the Ohio Valley in 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. today, in Eastern Missouri, Southeastern Iowa, all of Indiana, Illinois, in Kentucky and Northern Tennessee, West Virginia, Southern Ohio—all drought-stricken sections. The rains ranged from light to good.

WAR MOTHER DIES IN FRANCE

VERDUN, France, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Mrs. Harriet Bates, wife of Henry Bates, of Portage, Pa., died in the Verdun Hotel today from the effects of a cerebral hemorrhage. Mrs. Bates was with a party of Gold Star mothers.

Mrs. Bates was the first Gold Star mother to die in France, of the nearly 2,000 who visited the battlefield cemeteries during this summer.

Mrs. Bates was unconscious for several hours before her death. Her last words before losing consciousness, when she felt there was no hope of rallying, were that she would die in the country where her boy was buried.

Pending receipt of instructions funeral arrangements were held in abeyance.

HAWKS PLANS FASTER FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Not satisfied with establishing a new trans-continental flight record of 12 hours 25 minutes and 3 seconds, Capt. Frank M. Hawks today announced he would soon attempt to cross the country in "real fast time." The new record is the fastest time ever made by man for such a distance.

Hawks, who arrived here last evening after his record-breaking dash from Los Angeles, which lowered the record of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh by more than two hours and 20 minutes, said that after the National Air Races, when better atmospheric conditions and more helpful winds may be pos-

Grand Opera Loss Half-Million in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull submitted a report to the guarantors of the Chicago Civic Opera Company today in which he said the "constantly increasing cost of producing grand opera" resulted in a loss of $558,528.26 for the 1929-1930 season in spite of an "entirely satisfactory" increase in receipts.

Insull, president of the opera company, said receipts for the last season were $1,230,224.67 and that the season was "memorably and more than usually brilliant and successfull because the performances were given in the civic opera house built especially for the company."

LOTTERY HEADS SHUN TRUCE

The "bulls" and the "bears" of the "numbers" lottery, who have reduced their sure-thing racket to a proposition not quite so sure by employing a varied scale of odds, were still fighting for supremacy today. None was killed.

The "bulls," conservative "numbers" operators who have stuck to the old custom of paying 600-to-1, revealed a little better financial statement, than did the "bears," who have reduced the odds to 500-to-1.

"BEARS" WAIL

Scouts says the "bulls" are plentiful in the downtown and Hill districts, while the "bears" are mostly in evidence in the North Side, Lawrenceville, Oakland and Haselwood districts.

The casualties were greatest among the North Side "bears." A loud wail was heard there this morning from the big operators whose records reveal not only a loss of customers, but also a shortage of bookies.

The bookies, whose percentages have also been cut by the reduction of odds, have taken their trade to districts where the "bulls" are in evidence. A big pool depends on its bookmakers, so it looks like a sure-thing victory for the "bulls."

FORFEITS BOND

Andrew J. Claudius, 32, alleged proprietor of an establishment at 907 Braddock avenue, forfeited $105, and nine visitors forfeited $15 each this morning when they failed to appear for a hearing before Burgess James H. Rose, of Braddock.

CLEAN LIPTON BOAT FOR RACE

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Seared with the flying salt of Old Man Ocean, scarred, scored and battered, the good ship Shamrock, fifth of her line to challenge for the America's Cup, will be sent to the cleaners today.

This is a way of saying that she will be hauled out in a local shipyard, where the cleaners will endeavor to erase the marks of one of the toughest sea fights any challenger for the historic mug has had in the last three-quarters of a century.

Col. Duncan S. Neill, general manager of Sir Thomas Lipton's expeditionary forces, said he expects to have the green-hulled challenger under her racing rig, and out on the cup courses off Newport by the end of the week.

Frost in Mercer Ruins Buckwheat

GREENVILLE, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Buckwheat crops on five farms in the vicinity of Shakleyville were killed and corn was damaged by frost early today. Temperatures ranged near 32 degrees. The frost was the second in Mercer County this week. Reports from farming communities said there had been frosts every month this summer in Mercer County.

Vardaman's Widow Follows in Death

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Mrs. James K. Vardaman, 76, widow of the former Governor and Senator from Mississippi, died here yesterday, less than two months after the death of her husband.

WOMAN SEEKS PIRATE 'FARM'

Vice President Sam Dreyfuss, of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, which is interested in the control of the Wichita Baseball club of the Western League, today verified a report from Wichita to the effect that Mrs. Lucille Thomas, of Tulsa, was negotiating for the purchase of the Wichita franchise.

Dreyfuss added that while he knew a deal was in the making, its completion would have to be transacted by the Wichita club officials. The town is used by the Pirates as a "farm" for promising young diamond performers.

Mrs. Thomas, it is understood, has offered $30,000 for the Wichita club, now leading the Western League. Should the deal be consummated, she would become the second woman owner of a baseball club, the other being Miss Florence Killilea, of the Milwaukee club, of the American Association.

Two More Ballot Boxes Impounded

The ballot boxes of the seventh and thirty-seventh districts of the Nineteenth Ward were brought into the sheriff's office today for recount. The impounding of the boxes was asked in a petition filed by counsel for the Davis-Brown committee.

American Boy Killed By Autoist in France

COMPIEGNE, France, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Franklin Waller, Jr., 8-year-old son of Franklin Waller, former United States trade commissioner in Paris, was killed today by an automobile while bicycling in the Compiegne Forest.

STATES SCORE RELIEF PLANS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Pledging co-operation, but criticizing the Government's proposal to demand gilt-edged security on loans to drought-stricken farmers, governors of 12 hard-hit states, or their spokesmen, gathered around a conference table with President Hoover today to devise a relief program.

With entire communities pauperized in some states, the federal government must not only make immediate loans to farmers to save livestock, but must be prepared to suffer losses, three governors declared.

The first good rain since July 2 was falling in Washington as the governors met.

President Hoover was insistent

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 14.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The peace-time services of the Navy are very important. In exploration Admiral Peary was the first to reach the North Pole, while Admiral Byrd was the first to fly over both the North and South Poles. They increased the sum of human knowledge.

Calvin Coolidge.

In civil affairs, Admiral Bristol for years after the war was our high commissioner at Constantinople, winning great diplomatic distinction. The Marine Corps supplied Gen. Russell to serve long in Haiti, and Gen. Butler to go at a critical time to head the police at Philadelphia. The administration of certain insular possessions has been creditably discharged by the Navy Department. The naval observatory at Washington makes valuable contributions to pure and applied science.

But it is in time of great disaster like the Japanese earthquake or the San Francisco fire, that the ships, supplies and medical staff of the Navy make most conspicuous contributions. Such a service is never forgotten. Only recently it was the basis of a good will visit here of a Japanese delegation.

The organized talent and scientific skill of our Navy is a great reserve power for good.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Dancer, Woman Linked in Thefts

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Emmett McClellan, 22-year-old marathon dancer of Sandusky, O., and Mrs. Lena Farber, 26, wife of a convicted Indianapolis bootlegger, are being held by police today for authorities at Indianapolis where they are under indictment for alleged participation in 15 burglaries.

About $500 worth of alleged loot was recovered from their room in a fashionable hotel where they were arrested.

Charleroi Inventor, Solomon Gins, Dies

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 14.—Solomon Gins, 53, inventor of the Gins propeller to eliminate torque or drift in airplanes, died tonight in a Denver, Col., sanitarium, according to word received here today.

Gins, a retired merchant, also invented a widely used automobile glare shield. He is survived by his wife, long a patient in a Pittsburgh hospital, and two children.

Kingsford-Smith Out of Hospital

MIDDLEBURG, Holland, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith Australian trans-Atlantic flier, today had made such satisfactory progress in his recovery from a recent operation for appendicitis that he was able to leave the hospital and go to the home of Hendrik Willem Van Loon, the author, to complete his convalescence.

Bishop Darlington, Operated On, Dies

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The Rt. Rev. James H. Darlington, 74, bishop of the Harrisburg (Pa.) Protestant Episcopal diocese, died at the Kingston Hospital today. Bishop Darlington was brought here a week and a half ago from Lake Mohonk, and underwent a surgical operation. Death came at 5 a. m., today.

Pirates Call Off Game With Phillies

The Pirates-Phillies game scheduled at Forbes Field this afternoon was called off shortly before 3 p. m. on account of the soggy condition of the field.

Two games will be played tomorrow, beginning at 2 p. m.

Mystery Shrouds Return Of 'Enoch Arden' Wife

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The reappearance here of Mrs. Catherine Rockwell Packard, wife of George J. Packard, of Rutland, today had given her the role of a feminine Enoch Arden and had produced a mystery involving suicide or murder and mistaken identity, which officials sought to unravel.

Mrs. Packard disappeared more than a year ago from her Rutland home. In August, 1929, the body of a woman found in a Chester pasture was identified by Packard as that of his wife. With it was a note which read:

"I am sick of life and am going where I will be happy."

Last July 14, Packard married again. His second wife was Margaret L. MacFarland, of Rutland. On the same date, an insurance company refused to pay a policy held by the first wife.

Recently the supposedly dead Mrs. Packard appeared in Manchester, N. H. She explained that she had been "out west." She returned to Vermont Sunday.

Investigators said Mrs. Packard admitted having written the note found on the body of the dead woman, during a period of despondency. How another person obtained it, she could not explain.

After leaving her husband, Mrs. Packard said, she worked in a hospital at Springfield, Vt., and later went to Cleveland. Returning from Cleveland, she settled in Manchester, N. H.

Killing of Racketeer Trio Revealed as Officers Seek 'Bugs' Moran Near Lake

International News Service.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 14.—Three men were murdered near here today in a mysterious gang killing.

The victims were tentatively identified as Sammy Stein, notorious Kansas City underworld character and one of the band that held up the Home Trust Company of Kansas City during the Republican convention; Frank M. Coleman, also a gangster from Kansas City, and Butch Meyer, a St. Paul racketeer.

FOUND IN AUTO

The bodies of the three men were discovered this morning in an automobile near White Bear Lake, a summer resort near here. Gen. W. F. Rhinow, head of the State Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, discovered the bodies. He had been searching through the neighborhood for traces of George (Bugs) Moran, Chicago gangster who recently arrived here.

CHICAGO GANG KILLS 1

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 (INS).—Gang warfare after a lull following the Lingle and Zuta murders today had claimed another victim in the person of Danny Vallo, said by the police to have been a suspect in the St. Valentine's Day massacre.

Vallo was shot from a bush in front of a beer parlor in the heart of the business district of Niles Center, a suburb.

Miss Vera Wallace, a red-haired girl companion, saw Vallo crumple under a hail of shotgun slugs. He died shortly after being taken to a hospital in Evanston.

SECOND FLIER LINKS MINERS IN BOMBING

Aviator Admits He Brought First Airman and Union Agents Together—Held

MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—James Malone, 24, Duquoin (Ill.) aviator, admitted today, State's Attorney Fletcher Lewis announced, that he introduced Paul Montgomery, confessed pilot of an airplane that made a bombing raid on mining properties at Providence, Ky., last Monday, to two Kentucky miners accused of plotting and carrying out the raid.

Lewis said Sheriff R. Overby of Webster County, Kentucky, is expected here from Springfield, Ill., today with papers for Montgomery's extradition. Since both Montgomery and Malone were to be questioned further, return of Montgomery to the scene of the crime may be delayed until Saturday.

BOND RELEASE OPPOSED

Malone sought release on bond today, but authorities were opposing this action. The state's attorney was unable to say whether any charges would be filed against Malone.

Malone was arrested last night at Duquoin and was questioned here by county and government officials until an early hour today.

Lewis said today that Essel Grant, president of a local union at Clay County, Ky., and Ewing Riley, of Providence, were arrested last night on the strength of Montgomery's confession naming them as the two men who accompanied him in his flight over the Kentucky fields.

Montgomery said, according to Lewis, that Grant and Riley tossed out the nine bombs which threw the coal field into an uproar, but did no actual damage.

Five miners from Zeigler, Ill., brought here for questioning by Franklin county authorities last night, were released today when they were unable to throw any additional light on the bombing.

MINE PROPERTY FIRED

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Aug. 14 (AP.)—Arrests in Monday's air raid on Webster County coal mines were followed today by a fire that destroyed the tipple of the Providence Coal Mining Company.

The fire, described by officials as incendiary, consumed a shed and the tipple and two coal cars on a siding. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

The blaze was laid to revenge for the arrests here late last night of Essell Grant, 35, and Ewing Riley, 20, in connection with the raid in which nine bombs were dropped from an airplane on mines in this vicinity. It was one of a series of disorders, which included the dynamiting yesterday of an Illinois Central Railroad trestle.

EDDIE CANTOR, COMEDIAN, ARRIVING IN PITTSBURGH TODAY

KEEN FIGHTS AHEAD FOR SENATE

Norris, Pine, McCulloch and Heflin to Face Spirited Opposition; Dry Issue Up

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Four Senatorial battles will engage public interest next November, it appeared today, as a result of Tuesday's primaries.

The quartet of contests will find Senator George W. Norris, (Rep.), matched against former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, (Dem.), in Nebraska; Senator William B. Pine, (Rep.), oil millionaire, opposing former Senator Thomas P. Gore, the blind Democrat, in Oklahoma; Senator Roscoe McCulloch, (Rep.), against Robert J. Bulkley, (Dem.), in Ohio, and Senator Thomas J. Heflin, repudiated by his state party, fighting for another term against John H. Bankhead, the regular Democratic nominee, in Alabama.

The Ohio contest will be fought on the prohibition issue, since Bulkley is anti-dry and McCulloch the reverse. In the other states all the nominees are classed as drys.

NEBRASKA TO BE CLOSE

The defection of Norris in 1928, when he supported Alfred E. Smith for president, alone will make the Nebraska contest close. Some Republican regulars have declared they will bolt Norris in November, but Senator Simeon D. Fess, the new Republican national chairman, has said his organization will support the Nebraska insurgent.

The light vote polled by Norris and by the whole Republican ticket in Nebraska's primary throws some doubt on the outcome. The vote Tuesday was less than 200,000, compared with 345,000 given Hoover in 1928, or even the 274,000 Norris drew when re-elected in 1924. On the other hand, Nebraska Democracy has seldom exceeded a strength of 200,000 votes, and Hitchcock drew only 148,000 when defeated for re-election in 1922.

GORE SEEN AS FAVORITE

The Oklahoma race may be close, with Gore likely to be the favorite. For one thing, the Democrats got out a 335,000 vote in Tuesday's primary, one of the largest ever recorded in Oklahoma.

In Ohio, it will be difficult to choose a favorite until the campaign gets under way. While Bulkley ran far ahead of his opponents in the senatorial primary, the Democrats at the same time nominated a dry, George D. White, for governor. The drys also point out that three dry candidates for the senatorial nomination drew 12,000 to 15,000 more votes than the two anti-drys.

The Alabama contest between Heflin and Bankhead will be close, if Tuesday's results mean anything. The vote in the senatorial primary, about 125,000, was about 20 per cent less than the total cast for state offices. This, apparently, indicated many voters obeyed Heflin's injunction not to participate in the primary.

DROUGHT HITS RIVER TRAFFIC

If the present drought continues, navigation will come almost to a standstill in this district, the rivers being extremely low, George S. Davison, president of the Pittsburgh Flood Commission, stated in a letter to Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of the United States Army Engineers.

Davison, in his letter, points out that the advantages of a system of flood control reservoirs in putting to use during drought periods the flood waters which not only go to waste but cause millions of dollars damage. The letter is a supplementary statement to the commission's former comment on the first report of Army engineers on flood control for the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers.

If an adequate water supply could be assured at all times through the use of storage reservoirs, there would be no slowing up of river traffic. If rivers could be replenished during the dry seasons with water stored in flood seasons, the difficulty of obtaining drinking water at low cost would be reduced and manufacturing plants would be able to use river water, which at low stages now is harmful to machinery.

that local communities must cooperate in the relief program. His major proposal was the immediate establishment of a drought-relief council of one representative from each of the 12 states.

Guarantee of loans by local organizations to provide feed for livestock, cooperation of the American Red Cross to prevent physical suffering and seed loans to enable farmers to plant crops next year all are a part of the program.

Among the critics of the announced plan of the Federal Farm Board to provide livestock feed through the Grain Stabilization Corporation, with the loans guaranteed by local cooperatives or community organizations, were Governors Emmerson, of Illinois, Leslie, of Indiana and Hammill, of Iowa.

They declared that this policy would not meet the situation—that where farmers have ample security or bankers and merchants will back them, they can get loans from local institutions.

Gov. Erickson, of Montana, urged the Farm Board to buy up feeder cattle at a reasonable price, to prevent forced sales by farmers.

The governors reported that the drought situation is extremely bad in some sections, but in few instances are entire states hit.

Greater areas were reported affected in Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia, which perhaps had suffered more than any other states in the drought.

An increase in federal road building is to be urged at the conference as one means of providing employment for farmers who have lost all in the drought.

Weather Conditions.

A trough of low pressure extending from the lake region southwestward to eastern Texas and Arizona, with centers north of the lakes and over Kansas has caused showers over the Ohio Valley, the lake region, the Central Mississippi Valley and Central Plains states during the past 24 hours. Showers have also occurred in the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions of the plateau region in many places they have been sufficient to break the drouth of over a month's duration.

It is somewhat warmer in Virginia and the Carolinas and slightly cooler in the Rocky Mountains and the plateau region.

River Conditions.

Light rain occurred over the Upper Allegheny and moderate rain over the Lower Allegheny, the Monongahela and Upper Ohio during last night. The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is 9.3 feet. Lock No. 7, 9.4; Pittsburgh, 9.4; Dam No. 4, 5.0; Dam No. 6, 7.5; Dam No. 8, 7.9, and Dam No. 12, 3.9. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

The eastern high extends along the North Atlantic coast with much similar pressure and a trough of low pressure extends from the lakes southwestward in Western Texas with centers north of the lakes and over Kansas. Overcast weather prevails over Pennsylvania and eastward to the coast, with showers in progress at Rutherford and Harrisburg. No ceiling was reported less than 2,000 feet and no visibility less than two miles over the district between Harrisburg and Chicago; winds were light and variable mostly southeast or south and haze or smoke were general. Westward over the district clear weather or scattered cloud was obtained.

Flying weather will improve somewhat this afternoon and tonight, with broken to scattered cloudiness at times; visibility will be about four miles; winds east or southeast and light; temperatures will change but little, with the tendency upward.

HAWKS TO SEEK NEW RECORD

AIMS AT LOWER MARK

Hawkes said he was confident he could lower his record spurt from coast to coast. He declared:

"At no time during the flight yesterday was my engine opened wide. Flying conditions were almost perfect. I first had the moon to fly by on leaving Los Angeles, and then the sun. I struck a little rain near St. Louis, but soon came into clear weather again."

NEVER UNDER 200

His Whirlwind-powered Travel-air plane never dropped below a speed of 200 miles an hour, he said.

Hawks left Los Angeles at 6:16:27 a. m., New York time, and arrived at his goal here at 6:41:30 p. m. He halted for fuel at Albuquerque, Wichita and Indianapolis, stopping about 15 minutes each time.

At times Hawks flew at more than 10,000 feet.

As soon as his plane is overhauled, he will fly to Chicago to participate in the National Air Races late this month.

Only a week ago Hawks took off from New York and flew west in 14 hours, 50 minutes and 43 seconds, beating the record for the westward flight made by Capt. Roscoe Turner by more than four hours. He now holds both the eastward and westward records.

LEWIS E. WHITE DIES IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—After an illness of only four days, Lewis Emory White, 36, formerly of Butler, Pa., director of seed loans for the Department of Agriculture, died yesterday at his home here in the Cavalier Hotel.

Stricken with septic poisoning caused by an infected boil, Mr. White weakened rapidly despite medical efforts to save his life.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Church of the Transfiguration, Washington, with burial in Rock Creek Cemetery, Washington.

Although Mr. White was in charge of national work in connection with seed loans, he was particularly active in southern and northwestern states. He maintained offices at Columbia, S. C., and Grand Forks, N. D.

CANTOR, HERE, WISECRACKS

Eddie Cantor, reputed to be the highest paid comedian of the stage and screen, was not in a wise-cracking mood when he arrived at the Pennsylvania Station today.

He said:

"Let me get my ham and eggs before I do any talking."

Later, his appetite appeased at the William Penn Hotel, he waxed more communicative:

"Glad I brought some rain to this city, glad to be back among many old friends, glad to be in a town where they appreciate my efforts. I always get good crowds here. Glad to see my old pal, Gene Morgan (master of ceremonies at the Stanley Theater). We used to work on the stage together out in California."

Cantor went to the Stanley after breakfast for his morning rehearsal. He will appear for a week in the stage show.

Rat-Killing Dogs Turn on Pigs, Too

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Here's a conundrum facing the city fathers. Pigs on Riker's Island, where there is a city dump, are being killed by ferocious dogs kept on the island to kill equally ferocious rats. Employes refuse to go on the island unless accompanied by the dogs. One suggested solution is that a fence be built to protect the pigs.

Files for Judgeship; There's No Vacancy

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—There was only one thing wrong with the election petition filed by Max Cohen, veteran campaigner who has never won an election. He filed as Socialist candidate for county judge, but there's no vacancy. However, Cohen said he would file another petition for something else.

R-100 SPEEDING TOWARD SEA

mooring mast here so graceful that experienced observers lauded it as the "smoothest in history," the R-100 started towards the North Atlantic on its journey home to England.

The airship's visit to Canada terminated at 9:26 p. m., Eastern daylight time, last night, when she leaped ahead of her scheduled departure by nearly half an hour and with no more than a gentle swing and a faint rattle of mooring clamps slipped into the air and pointed her nose upward.

Gray in the reflected light of motor cars and spotlights, the largest and fastest air queen of the world swung eastward and within eight minutes had disappeared. Three of her six engines roared au revoir to Canada. The 13 newspapermen and official Canadian government observers aboard as passengers peered down into the faces of thousands of cheering persons. Below them, momentarily, they spied a huge square canvas on the grass with large gold letters flooded by searchlights:

"R-100—bon voyage—Canada," the sign fairly shouted.

Manned by her tested crew of 44 men commanded by Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, hopes remained high at the start of the hazardous 3,400-mile journey that a record return trip to Cardington would be achieved. The officers promised to bring her back to Canada as soon as the snow clears next spring.

WINDS FAVORABLE

With favorable tailwinds prevailing over the course, the officers expected to moor at Cardington sometime Saturday morning, or after a flight of approximately 48 hours. She headed straight for the St. Lawrence valley after circling the city and airfield, soaring over Quebec shortly before midnight.

The British government forbade the airship to carry freight or paying passengers, although she is capable of lifting 56 tons, approximately the weight of the average locomotive. Mail packages amounting in revenue to $500,000 were available if wanted, it was learned.

The dirigible arrived in Canada August 1 after a three-day flight across the Atlantic. Two hundred miles from her destination she encountered terrific squalls and vertical currents which tossed her up and down in the air like a toy balloon, springing a bad tear in the fabric on her port stabilizer fin.

Government Shows $214,518,952 Deficit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A deficit of $214,518,952 in the cost of operating the Government from July 1 to August 12 was indicated today in the Treasury's daily statement.

The deficit, however, was $2,558,768 less than that for the same period last year. It probably will be wiped out when the next instalment of the 1929 income tax is received, by September 15. About $400,000,000 is expected then.

3,000 Will Attend Missions Conclave

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—More than 3,000 missionaries and Methodist women, from all over the world, are expected here for the sixty-first general session of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, the week of Oct. 23-28.

New Census Figures Add to Cities' Gain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Those two new arrivals among cities numbering more than a million—Los Angeles and Detroit—were both augmented by today's announcements of Census Bureau revisions.

Detroit's new total was set at 1,573,985, an increase of 9,599 over the figure previously announced. Los Angeles was given 1,233,561, which was 1,831 higher than the earlier total.

Dry Sleuths Invade Hard Coal Region

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—In the biggest concentrated liquor drive ever staged against roadhouses and other drinking emporiums in the anthracite regions, federal prohibition agents last night swept down on more than 20 establishments in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties. Sixteen persons, two of whom are women, were arrested and released under bonds for further hearings today.

Weather Balks Legge Flying to Conference

ALTOONA, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Weather conditions prevented Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, from making the trip from Altoona to Washington by airplane in time for the Hoover drought conference today.

Chairman Legge arrived here by train at 11:09 a. m. (Pittsburgh time). An Army plane was ready at Stultz Field to carry him to the capital, but the Farm Board head remained on the train.

Chicago Water Plea Made by Governor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Gov. Lewis L. Emmerson, of Illinois, appealed today to Secretary Hurley to permit an increase in the flow of water from Lake Michigan into the Chicago river.

Boys Up Tree and on Bike Just Let It Rain

The four tree sitters and the three bicycle riders, endurance contestants, of Brushton and Morningside, were still continuing toward their respective goals today despite the long-awaited showers.

The Gravely boys, Robert, James and Lawrence, with their cousin, Samuel King, were aroused early this morning by the pattering of raindrops on their tents, pitched high in the branches of two trees in the rear of 631 Sickles street, Lawrence related.

"We just got up and drew the entrance shut and went back to sleep again. A little thing like rain doesn't bother us. We've been up here for 718 hours, and we're going to stay up here."

The rain started while Al Slutzky, one of the three endurance bicyclers, was doing his bit early this morning. One of his partners, Irwin Pittler, rushed him a slicker and fisherman's hat, and Al continued on his way.

The two boys, together with Danny Auslander, have completed their ninth day of continuous pedaling, and are determined to pump on until September.

R-100 Passengers Enjoy Hearty Breakfast

(Copyright, by International News Service, 1930.)

ABROAD THE R-100, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—The splendor of a breaking dawn over the gulf of St. Lawrence today rewarded the eager, adventure-enthused passengers on board this giant craft, now fast approaching Newfoundland and the open sea.

The great ship slipped away from the 200-foot mooring mast at Montreal with hardly more than a slight tremble. A myriad of lights, a flood-lighted airfield and then the dark horizon as the R-100 plunged away into the night. Many passengers, a good many of them newspaper men on their maiden airship trip, sat up deep into the night to gratify a long-sought desire for new thrills, but all were up before dawn gazing down at the dark patches of land that seemed like squared-off blotches beneath a thin layer of mist.

A hearty breakfast, consisting, among other servings, of ham and eggs and steaming coffee, dispelled all thoughts of the biting cold outside, and only the morning smokes were lacking. Matches and tobacco are not allowed here.

The airship has the appearance of a craft decorated for a "battle of flowers." Its cabins and salon are stocked with beautiful blooms, including a box of flowers being taken to England for presentation to Buckingham Palace.

While passing over Quebec, the passengers solemnly toasted that former dry city with whisky and soda.

Endurance Fliers Going Strong in 600th-Hour Period

STILL INSIST GOAL WILL BE 1,000

Prospects of Rich Reward Buoy Up Jackson, O'Brine As They Start 25th Day

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD.
International News Service.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—One thousand hours in the air—such was the sky saga which two ambitious young pilots here today were attempting to write in the clouds with their endurance plane, the Greater St. Louis.

Although this astounding goal might have been viewed as fiction material two years ago, it is considered by many solid thinkers on aviation matters here now as a possibility.

Jackson and O'Brine, who have been in constant communion with the clouds longer than any other aviators in the history of the world, and who, yesterday, regained their coveted title of world champion endurance fliers, held by the Hunter brothers with their mark of 553 hours in the City of Chicago, today were rapidly nearing the 600-hour mark toward their 1,000-hour goal.

They started their twenty-fifth day in the air with their Challenger engine apparently running as smoothly as the mechanism of Jackson's watch. The human side of the equation also seemed in as good shape as the motor part. Both Jackson and O'Brine, buoyed up by the hundreds of congratulatory telegrams, which pour in upon them, and by the monetary rewards now certain to bless their cause none too financially sound flight, were in excellent spirits today. Jackson declared:

"We are good for a year."

LONELINESS BEHIND TRY AT SUICIDE

Actress Charges Warner Took Advantage of Her to Obtain Baby and Fortune

By JIM MITCHELL
Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Slowly recovering today from her suicide attempt of Tuesday night, Lina Basquette, motion picture actress and premiere danseuse, set about re-opening the legal proceedings by which her former brother-in-law, Harry M. Warner, procured control of Miss Basquette's four-year-old daughter Lita, and the baby's immense fortune.

It was loneliness for her baby, coupled with the momentary apprehension that she might never see her daughter again that drove her to drink a solution of carbolic acid, Miss Basquette said last night.

She was back home again in her Wilshire boulevard apartment, where she had attempted to kill herself at the end of a gay party.

TELLS HER STORY

Wan and exhausted, just emerging from a state of collapse, Miss Basquette related the story of her struggles to regain custody of the daughter taken from her, she said, by misrepresentation.

The Warners—Harry, president of the $178,000,000 Warner Brothers Company, and his wife—induced her, she declared, to let them be appointed legal guardians of Lita, daughter of Miss Basquette and her first husband, the late Sam Warner.

The consideration was the establishment of a trust fund of $300,000 in favor of the child, a small share of the immense Warner fortune.

Miss Basquette said:

"I was to see my baby at any time and I was to have her with me whenever I wanted to.

"But they took her away to New York. She didn't want to go. She wanted to be with me. They promised they would send her back this summer, but the days have gone by and she is not here.

"They have put me off a week at a time—10 days—two weeks—promising—but they do not send my baby.

"Why do they do this to me?

"They have simply driven me crazy!

GOING TO FIGHT

"But I'm going to have my baby back. I've called my lawyer and asked him to come to see me. Just as soon as I can get on my feet I'm going to start fighting.

"I can't do anything about the estate Sam Warner left. I was only 19 years old when he died and perhaps I listened to the wrong advice. I failed to take advantage of my rights.

"Later, when I did consider doing something about it, I learned it was too late.

"A widow, I was informed, could not sue for a larger portion of her husband's estate after a year had elapsed.

"Mr. Warner had left a trust fund for the baby, but the income from that was only $85 a week.

"When the other Warners offered to settle $300,000 upon her I agreed to their appointment as guardians.

"Now I don't know what they are teaching her. They probably are telling her that her mother is the most terrible woman in the world.

"That's why I drank poison. I felt so depressed—the futility of fighting them and their immense wealth. I just suddenly became afraid I would never see my baby again."

PINCHOT'S AIDE FILES BRIEFS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Deputy Attorney General William A. Schnader, chief of Gifford Pinchot's legal staff in the dispute over the use of perforated ballots at the May primary in Luzerne county, today filed in the supreme court here briefs in support of Pinchot's plurality in the county.

Yesterday Schnader filed briefs on motions to quash the appeals of Francis Shunk Brown on the grounds of want of jurisdiction.

Today's briefs discuss the decision of the Luzerne county court of common pleas in dismissing the appeal of Abram Salsburg, a Brown supporter, who was unsuccessful in his attempt to to have the county commissioners withhold the Luzerne primary vote which gave Pinchot a 26,000 plurality in the county over Brown.

The Pinchot briefs upholding the use of perforated paper ballots in 372 election districts of Luzerne county by order of the county court, contain many citations of previous decisions which, it is asserted, have a direct bearing on the case and show that the lower court acted properly in declining to take jurisdiction after the county commissioners decided to certify the vote to the secretary of the commonwealth.

BOY AVIATOR OVERDUE

PORT COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 14.—(INS)—Although the young flier was long overdue at noon today, airport officials expressed the belief that Edward Schneider, 18, who is seeking a new junior transcontinental flight record, is safe and probably flying a circuitous route to avoid bad weather.

Bad weather and a low ceiling prevailed between here and Pittsburgh, and flying conditions were not much better west of here. Schneider's backers wired from Westfield Airport, N. J., the starting point, for the local airport to have fuel awaiting the young flier.

5 ON PLANE AT SEA TOWED IN

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Hampton Roads naval air station was advised today that the giant naval seaplane PN-12, with a crew of five men, was picked up off the South Carolina coast by a passing steamer and towed safely to Winyan Bay this morning after a night on the open Atlantic.

The PN-12 left the naval air station early yesterday for Fernandina, Fla., but was forced down by motor trouble. The airship was in command of Lieut. Commander H. T. Bartlett, executive officer of the air base.

Other members of the crew were Lieut. L. W. Curtin, Chief Aviation Pilot Clark, Aviation Chief Machinists Mate Russell, and Chief Radio Man Jacks.

WOMAN SHOOTS SON-IN-LAW

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Attilis, 40, shot to death James Cassidy, 48, today, when he called at her home to tell her he had married her 18-year-old daughter, Rose. The girl collapsed as her mother fired the shot.

Cassidy had been boarding at the home of Mrs. Attilis. She told police she did not suspect his attachment for her daughter until they left her house yesterday. The pistol was one she kept in her room as a protection against burglars.

Cuba Ships Sugar To Soviet Russia

HAVANA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The steamer Fernhill has sailed from Cienfuegos with 48,513 sacks of sugar containing 325 pounds each destined to Russia for Soviet consumption. It was one of the largest consignments to Russia this year.

Jewelry Bandits Make $20,000 Haul

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Four men today held up a jewelry store in Brooklyn and escaped with $20,000 worth of merchandise, police reported.

Three men entered the store and forced K. Yasnor, the proprietor, and his son into a back room while they ransacked the place of most of the jewelry of any value, and departed with the fourth man, who had guarded the door, police were told.

Woman, Kin of 22 Soldiers, Succumbs

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Jane Stow, 90, among whose relatives there were 22 men who fought in the Civil and World Wars, died today. She had five brothers in the Civil War and 17 grandsons in the World War.

ASK COUNCIL TO AIRPORT PARLEY

Members of the City Council have been asked to join with the County Commissioners in a hearing on the County Airport at 11:30 a. m. Monday. The invitation was sent in a letter addressed by Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong of the commissioners, to President of Council John S. Herron.

In the letter, Armstrong requested the presence of the entire council. If all members can not all be present, he said it is essential that Herron and W. Y. English, chairman of the finance committee, be on hand to hear complaints and discussion.

Armstrong stressed the fact the city has an investment of $500,000 in the land and construction work on the airport.

FARMER KILLS 2 STEALING CROP

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Victims of "hard times," Elmer Tilton, 45, and his son, Louis, 17, were shot to death on a farm near here today while stealing potatoes to provide food for the elder Tilton's wife and his six other children. The head of the family had been out of work seven months.

The father and son were shot by Lester Coy, 23, whose father is blind, and who has been farming single-handed, with the additional handicap of frequent losses by crop thieves. After working all day, young Coy had found it necessary to stay up nights to guard his crops.

'PETE' IS RUM'S MYSTERY MAN

Judge Harry H. Rowand is anxious to learn who "Pete" is. He said he might consider a parole for George Geberkff, 30, of 71 Patton street, when the latter pleaded guilty today to violating the Snyder act, if he would throw light on the identity of "Pete," for whom Geberkff said he sold moonshine.

The court said:

"About 10 defendants have come in here in the last year with the same story—working for "Pete"—but no one seems to know who he is."

Geberkff assured the court he didn't know. He was sentenced to four months in the workhouse. Federal dry agents seized 70 pints of moonshine in a raid on his place August 5, it was testified.

HELD IN HOLDUP OF BARBECUE

Hearings for the six youths arrested in connection with the attempted holdup of Mrs. Elizabeth Sheppard's barbeque at 1568 Banksville road was continued today when witnesses failed to appear against them in Morals Court.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of these witnesses.

The screams of women patrons scared away the six youths who had entered the barbeque early this morning, flashed revolvers and muttered death threats to James Martini, 17, of 1230 Dagmar avenue, and James Mannitti, 19, of 1428 Meythyl avenue.

The frightened girl companions of Martini and Minitti screamed and the youths fled in a waiting machine.

Motorcycle Patrolman E. A. Johnston was summoned and arrested six youths in the vicinity after a chase.

The youths were lodged in the West End Police Station, where they said they were Michael Staub, 18, of 1613 Ream street; Henry Figdor, 18, of 1312 Liverpool street; Vincent Dixon, 17, of 1508 Nixon street; Frank Warnock, 19, of 1630 Alverado street; William Musch, 19, and his brother, George, of 1716 Metropolitan street.

FREEDOM DASH FRUSTRATED

A prisoner, sentenced to jail, broke away from his tipstaff escort in the courthouse today in a vain dash for freedom, and was captured after he had fled down three flights of stairs.

The prisoner is George Babagello, 22, of Maingate street. He dashed for freedom after Judge T. C. Jones ordered him to jail until he could post $500 bond to insure his payment of alimony to his wife, Agnes and their 17-months old baby.

As he was being led from the courtroom he broke a tipstaff's grip and bolted. A pedestrian on the second floor, hearing the tipstaff's cries, collared Babagello. He was taken to jail.

Williams Believed Ready for Sea Hop

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Roger O. Williams, who with Capt. Lewis A. Yancey flew to Spain last summer, today telegraphed Capt. Harry Jones, in charge of a hanger here, that he would "arrive today." Williams did not divulge his intentions, but it was believed he was planning to take off from here on a trans-Atlantic flight.

2 BOYS VICTIMS OF HUT FIRE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Two 14-year-old boys, who slept in a small hut in preparation for a berry-picking expedition were burned to death early today.

The victims were John Bookhart and John Kitka. Mrs. Bookhart, mother of the boy, was burned on the hands, head and feet when she attempted to save the pair.

Mrs. Bookhart was awakened in her home near the boys' shack and found the small building in flames. Both of the charred bodies were found in the ruins later. The fire was believed to have started when a small heating stove overturned.

Youth Dies, Pal Hurt Avoiding Collision

DOVER, O., Aug. 14.—One youth was killed and his companion seriously injured when they ditched their speeding roadster to avoid collision with a passenger train on the Millersburg road, six miles from here. Bruce Wallick, 19, of Parral, died in the Union Hospital following the accident. Roland Beaber, 23, of Dover, the driver, is in the hospital.

Detroit Gangs Kill Another, Their 15th

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Detroit's fifteenth gangland slaying in 40 days occurred here today as preparations were completed for a 23-man grand jury investigation of crime conditions and the slaying of Gerald E. Buckley, crime-crusading radio announcer.

The guns of the underworld had been dormant since the murder of the radio man July 23. They barked again when Genaro Mangipani, 31, a fugitive from New York, was shot and killed while driving his automobile.

Wales Downed in Air 'War,' Identity Shocks Aces

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Hardened British air veterans were biting moustaches nervously today following their shock on discovering that the "enemy bomber" vengefully pursued by six fighters during air maneuvers yesterday carried His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

The pursuing planes, intent on forcing the "enemy" machine out of the combat, swooped repeatedly past the Royal plane, at times coming within a few feet of a collision.

When the Prince's ship was finally forced to land, one of the more persistent pursuers dipped dangerously close to it to make sure that the bomber was out of action.

The Prince then stepped out of the machine, paralyzing astounded officials with the shock of seeing the Royal heir come out of a plane that had came close to a disastrous crash.

He smiled, and admitted he had received the thrill of his life.

The six fighters who so valiantly defeated the enemy were unfromed of the identity of the second occupant of the machine until late in the evening.

The prince, who had taken a keen interest in the air exercises, quietly joined Squadron Leader D. S. Don at the start of the mimic battle and both went aloft to observe the action. Then the six fighting planes mistook the lone machine for an enemy bomber and offered battle, taking dangerous risks to force the bomber down.

Hub Airman Plans Round-Trip Sea Hop

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—In the hope of being the first airman to span the Atlantic both ways by air, Russel N. Boardman, nationally-known aviator, will take off from Boston early in September on a proposed round-trip trans-Atlantic flight, it was announced today.

Under his plans, Boardman will hop from the East Boston Airport to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. From there the route to Dublin, Ireland, after which London, Paris, Brussels and Rome follow on the schedule.

Planeless Aviation Party For Hoover Week-End

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—President Hoover has planned an aviation party without airplanes for the week-end trip to his lodge in the Virginia mountains.

Charles A. Lindbergh and four government officials handling aviation matters are to accompany the President to discuss with him various flying problems.

Lindbergh had arranged to fly to Washington late today to receive tomorrow from President Hoover the special medal voted to him by Congress in 1928. Mrs. Lindbergh will accompany him.

In addition Mr. Hoover's party is to include: F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation; David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the Navy for aviation; Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, and W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general in charge of the mails.

PINNED INSIDE CAR

Mrs. Humphreys, a passenger in a machine driven by A. E. Agers of 622 Elrena street, was pinned in the car when it upset after sideswiping that driven by C. J. Brenda of 420 Oberlin street according to the police.

Marian Obradovich, 7, of 1840 Bedford avenue, was in the Passavant Hospital today with injuries suffered when she was struck by a hit-and-run motorist in front of her home yesterday. She is the daughter of Policeman J. Obradovich.

Charged with being the driver of an automobile which failed to stop after colliding with another at Homewood avenue and Kelly street early yesterday, J. P. Gelston, 35, of 217 Plymouth street, was lodged in the East End station last night, police said.

TWO HURT IN CRASH

Two passengers in the other car, Mrs. Nora Bocua, of 1516 Westmoreland street, and A. Kunis, of 1517 Electric avenue, North Braddock, who were cut and bruised in the crash, were treated at the Pittsburgh Hospital according to police.

Dr. A. M. Barton, 99, of 106 East Ninth avenue, Homestead, one of the oldest practicing physicians in West Pennsylvania, was in Homestead Hospital today with a skull fracture as the result of being hit by an automobile at Eighth avenue and Amity street, Homestead, late yesterday.

Edmund S. Crost, of Turtlesburg, whose machine is alleged to have struck Barton, was held by Homestead police.

OPEN NEW DRIVE ON AFRIDIS

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A special military expedition of considerable dimensions was understood here today to be headed toward the Peshawar northwest frontier district in consequence of apparent official resolve to suppress continued tribal unrest there.

Reports from Lahore said that a large body of troops, numbering among them infantry, cavalry and air force, had been dispatched to Peshawar. Armored cars, which accompanied the troops, were expected to see service in routing the last of the marauding Afridis from the endangered area.

An airplane squadron left Lahore Wednesday, probably for Risalpur, which is headquarters for the northwest frontier air force.

The movement was taken generally as indicating the authorities regarded the tribal upheaval as continuing serious notwithstanding the improved situation at Peshawar.

Klan Plans Program At Carnegie Park

The Ku Klux Klan will hold a demonstration in Carnegie Park, Campbell's Run road, Saturday, August 30. There will be an admission fee, and the program will include an athletic program, speaking and fireworks. Among the speakers are Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard; Dr. Herbert C. Shaw, grand dragon, and Miss Martha Turnley, imperial representative.

Typhoon Sweeps 20 To Death in Japan

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Twenty workmen were swept to their death when a typhoon struck the Kiushiu region of Southern Japan Tuesday, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tokio revealed today.

They were strengthening a dyke to prevent its collapse, and consequent flooding of the surrounding territory, when the fatal storm broke.

Mexico's Famous Cathedral to Open

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Mexico's national cathedral, known as one of the most beautiful buildings in the two Americas, built on the site of an Aztec temple for living sacrifices, will be reopened Friday after having been closed since the outbreak of the religious controversy in 1926.

Windstorm Whips Chile Coast Line

IQUIQUE, Chile, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A violent windstorm from the north yesterday swept this coast from Arica south, doing considerable damage. The area around Caleta was particularly hard hit, a number of houses and buildings being destroyed.

For 41 years, scowling Mr. Bryant worked for Charles Cottle, Amherst, Mass., "for $10 a week and board," but he was never paid, he says, in claiming $21,730 back salary. He'll take $15,000.

ARRAIGN THIEF IN SHOOTING

CRANSTON, R. I., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Daniel J. Dennis, who police say has confessed to the robbery of $42,000 worth of jewelry from the home of Col. Samuel Nicholson of Providence last January 8, will be arraigned here today on charges of assault with attempt to kill. The charges grew out of the shooting of Motorcycle Patrolman Henry R. Johnson who stopped Dennis for questioning Tuesday night.

Police are also investigating a story to the effect that Dennis was one of two men who killed a guard and trusty in an attempted jail break at the state prison last April.

Dennis admitted serving at the Ohio State Penitentiary from 1922 to 1927 for burglary. The story of a former fellow prisoner is being checked to determine the truth of an allegation that Dennis shot a Cleveland police officer in 1922.

Johnson, who was shot in the abdomen, is in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital in Providence.

Risks Life in Surf For Keg—Of Water

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Samuel Gordon sighted a beer keg 200 yards off Rockaway Beach and almost lost his life attempting to bring it in. When revived he tapped the keg. It was filled with water.

10 Arrests Made In Bradford Raids

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Ten persons were arrested in raids on six places by federal prohibition agents, state and county officers. Large quantities of liquor were seized.

YOUNG JOHN D. LEAGUE 'ANGEL'

GENEVA, Aug. 14.—(Universal Service)—John D. Rockefeller Jr., American oil magnate, has been the financial agent of the League of Nations, it was revealed today.

Since 1922 Rockefeller has given or pledged the League approximately $3,850,000. He has given nearly four-fifths of the monies the League has received from private American sources, which totaled almost $5,000,000 on July 1.

The largest Rockefeller donation was $1,000,000 in September 1927 for the League of Nations library.

Other American sources of the Leagues income include the Carnegie Corporation, National Committee on Legal Aid Work, American Social Hygiene Association, American Council on Education, the Woodrow Wilson Foundation and James J. Forstall.

The United States Government has paid about $25,000 as its share of expenses of League conferences. This sum is small compared to the amounts paid by large nations which are members of the League.

COUNTY RETAIL SALES SHOW BIG GAIN

Improvement This Autumn And Increased Volume in 1931 Seen by Statistician

Importance of Metropolitan Pittsburgh as a merchandising center is shown by a report published by H. W. Correll, statistician of the Chamber of Commerce, which reveals, during the past five years an increase of $46,248,330 in retail sales in Allegheny County.

At the close of the fiscal year, the latest figures available show retail sales here have climbed to $546,240,700, compared to $500,992,370 five years ago. This gain represents an increase of 8.2 per cent while wholesale mercantile returns show a gain of 4.3 per cent.

Mentioning that local business men are planning to care for increasing business in the fall, and that 1931 is seen as a year of decided uptrend in sales, the chamber statistician declared the business confidence in this district is justified on the basis that the 1,374,622 residents of the county have an invested wealth of $4,011,146,996.

Investments here in real estate, live stock, manufacturing machinery, railroads and equipments and motor vehicles, he said, amount to $4,916 per capita. Behind that reserve is the estimated normal payroll of $1,200,000,000 per year for all trades and professions in the city and county.

In the sales figures cited, which are based on records from the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs, the sales made by warehouses, local manufacturers, direct-selling organizations of coal mining companies, are not included.

CRISIS IMPENDS IN CHINA WAR

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—A crisis loomed in war-torn China today as three armed factions marched and countermarched their forces in juggling for new holds, with chaos following in their wake.

The Nanking government, its back against the wall, fighting stubbornly to repulse the onslaughts of the Northern revels, was dismayed by reports that peasants, in the vicinity of Nanking, were arming with the presumed intention of invading the defenseless capital city. Nearly every soldier has been taken out of Nanking and sent to other fronts, leaving the Nationalists powerless in case the Reds march into the city.

Continued war has wrecked the financial resources of the Nationalists, it was reported here, forcing the Nanking government to dismiss the employes in most of its departments in wholesale fashion.

The few kept on the payroll were retained at reduced salaries.

Young Flier Saves Life With Parachute

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Harry Ellis, 23, a transport student from Cairo, Ill., became a member of the Caterpillar Club when he parachuted to safety from his plane over Curtiss Field.

Ellis was doing an outside loop when the wings came off. He jumped and landed safely on the field. The plane crashed on the field runway.

Don't Buy Canned Foods Now For Winter At INFLATED PRICES!

This Season there will be MORE Canned Fruits Than Ever Before!

Compare Our Prices Below With Other Advertised Prices!

California has the greatest peach crop in its history. The Golden State will pack at least 5,500,000 more cases of peaches this year than last year—a phenomenal increase—which means low prices next winter.

The pineapple crop of the Hawaiian Islands is twenty-five per cent (25%) greater this year than last year. The new crop of this wonderful fruit will be priced lower than the old pack—buy your winter's supply later.

Quoting From The Wall Street Journal, August 8, 1930

"The pack of peas for the current season is now completed and it is estimated to be close to last year's pack of 18,530,000 cases, as compared with the average annual production of 16,987,000 for the past five years."

WOMAN DRY'S APPOINTMENT STIRS G. O. P.

Eastern Wing Resents First Fess Choice of W. C. T. U. Leader; May Rend Ranks

Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Rumblings of discontent echoed through Republican ranks today over the appointment of Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, an outstanding dry, as director of the women's division of the national committee.

Besides being national committee woman for West Virginia, Mrs. Yost is in charge of Washington Headquarters of the W. C. T. U.

As the first appointment of the new chairman Senator Simeon D. Fess, the elevation of Mrs. Yost to succeed Mrs. Louise M. Dodson, resigned, failed to register with the eastern wing of the party, which is generally anti-dry.

NOT PLEASING TO EAST

The prospect of a campaign being run by Fess and Mrs. Yost is anything but pleasing to party leaders in New York, New Jersey, Delaware and other states where the prohibition earmark is liable to spell defeat for Republican candidates.

When Fess was agreed upon as the successor to Claudius H. Huston it was generally understood that, despite his own dry record, no attempt would be made to make the Eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act a party issue.

ACCENTUATES DRYNESS

The appointment of Mrs. Yost accentuates the dryness of the Republican organization.

Her appointment will prove especially pleasing to the thousands of members of the W. C. T. U.

On the other hand, it may alienate large blocs of voters who resent any connection, official or unofficial, between the party machinery and a national dry organization.

ORGANIZE G. O. P. INDEPENDENTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (Universal).—An independent Republican party in the South will be launched shortly with headquarters at Atlanta, and a full list of permanent officers, Col. Horace Mann, of Tennessee, announced last night.

The plan, which virtually means the formation of a "third party," caused a stir of excitement in the capital.

While the Mann forces recently challenged the control of the Hoover administration south of the Mason-and-Dixon line, few believed that the insurrection would reach the status of a bolt.

Mann revealed that his followers have been meeting here for the past two days perfecting their plans. He said a charter would be applied for and that the Atlanta headquarters already had been leased.

The program calls for the immediate launching of an ambitious campaign by radio, literature and the press to educate the South in doctrines of the new group.

It stated the program includes the purchase of newspapers at "strategic points" in Southern states.

The platform of the new party indorses the protective tariff, opposes American participation in European leagues, favors restrictive immigration, and condemns recognition of Russia.

SAFETY WEEK PLANS PUSHED

Efforts are being made to make Pittsburgh's Safety Week one of the most intensive drives ever conducted in an American city, according to Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the local activities committee. The drive is planned for the week of September 29. It will be held in conjunction with the nineteenth annual Safety Congress, which is expected to bring more than 1,000 safety workers from many parts of the world to Pittsburgh. The plans for the campaign call for broadcast of the appeal "Stay Alive" over the district with posters for policemen, firemen, taxi drivers, motor truck drivers, elevator operators and others to wear; 10,000 armbands urging safety, and for an essay contest among school children.

Civilization Subject Of Park Address

A discussion of Ancient American civilization with reference to discoveries being made today in Central America, will be held tomorrow night at the West Park bandstand, North Side. Elder N. Andrew Olsen of Kimberly, Idaho, will speak under the auspices of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, for which organization he is mission lecturer.

East End Citizens Will Hold Rally

A general community rally of East End residents is planned at the annual outing of the Congregation B'Nai Israel, Negley avenue at Dells Grove, Wildwood Sunday. Invitations have been extended to members of other church congregations. Athletic events head the list of general entertainment arranged for the outing by Max Unger, chairman of the general committee.

Easy to keep hands lovely

"REAL FOLKS" Headliner

MISS VIRGINIA FARMER says that she has learned a delightfully simple way to keep her hands soft and smooth and she wants to tell you about it. You know, she plays the part of Aunt Martha Thompkins in the popular radio program "Real Folks" which is broadcast every Monday night at 9:30 over station WJZ or KDKA. Probably you've heard her friendly voice over the air. Now try her beauty suggestion:

Miss Farmer says: "I have found that there is nothing better than plain 'Vaseline' Petroleum Jelly to keep my hands in perfect condition. A light film of it applied after washing the hands is usually sufficient, but in case of chapping or special dryness I advise you to use it more generously at night and wear cotton or silk gloves to bed.

"Even one such treatment make the hands wonderfully soft and smooth. 'Vaseline' Jelly is fine for the manicure, too—keeps the cuticle smooth and unbroken. Do try it."

Now!—New Travel Prints That Can Be Washed

Of course, one would expect The Sunshine Corner to hit upon this clever idea! New frocks of travel prints in rich, dark autumn colorings, that can be washed as easily as the most summery tub silks.

We selected the patterns, and had them made up in models perfectly suited to each type of pattern—dressy ones in soft-type frocks, and tailored patterns in tailored frocks.

The foundation colors are bison brown, admiralty blue, marble green and wine tones. With designs in white, eggshell or bright shades.

The size range is 34 to 44 in all models, and in two of them there are half sizes for women of short stature.

Mayflower DRUG STORES—Owned and Operated by Pittsburghers

ADDING to Milady's beauty has become one of the nation's major industries. Today there are salons and parlors where expert hands tend to the setting of Madame's coiffure, where agile fingers knead Madame's face in an invigorating massage, where scientific preparations renew the beauty of the hungry skin. It is all-important that you seek out the more reliable of these shops. That you entrust your greatest asset—beauty—to experienced hands. Thus, we suggest that you patronize those establishments who advertise in the Sun-Telegraph. Their reputation is solid. They are the masters of their profession. So that you may easily use their messages as a guide, we have grouped them every Sunday in the Society Section of the Sun-Telegraph. In these masseurs, barbers and beauticians you may place the utmost confidence. They are Sun-Telegraph advertisers, and are endorsed by the Sun-Telegraph.

MURDER JURY VISITS ATTIC

LOS ANGELES Aug 14 — AP — The cross-examination of Otto Sanhuber "attic man" completed the jury hearing evidence against Mrs Walburga Oesterreich accused of slaying her husband eight years ago visited the scene of the crime late yesterday

The widow accompanying the jury gazed at the spot in the hallway where her husband Fred Oesterreich wealthy retired Milwaukee manufacturer was shot to death peered into the closet where she said burglars pushed her the night of the slaying and looked into the attic where Sanhuber lived a bat-like existence to be near her

Sanhuber was dismissed from the witness stand after almost three days of testimony during which he failed to name the slayer Afterward the state read Sanhuber's testimony before the grand jury in which he admitted firing the shots which killed Oesterreich

Sanhuber was convicted of manslaughter but was liberated because of a three-year statute of limitations

SMITH TO TALK IN CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The New York World says former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will make at least one speech over a nation-wide hookup during the coming congressional campaign. The date has not been set.

This will be in addition to speeches in New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and perhaps two other states.

Jouette Shouse, executive chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will formally open the campaign next Monday night in a speech broadcast from New York over a similar hookup. Shouse, who paused in New York on his way from Washington to Nantucket, said that based on all reports he had heard "the state leaders seem to be confident of gaining between 60 and 70 seats now held by the Republicans."

Ex-Penn Athlete Hero of War, Dies

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Thomas Butkiewicz, 55, former University of Pennsylvania athlete, died yesterday at Castle Point, N. Y. He was born in Wilkes-Barre. After a year at Princeton he entered Penn. He served during the World War with the Lafayette Escadrille and won numerous decorations.

In recent years Butkiewicz was assistant district attorney of Luzerne County and resided at Nanticoke.

Lord-in-Waiting To Victoria Dies

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—William Frederick Waldegrave, ninth earl of his name, died yesterday at the age of 79. He was lord-in-waiting to Queen Victoria almost continuously from 1886 to 1896 and was chief conservative whip in the House of Lords from 1896 to 1911.

The earl is succeeded in the peerage by his son, Viscount Chewton.

CREW OF FATAL PLANE CLEARED

STETTIN, Germany, Aug. 14—(AP.)—The Maritime Court which has been investigating capsizing of a Donner-Wahl flying boat in the Baltic Sea July 7, with consequent death of five passengers, found that officers of the flying boat were not guilty of not having done their utmost under the circumstances to rescue their passengers, but that the flying boat's life-saving equipment must be declared inadequate.

Two Americans lost their lives in the disaster, John L. Burkholder, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., and Miss Ruth Patricia Northrup, of Philadelphia. The other three to lose their lives were German passengers.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Robin Dale has a visitor a Miss Geraldine Knight. She tells him of the mysterious murder of Jack Sharon, a wealthy promoter. The crime took place at a mountain lodge. Dale drives there with Miss Knight. Upon arrival they are astounded when a shrieking woman runs toward their car in the moonlight. The lady is Mrs. Nash a guest, who said she was about to be killed. Dale learns of the strange, amatory relations of a number of the week-end guests at the lodge. Next morning he inspects the murder scene. It is a sandy beach adjoining a lake, but the only footprints in the sand are those of the murdered man. Dale inspects a tiny island in the lake. He finds a clue which he keeps to himself. The murder-shotgun is found in the lake. Dale drives to the village and entices the hardware shop-keeper to come forward and identify the person who bought shotgun shells the day of the murder.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER IV

"Chief Westervelt is inside, sir," Dale said, rising as the man mounted the porch steps.

The visitor went into the lodge and Dale followed. He listened to the old fellow tell what he knew. Westervelt was all action. He ordered everyone brought into the main room. They were soon assembled. Westervelt then asked the man from the hardware store if he could identify the party who bought the shells. Without hesitation the old storekeeper triumphantly pointed to Alan!

"You're under arrest!" thundered the police chief. "What's your name?"

"Arthur King," Alan answered. He took it coolly enough, but Dale saw that Geraldine had become agitated and that Milburn had gone to her side.

"Sorry, Jim, but it had to be done. Trust me, old boy," he whispered to Milburn. The answer was a tight, friendly pressure of the hand.

Suddenly another voice rang out. It was that of Lloyd Warren, Sharon's friend and attorney.

"I was going to keep silent about this, but as long as he's now under arrest I might better explain that Arthur King isn't his right name! Jack Sharon knew it, knew that the lad was really Alan Knight and had been stealing heavily from him for months!"

For the first time Alan showed animation.

"Sure I did! I'd have kept on until I had all the money Sharon, the dirty crook, stole from my Dad! It wasn't stealing! I was just getting back what belonged to us!"

Alan would have gone on but Geraldine went quickly to his side.

"Alan . . . Alan," she pleaded, "don't say anything more, please."

"Who are you?" demanded Westervelt.

"I'm Geraldine Knight . . . his sister."

"Oh, now we're beginning to make some progress . . . Oh, Johnson!" he called. The village policeman came forward. "Give me that piece of cloth . . . see this? It was found hanging to a nail at the cabin across the lake . . . somebody's dress got caught in hurrying out of the place. We were keepin' it under cover but it ain't no more use. Do you know whose dress it was?" He was glaring straight at Geraldine. "Yours!"

"That's quite possible . . . I was at the cabin Saturday night," Geraldine said quietly. Dale saw James Milburn advance to her side.

Mrs. Sharon on a lounge across the room began to sob. Warren approached and, in a low tone, comforted her.

"And I was there, too! If you must know," Milburn spoke sharply, "Sharon has forced Miss Knight into that appointment! I learned about it later and followed. I had a shot-gun, too, and would have killed him if I met him then. But I didn't . . . I found Miss Knight at the cabin but Sharon never got there."

Westervelt was a little bewildered by the swiftness of the unexpected testimony. He seemed to be searching for some intelligent question to ask. Prosecutor Bennett stepped into the breach.

"Where were you when this was going on," Bennett asked Alan Knight. There was a moment's silence.

"I went out to find Sharon and warn him. Oh, not that I cared what happened to Sharon, but I was afraid of what Jim might do. I was trying to protect him. But I couldn't find Sharon."

"Don't forget, young man, you're under arrest!" Westervelt chimed in. "And anything you say will be held against you."

Dale smiled. The police chief had undoubtedly been reading some detective fiction. Dale thought it was time to enter the controversy.

"But you can't arrest him. You can't prove he killed Mr. Sharon because you don't know how Mr. Sharon was killed."

"Do you?" blustered Westervelt for want of something better to say.

"Of course not—but I'm terribly curious about it."

"Why don't you ask everyone where they were about 11 on Saturday night? It may be a great help to you."

Prosecutor Bennett reiterated Dale's suggestion and an hour of questioning followed.

Geraldine, Alan Knight and Milburn had already explained in low tones. Then I went around to the back." She paused and her face seemed to go a trifle pale.

"You saw something' . . . on the lake, perhaps?"

She nodded. "Yes, someone was on the lake in one of the canoes. I couldn't recognize who it was. . . . I ran into the house. I was afraid to be alone . . . I knocked at Miss Turner's door . . . again she stopped, trembling now as if in terror.

"And you found that Miss Turner was not in her room . . . is that it?" Dale prompted her again.

Edith Nash could not frame the word. She could only nod her head.

(To be continued tomorrow.)

(Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Fay Turner testified that she went to her room and never left it. Kenneth and Edith Nash said the same thing. Eve Sharon and Lloyd Warren told a similar story.

No one, then, was abroad on the fatal night, with the exception of Sharon, Alan, Geraldine and Jim Milburn. Dale listened to the testimony in silence. The gathering was about to break up when he asked a question which startled them all and opened an entirely new avenue of investigation.

"Mrs. Nash," Dale said softly, "you went to your room on Saturday night, but you didn't stay there, did you?"

She whirled about in ghastly terror. "No," she murmured as Dale continued to gaze straight into her eyes.

"Mr. Nash had also left, hadn't he?" She nodded.

"Tell us what you saw, Mrs. Nash."

"I wasn't feeling well . . . I went to the front porch and heard some people talking in the garden—"

"A man and a woman, weren't they?" Dale prompted her.

"Yes . . . but I didn't recognize the voices. They were speaking

Pores, Oily Skin Had Me Frantic

Try this New Hollywood Recipe for a Beautiful Skin

Out in Hollywood they have a wonderful recipe for a lotion that quickly reduces large pores, removes blackheads and makes the skin nice and smooth.

The very minute you pat it on the face it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt. It removes blackheads, closes the pores and makes the skin smooth, good-looking and youthfully fresh. You'll notice, too, that the skin is not only or disfigured with perspiration that streaks make-up.

If you want a smooth, soft, beautiful skin free from large pores, blackheads, crow's feet and oiliness, just get 3 ounces of Orchard White from your druggist and mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. Then you have a full quarter-pint of the finest lotion you have ever used. Try it!

Note: During the summer months this amazing lotion is indispensable to the outdoor girl. It keeps the skin smooth and free from freckles, and guards against that leathery, aged-worn look caused by sun and wind.

A Beautiful Nose IN ONE VISIT—by the Positive Method

Now your nose can be skillfully and permanently corrected to match your features and personality by the positive, safe method. No waxes, paraffin, mechanical devices or shapers used. No pain—no scars. Entire correction takes less than 20 minutes and is permanent!

SCIENCE ENDS ACID STOMACH

New Formula Relieves Stomach Torture, Belching, Bloat, Gas, Heartburn and Sourness

"I was in a terrible state for years with acid indigestion," writes Mrs. Nellie Crouse, of 2803 Quincey Street, Kansas City, Mo. "After eating I had such terrible pains in my stomach, I thought I'd die. I would get nervous and numb and my heart would nearly stop beating. Nothing helped until I tried Acidine. Now I can eat, sleep and enjoy life again."

That's what millions think of this new formula. Acidine which is a splendid combination of quick acting, long lasting antacids plus effective starch and protein digestants which promptly stop burning acid, gas formation, that awful lumpy feeling after meals, nausea and the colds, nervousness, sleepless nights caused often by the resulting acidity.

If you use Acidine you can eat, drink and smoke without fear of the acidity which depresses you and results in more serious troubles. A well known physician says: "I am convinced Acidine is an antacid of the first rank. For those who are troubled with gas, heaviness after eating, heartburn, belching, bloating, usually due to excess acidity, I generally prescribe Acidine."

Thousands have found it the only real relief from acid indigestion and dyspepsia, gas pain, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, dizziness, fullness, short breath, and other troubles from acid stomach. So it is rapidly taking the place of other stomach remedies. No formula for over acidity surpasses Acidine, the household standby of millions. Your druggist has Acidine.

BABY CONTEST STIRS INTEREST

Next Thursday's the day for the Sun - Telegraph - Kroger Stores' baby beauty contest, and from the outlook today it looks as though several hundred of Pittsburgh's prettiest babies will be there to vie for the beautiful silver cups the Kroger Stores will give away to the babies selected as the prettiest of all.

It is safe to say that the babies awarded these silver cups will be Pittsburgh's most beautiful children. The baby beauty contest is to be the outstanding feature of the Kroger Stores' annual picnic.

There will be three classes in the contest for boys and three for girls. One of these classes will be for infants 1 year and under in age, another will be for children from 2 to 3 years of age, and a third for children from 3 to 5 years of age. Expensive silver cups, suitably engraved, will be awarded to winners in each class.

And there'll be prizes for the twins, triplets and "quads"—bless 'm!

You can get an entry blank at any of the Kroger Stores without charge of any kind. Watch the Sun-Telegraph for additional details.

Geo. Jackson Weighed Only 98 Pounds

Health Was Dreadfully Run Down When He Began Taking World's Tonic—In Fine Shape Now.

"What is there about this World's Tonic that it does such wonderful things?" Time after time this question is framed in different words, is asked. And no wonder, for as this new scientific formula triumphs over some of the most obstinate cases its fame spreads rapidly wherever it is known.

The answer to this question is that World's Tonic is based on recent startling discoveries of medical science which explode many old-fashioned theories and have completely revolutionized the treatment of ordinary ailments of mankind.

World's Tonic fame rests on a bedrock foundation of deeds, not words and promises. Let the experience of Geo. Jackson, well known Ford City, Pa. man, who resides at 12 Sixth Avenue, serve as an example of the splendid powers of this wonderful new medicine that comes from various parts of the world.

"I suffered no ends from chronic constipation and loss of appetite that I have gone for days with scarcely a bit of food and without bowel action," said Mr. Jackson to the World's Tonic representative. "This condition kept up for a year or more and I lost weight until I tipped the scales at only ninety-eight pounds. I became sallow-faced and hollow-eyed, and my nerves were so on edge I could sleep only in catnaps. In order to get any sound sleep I had to take tablets prescribed for me. I hardly knew what it was to have a bowel movement without taking oil as a lubricant.

"I could feel a great change in my condition with the very first bottle of World's Tonic. I began eating anything I wanted and I gained four pounds the very first week I took World's Tonic. It certainly started the ball to flowing regularly.

"I have now taken three bottles of World's Tonic and feel as well and healthy as I ever did in my life. I enjoy three hearty meals every day, sleep like a log all night long and my nerves are steady as a rock. The bowel trouble is entirely overcome, for they are now as regular as a clock. I consider myself entirely well, and do not hesitate to recommend World's Tonic as a wonderful treatment."

World's Tonic may be obtained at Dow's, May-Liggett's, Mayflower and all other good drug stores. (A-89)

ABOUT HOLLYWOOD AND BROADWAY LIFE; LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

Quiet Weddings Becoming Fashionable Out In Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14 —

Quiet weddings are growing in fashion in Hollywood. Natalie Moorhead, blond siren in a dozen recent talkies, plans to be married the middle of next month to Alan Crossland, Warner Brothers' director. It will be a simple ceremony, performed somewhere out of Los Angeles.

When they come back from their wedding trip there may be a reception, but that's the limit of the celebration.

In going out of town for the ceremony the film couple follow the example of Dolores Del Rio and Cedric Gibbons, who were married in Santa Barbara, and of Jack Pickford and Mary Mulhern, who were married in Del Monte, Cal.

Dolores Del Rio

Up until recently the stars have been getting in for society weddings with dozens of showers preceding. Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon were widely entertained and nearly a thousand people (not all invited) attended their reception. Hoot Gibson and Sally Eilers also had a big wedding and before that Helene Costello and Lowell Sherman.

Both Miss Moorhead and Crossland are making their second try at matrimony. The actress and her husband were recently divorced in Reno, both of them being present at the time, which saved establishing residence. Crossland was divorced by his wife in Paris.

The date of the wedding hinges upon the time that Crossland completes his new Warner Brothers picture, "Children of Dreams."

CHEERIO

The uncertain Mr. Lonsdale has flown the coop again. After delivering Ronald Colman's story to Samuel Goldwyn and looking at a few rehearsals he suddenly packed up, said cheerio and took the train for New York. The English playwright has been Hollywood's most restive prisoner from the first. On his return here recently the newsreel men were at the train to meet him. At first he balked at being photographed.

"What shall I say to them?" he asked.

"Tell them how you like Hollywood," suggested a welcoming official.

"But I don't like it," exclaimed Lonsdale.

Pretty soon we'll believe he doesn't.

MODERNISTIC FAD

The fad for modernistic furniture and decorations, which is the talk of all returning European travelers, has hit Hollywood. The 2-year-old daughter of Ann Harding and Harry Bannister has a nursery decorated with modernistic interpretations of Mother Goose rhymes. Opening off is a bathroom in cerulean blue porcelain and tile with mother of pearl fixtures. One of the windows in this youngster's suite opens on a private balcony. She also has a small swimming pool in the yard adjoining the large one of her parents.

GILBERT ILL

A severe attack of influenza has kept Jack Gilbert home in bed for five days now. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star is through with his picture, "Way of a Sailor," save for a few added scenes with Jim Tully, his erstwhile opponent in the brown derby bout.

Jack Gilbert

Jack has only one more picture to do this year for which he will receive a half million dollars. His contract runs into dizzy figures, four pictures in two years for $2,000,000. He has three more to go.

Meanwhile Ina Claire (Mrs. Gilbert) is due shortly in New York to do "The Royal Family" for Paramount.

SIGHT UNSEEN

Universal has purchased an option on the new book of Eric Maria Remarque, German author of "All Quiet on the Western Front."

To date, they don't even know what it is about, but are not taking a chance on any other studio capitalizing on the success of "All Quiet on the Western Front." Success is no idle word here either. The picture is doing big business all over the country, a fact that is surprising a number of people, including your correspondent, who predicted, fatheadedly, to Carl Laemmle, Jr., that it would only go well in the cities.

MORE TRAVELS

Thirty-seven years of globe-trotting is not enough for Burton Holmes, veteran producer of travelogues. After disposing of 12 shorts to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, he leaves here September 1 to start a new series in Japan. Emulating the popular Tom Terris, Mr. Holmes gives a running description of the scenes in his new picture. He plans to go a step further and make a prologue in which he appears in the costumes of the countries where the shots are taken.

We'll look forward to the Fiji Island subject.

Novelette

Last night I sauntered out again,
The girl I had was a pretty thing
With a voice as soft as an April rain,
And I watched her and kept remembering
How we had dined at this little place,
And laughed at nothing and praised the wine,
All suddenly your haunting face
Came back and smiled across at mine.

So a little girl who took your place,
Drank the wine that was meant for you,
Suffered a casual embrace,
And said "good-night" as the clock struck two;
Then a lad came home to a lonesome street,
A street that once was a Paradise,
With a fresh young wound from an old defeat,
And unbidden tears in his lonely eyes.

Kid Kazanova.

Gag

You've probably heard or read it. So all right. It still remains the best of the 1930 Scot sillies.

Sandy, who owned a picture theater in Aberdeen, went to London to get some ideas for advertising. While in London he noticed a sign over a movie house which said:

"All persons over 80 will be admitted free!"

"Just the thing!" he thought to himself.

After his return to Aberdeen he put this notice on his theater box office:

"All persons over 80 years of age will be admitted free—if accompanied by their parents."

Wisey

Epigram observed over the bar in that same W. 52d st. speakeasy:

"The only time horseshoes are lucky is when they are on the right horse!"

Heheheh

La Guinan it appears has shelved 38 pounds in a short time. A woman who heard that she had said to "Takes Us":

"How did you do it, m'dear?"

"When I was in Chicago," replied Tex, "and they asked me to go for a ride—I walked both ways."

Boomerang

At one of the Merrick Road houses the chief gag is to seat a newcomer in a specially made chair designed for the huge laugh that usually follows. The unsuspecting victim is electric-shocked and his panic and screams send you into spasms, too.

But what we started out to report was that only recently a mid-West cafe owner paid a victim $45,000 (because he had just come out of the sick room and was sent back to it), judges and juries being comical that way.

A. B.

The rags recently frontpaged here in a story concerning her sister's unusual marriage ceremony. Any day now she will crash the same front pages when she names a wealthy Jamaica man (married, of course), who tried to force her to go gay. When she refused, he beat her. Being no sap, instead of rushing to a physician, she raced to a photographer, who made pictures of the wounds while they still were bleeding.

She will ask for $30,000 but will take $25,000 if she can get it.

Vaudeville Glossary

By George Jean Nathan

Knockout. The designation of a performance which has succeeded in completely captivating the advertising solicitor for a weekly vaudeville paper.

Wop. A term of derision directed at an Italian who earns a difficult livelihood digging 10 hours a day at subways by an American ham who earns an easy livelihood digging 15 minutes at Ford cars.

Sure-fire. A compound word employed to designate any allusion to ex-Gov. Smith or the performer's mother.

Artiste. A vaudeville actress who carries her own plush curtain.

Headliner. A performer of whom legitimate theaters have wearied.

Team. A term applied to two vaudeville actors who get twice as much money as they deserve.

Mind-reader. A vaudeville performer who imagines the members of a vaudeville audience have minds to read.

Weep, and You Weep Alone

Hollywood, it seems, is no different from Broadway when you're in a jam. Take the plight of a once beautiful, whose famously known banker "heart" supplied her with What It Takes to throw grand parties. The best people flocked to the affairs and things were rosy. They always are when your Money-Honey still adores you, you know.

Well, her charms faded and he faded also.

Too proud to seek aid from her friends, she got desperate, and the other day the Los Angeles police held her on a shoplifting charge.

Her alleged friends, the ones who flocked to her swelegant parties, are Broadwaying her—fearing the notoriety.

And He Got Paid, Yet!

On page 7 of the August 9 Judge a piece titled "There Now, How Does He Like This?" packs several pointed remarks at the outstanding member of the Winchell familia. Subscribers and others have called this desk to say:

"Well, how does it feel, eh? Did you see that good knock for you in Judge? Pretty good, what?"

"It ought to be," is the incessant reply, "I wrote it!"

But even your best friends titter at you and refuse to believe that you did, which is why probably Judge's check for the piece will never be cashed.

YOU'VE MET HER

She's the kind of a girl who never believes the things she hears, but she repeats them just the same.

EDDIE CANTOR COMES AS STAGE FEATURE IN STANLEY

Eddie Cantor, comedian, comes to the Stanley stage today as the third special feature of Silver Jubilee Month. Gene Morgan also will be present as master of ceremonies. The screen will offer Jack Oakie in "The Sap From Syracuse."

The film version of Cleves Kinkheads Harvard prize play, "Common Clay," which carried Jane Cowl to fame before the footlights, will open in the Penn tomorrow. Constance Bennett, Lewis Ayres, Tully Marshall, Beryl Mercer, Matty Kemp and Hale Hamilton are in the cast.

SHERIDAN BOOKING

Sally Starr, leading lady for Eddie Quillan in "Night Work," the production which comes to the RKO Sheridan Square tomorrow, appeared in George White's scandals, Dolores Costello, Louise Brooks and Dorothy Sebastian. She also played two seasons with Ted Lewis in "LeMaire's Affairs."

"The Dawn Patrol," romance of the air, starring Richard Barthelmess and featuring Douglass Fairbanks, Jr. and Neil Hamilton, comes to the Enright tomorrow. Dick Powell will present a new show on the stage.

CORINNE GRIFFITH FILM

Corinne Griffith is supported by Grant Withers and Montagu Love in "Back Pay," which will open on the Harris screen Saturday. On the stage Victor Graff will present a new show.

Lupe Velez, featured in "Hell Harbor," her first all-talking and singing picture for United Artists, which opens Friday in the Aldine, arrived in Hollywood in January, 1929, with $2.50 in her pocketbook. Since that time she has appeared in a number of pictures, and her wealth has increased many hundred fold.

KURDS KILL 22 IN BORDER WAR

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Twenty-two Persian frontier guards were killed and 11 wounded in a battle today with raiding Kurds who attempted to cross the border into Turkey, messages from Teheran stated.

Several rebel chiefs were killed in the attack.

The Turkish government at Angora meanwhile issued a communique declaring that reports of the alleged tension between Persia and Turkey were unfounded, with relationships between the two governments continuing on the friendliest basis.

Previous reports stated that Turkish troops had crossed into Persia in pursuit of Kurd rebels in defiance of the Persian government's objection.

LAW BODY ACTS ON DIVORCES

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Divorces would be accepted nationally as legal, regardless of the grounds or what state they are granted in, by an act drafted and approved by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, sitting as a committee of the whole.

The committee decided it would be impossible to determine uniform grounds for divorce that would be acceptable to all states, members point out that Nevada allows divorces on 14 grounds, New York on three and South Carolina on none.

The act drafted requires that the person seeking a divorce must have lived in the state where the divorce is asked for one year. Aside from this condition, states adopting the act would recognize divorces granted in all other states, no matter what the grounds given. Final passage of the act and its recommendation for passage by the various states was generally conceded.

Judge William M. Hargest, of Harrisburg, Pa., was elected president.

Disbarred Lawyer Leads Race for Prosecutor

VAN BUREN, Ark., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Primary election returns indicate the Fifteenth Judicial District has a prosecuter who can't prosecute.

Harney McGehee was enjoying a lead today of almost 700 votes over his nearest rival in the prosecutor's race.

Several weeks ago McGehee was disbarred in Pulaski County after proceedings had been brought against him by the grievance committee of the Little Rock Bar Association. He was found guilty of unprofessional conduct.

WELFARE FUND ADDS MEMBERS

Seven charitable organizations were admitted to the Welfare Fund at a meeting of the board of directors of the organization, it was made known today.

The organizations are the Goodwill Industries, Munhall Neighborhood House, Catholic Boy Welfare Bureau, Boy Scouts of Allegheny County, Rosalia Maternity Hospital, Girl Scouts and the Home for Aged Negroes.

The fund's membership is now 37.

Chautauqua Diploma Given Edison, Wife

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—A diploma for Thomas A. Edison. The inventor and his wife were among 75,000 graduates of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle who completed a four-year reading course.

8 BREAK OUT OF PRISON

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Eight prisoners, including a man sentenced to be hanged November 14, escaped from the Greenbrier County jail last night. Another slayer, recently sentenced to life imprisonment, refused to attempt escape.

The men sawed bars off a window in their cell block, escaped through the prison yard into a street and scattered in the nearby mountains.

The slayer who escaped was Roosevelt Darnell, convicted a short time ago of slaying Clarence Holbrook.

Glenn Tyree, serving life for the slaying of a taxi driver, chose to remain in his cell as did 15 other prisoners.

Arrested in Racket Case, Shuns Hearing

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Aug. 14.—Harry L. Jones, 33, California, waived hearing for court when arraigned on charges in connection with the clearing house racket here.

An information was preferred against John Huseman, taxi owner, who police said was proprietor of a bookmaking establishment. Clearing house pads, baseball pool tickets and punch boards were found in Huseman's office, police said.

Former National G. A. R. Chief Dies

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Capt. Elbridge Lafayette Hawk, 88, of Sacramento, former national commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, died yesterday at a soldiers' home at Yountville.

Capt. Hawk went to Yountville three years ago to attend a board meeting of the soldiers' home. Taking ill, he was confined to bed and never recovered. He was elected national commander in 1927.

Oil Men from Five Counties to Unite

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 14.—Oil producers of Venango, Clarion, Crawford, Forest and Mercer Counties will meet here next Tuesday to organize and take steps in co-operation with other Western Pennsylvania districts, to curtail production.

The aim of the meeting is also to "adjust the balance between supply and demand," David B. McCalmont, president of the Venango branch, Pennsylvania Oil and Gas Men's Associations, said.

WILKIN'S SUB WORK STUDIED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14 (AP.)—Sloan Danenhower, former lieutenant commander in the U. S. Naval Reserves, said that the work of remodeling the Submarine P-12 for the proposed trans-Polar expedition of Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins next summer would be done at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Danenhower, who will command the vessel on the Arctic trip, will be in charge of the work of remodeling it. The cost is estimated at about $150,000. Simon Lake, veteran submarine inventor and manufacturer, who built the P-12, is completing working plans for the remodeling.

The submarine has been rechristened the Nautilus, after the adventuresome craft of Jules Verne's novel.

Master in Jail, Dog Conveys Word Home

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Aug. 14 (AP.)—Getting words to the home folks was a problem faced by three men in jail here today—but not for long.

Lute Hall, Lee Hall and Sam Davis were arrested in the mountains 10 miles from here on charges of operating a still. After a hearing they were held for action of a federal grand jury.

The men were unable to notify their families of their apprehension at the time they were found, but Lute Hall's dog, who had been arrested, also solved the problem. After reaching the jail, Lute wrote a note, tied it to the dog's neck and headed him home. Soon the home folks knew where the three men were.

STATE GROCERS ELECT HEADS

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP.)—The Pennsylvania Retail Grocers Association elected new officers as the business sessions of its annual convention ended.

Clyde M. Call, of Waynesburg, was elected president, and these other officers were chosen: Treasurer, Homer Knapp, of Pottsville; executive committee, James Curran, of Frankford, and Robert A. Ker, of Titusville; vice presidents, William Pfeiffer, of Frankford; W. L. Lawrence, of Parnassus, and H. J. Loeb, of Punxsutawney. Loeb won the office on the toss of a coin after Stanley J. Davis, of Scranton, had tied him in the voting.

The convention is to meet next year in Erie.

FIRE FOLLOWS CRASH, 1 DIES

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP.)—Harry E. McCauley, 23, of Bridgeville, Del., was killed when a truck he was driving ran away down a steep hill here, collided with another truck, and then crashed into a store, which was set afire as gasoline from the vehicle ignited.

The store, owned by Mike Arlotta, was damaged $8,000 to $10,000. Mrs. Arlotta, in the place at the time, was slightly hurt when hurled against a wall as the truck struck the building.

Something is believed to have happened to the mechanism of McCauley's truck, which prevented the driver from controlling it. The machine crashed into the rear end of another truck ahead of it and this machine was overturned, after which McCauley's vehicle continued on down the hill and hit the store.

Oklahoma Airman Loses Life in Crash

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 14—(AP.)—H. C. Huckabee was killed last night when the small airplane he was flying fell in a spin near Municipal Airport. A bank too steep for the altitude and speed of the plane was blamed by observers for the crash.

Ends Life 7 Months After Wife's Death

PITTMAN, N. J., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—John Pomaszewski, 35, a farmer, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself with a shotgun. Pomaszewski' wife died seven months ago and it is believed he was despondent over her death.

Pimples Itched So Could Not Sleep. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face was covered with pimples that were large and red and after a few days they festered. They were in blotches, mostly upon my forehead and chin, and made me feel embarrassed. The pimples itched so badly at times that I could not sleep. The trouble lasted about four months.

"I tried other remedies without success. A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. It brought relief so I purchased more, and after using about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Margaret Statzula, Perryopolis, Pa., March 22, 1930.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

$75,000 THEFT REVEALED

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—(AP.)—The Daily News says a burglar stole $75,000 in jewelry from Mrs. Robert T. Stone, wife of a Wall street broker, while she and her husband were at a hotel on Long Island last Saturday night.

The paper says the jewelry included a diamond brooch, two diamond rings, two diamond bracelets and a pearl necklace.

U. S. GIVES FINE BACK TO FLIER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—(AP.)—A $600 fine assessed against Maj. Gen. James H. MacBrien, of the Canadian Army for landing his airplane at Chicago which is not an airport of entry, was remitted by the Treasury.

MacBrien landed at Chicago from Canada and later was fined by the collector of customs at St. Paul.

Assistant Secretary Lowman said the fine had been ordered returned to the Canadian officer because his violation was purely technical.

YES—then work seems like play!

...but when your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous

DON'T STARVE your system—those unseen red-blood-cells, when lowered in number, may cause serious trouble. In fact, if the tendency of a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA usually results.

Body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils are symptoms of a low blood count. These may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S. restores the red-blood-cells to normal. Your resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite picks up, your whole body is strengthened, invigorated! You, too, may soon possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Get the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

How to recognize a low blood count

Fatigue without any apparent reason, sluggishness, loss of appetite, loss of body weight, paleness, boils and pimples are outstanding symptoms of a LOW RED BLOOD CELL COUNT. The red cells are your body builders. They carry nourishment to every part of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the system.

S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood building organs to supply the necessary red cells. Your appetite picks up, your body is strengthened—you feel like yourself again!

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to every cubic millimeter.

(Right) Anemic red-blood-cells—note 40 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild health.

More "Good Luck" for PITTSBURGH

"Standard" opens a brand new service station at Penn and Denniston Avenues

IT'S open now—Pittsburgh's new "Standard" service station. Just east of the East Liberty shopping section—and close to the East Liberty station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. You'll pass this station going to or coming from the Lincoln and William Penn highways.

—But make it a point to drop in today. The address is Penn and Denniston Avenues. You'll like the clean, up-to-date appearance of this station... its roomy driveways, and, most of all, you'll like the service:

—Air for your tires.
—Distilled water for your battery.
—An accurate new road map for the asking.
—Spick and span rest-rooms.
—all at no charge.

And if you haven't yet discovered why Pennsylvania motorists have such "Good Luck" with "Standard" products, you owe it to yourself and your car to find out. There's "Standard," the "Lucky Gas"—pure and high-test—at no extra cost.

And ESSO, the Giant Power Fuel—a special gasoline plus Ethyl fluid. No knocks and a world of extra power.

A lubrication expert will check your oil level—tell you without guess-work, what grade of oil you need—and how much.

We have "Standard," the oilier oil. And Penotol, the lubricant made from 100% Pennsylvania crude.

—Or, if your car needs greasing or oiling, there's the latest type rotary lift—(crankcase service is free).

Find out today about the "Good Luck" that comes with "Standard." See for yourself how thoroughly satisfied you will be with the superior service you will receive. "Standard" products give extra performance and "Standard" stations give extra service—that's the real secret behind "Good Luck."

Fast Service from the very latest electric motor pumps. But best of all, you get quick-starting "Standard" Gasoline or ESSO—the Giant Power Anti-knock Fuel—containing Ethyl.

Lubrication Experts who not only know when you need oil, but which consistency of "Standard" Motor Oil protects your motor best—winter or summer.

High Pressure Greasing and complete lubrication on up-to-date motor car lifts. Cars greased the "Standard" way run smoother, develop more power, more speed.

Modern Equipment enables these "Standard" motor doctors to work at an amazing rate of speed. Yet the work is done thoroughly. Pressure is used when necessary. No parts are slighted. And the best greases—"Standard"—are always used.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde will outline President Hoover's "Drought Relief Program" when he speaks over WJAS at 10:30 tonight.

Victor Herbert's opera, "Wizard of the Nile," on KDKA at 10 o'clock, will have many listeners. Robert Simmons, tenor on the RCA Hour, will sing "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time" for WCAE fans at 10 p. m.

Wild Oscar, the Penn Theater organist with a radio complex, is enthusing WJAS listeners three mornings a week. He's on the air at 8:30 on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

QUESTION A DAY:
Herbert Rohe, McKeesport—When is the Pittsburgh Radio Show?

A.—September 29 to October 4 at Duquesne Garden.

KQV's witty stenog.—"Cal" Mara—is off to St. Louis on her vacation. She'll visit KMOX.

Frank M. Hawks took us by surprise at 10:30 last night. His talk was very good. We liked his modest way of accepting acclaim and especitlly his sportsmanship in giving credit to the mechanics and weather forecaster for their valuable assistance.

* * *

Twenty Fingers of Sweetness have signed up to play at the Enright for the week of August 22.

The beauty experts are urging pretty girls about the studios to enter the "Miss Radio" contest.

We have enough beautiful girls around local stations to take all the prizes—and that's no lie!

A runnerup last year was Helene Miller of WJAS. She's now in musical comedy.

NEW INVENTION REPORT:
Francis Owen is working on what will be known as the "whistling golf ball." When the ball goes into the rough it whistles for five minutes, thus enabling the player to find the ball quickly. "Howdy" Clark, Percy Boyd, Alex Sherwood, "Bill" Jackson, D. F. Dickson and other rubber punishers have given orders for 3,000. Production will begin as soon as the invention is ready. So far it is only an idea.

'BREAK-IN' NEW KDKA PLANT

With the new KDKA plant at Saxonburg in the last stages of completion, the Westinghouse Company has made application to the Federal Radio Commission to operate the new station synchronously with the old power plant at East Pittsburgh until the Saxonburg transmitter is "broken in." That is, both stations will operate on the same channel at the same time for about three weeks.

"A gradual transition from the East Pittsburgh location to the Saxonburg location" is asked in the application. This is to modify the intensity of the signals. An abrupt shift from the old transmitter to the new might inconvenience listeners.

A new type of antenna, developed by Westinghouse engineers, is expected to minimize fading.

The Saxonburg plant will be capable of transmitting a signal of 400,000 watts, but will use only 50,000 watts until granted further privileges by the Radio Commission.

CROSLEY PLANS NEW STATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—The Crosley Radio Corporation of Cincinnati has decided to extend the scope of its programs over Station WLW and to this end applied to the Federal Radio Commission for permission to install a short wave plant near Madison O.

This station, to be operated at 10 kilowatts on 6060 kilocycles if the application is granted, will pick up programs of foreign broadcasters for rebroadcast from Station WLW.

FOSHAY FIRM TO PAY LITTLE

MINNEAPOLIS Aug 14 (AP)—Assets of the defunct W B Foshay Company utility corporation will not exceed $500,000 while debts are in excess of $10,000,000, according to C J Rockwood, receiver whose testimony is expected to lay grounds for a contest against claims of 8,735 stockholders at a hearing scheduled for Friday

As a result of the tangled financial conditions of the concern the receiver said unsecured creditors will receive less than five cents on the dollar while stockholders will receive nothing

Revelation of the concern's assets was made to Edward J Stringer special master in chancery, who is presiding over hearings on claims against the Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation another Foshay firm

The stockholders are seeking to recover dividends declared but never paid by the Foshay firm prior to the receivership

ST. LAWRENCE BOARD NAMED

ALBANY N Y Aug 13 (AP) — The long-awaited St Lawrence Waterpower Commission was named by Gov Roosevelt who said the five appointees were of "outstanding ability" and expressed confidence they would "approach the whose subject from the viewpoint of the public welfare."

The Governor has invited the commission to join him at Ogdensburg August 30 for a two-day trip of inspection down the St Lawrence River on the state yacht Inspector

Many had expected former Gov Alfred E Smith long champion of state ownership and development of waterpower to be named to the commission While Gov Roosevelt did not comment it was reported he had vainly urged Smith, busy with the erection of a great office building in New York City to accept appointment

THOMAS JEERS HOOVER REGIME

UNIVERSITY Va Aug 14.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, executive director of the League for Industrial Democracy addressing the Virginia Institute of Public Affairs here said Herbert Hoover talked of virtues of rugged individualism in his campaign but that rugged individualism had not been the keynote of his administration by commissions

The former Socialist presidential candidate said

"The farmers got the dubious benefit of the Farm Relief Board, business men were spared the full shock of panic by the Federal Reserve Banking system, the unholy alliance of well-to-do and the rich got a 1 per cent reduction in income taxes.

"Only the miserable army of the unemployed, usually more or less slaves to the machine and its owners, when they work, have been rugged individuals. They had to be or die.

"The chaotic, ill-organized, profit-seeking collectivism of America gives to those guilty of the crime of poverty or the misfortune of being factory hands not the same justice it gives the rich and privileged."

Skinny, I Gained 25 Lbs. and Lovely, Clear Skin Quick

"I was underweight for years. Finally took Ironized Yeast. Quickly gained 25 lbs. Skin is lovely, figure is perfect."
—Mrs. W. Hornbeck.

"Skinny," weak men and women are amazed at gain of 5 to 15 lbs. in 3 weeks. Ugly hollows vanish. Bony limbs round out. Sallow, blemished skin gets clear and rosy like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation disappear overnight. Sound sleep, new pep quick.

Two great tonics in one—special weight-building Brewer's Yeast and strengthening Iron. Pleasant little tablets. Far stronger than unmedicated yeast. Results in ½ time. No yeasty taste, no gas.

Don't go around "skinny," ugly, unattractive. Get Ironized Yeast from druggist today. Feel great tomorrow. Money back from manufacturer if not delighted.

OAKLAND-PONTIAC

PRICES REDUCED up to $170

We have just been advised by the Oakland Motor Car Company that, effective August 11th, prices on all current model Pontiac Big Sixes and Oakland Eights have been reduced . . . with reductions up to $170.

Pontiac Big Six—now $665 and up
A big car at small car price

Oakland Eight—now $895 and up
America's lowest-priced Eight

These reductions are made because in the winter the factory will present two new cars which, while changed enough to classify as new models, will remain practically unchanged in appearance, size and design.

The two new cars will have the same type engines used in the cars now offered.

These new prices give you an opportunity to own a big car at small car cost and at a great saving.

Don't miss this opportunity. At their new low prices these cars are the greatest "buys" in the automobile field today. All prices f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan

65 YEARS OF LEADERSHIP

Only by making the finest products, giving the greatest value and rendering the most efficient service to the public, can any concern, in any industry, gain and hold the position of leadership over a long period of years.

Doing these very things has built one of the largest and ablest refining companies in the world—an organization which since the first days of the automobile has led all others in motor fuel sales in Pennsylvania.

These illustrations show one of the four great Atlantic refining plants serving motorists in all Atlantic Coast states from Massachusetts to Florida and in many foreign countries.

EAGLES PLEDGE JOBLESS AID

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14—(AP.)—Resolutions pledging the manpower and financial reserve of the Fraternal Order of Eagles to find a solution for unemployment, and calling upon President Hoover to appoint a commission to study the situation were passed at the international convention of the lodge.

The resolutions said the Eagle membership of 700,000 and the financial reserve of $45,000,000 will be dedicated to the cause. Francis L. Jones, director general of the Federal Employment Service, conferred with Eagle officials and spoke favorably of their resolution.

New Castle Firebug Hunted by Police

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 14—Police are seeking a man who set fire to the vacant double house of Mrs. A. Kirk Thompson. Damage was $500.

Walter Jennings, who lives nearby, saw a man in the house who told him he was an officer hunting liquor. A short time later the property was discovered on fire.

TOOK KONJOLA YEAR AGO; ITS RESULTS ENDURE

That Modern Medicine Gives More Than Mere Temporary Relief Is Proven In This Case.

Quit experimenting . . . quit groping as if in the dark for the right medicine. Put your faith in Konjola, the new and different medicine, for the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

MRS. V. B. HICKMAN

And Konjola does far more than bring mere temporary relief, as is illustrated in the case of Mrs. V. B. Hickman, 705 Arch Street, Pittsburgh. A year ago Mrs. Hickman told how this master medicine ended a severe case of nervousness, kidney and stomach trouble that had made her life miserable for ten years. Day after day Konjola has continued to win amazing victories in Pittsburgh, of which the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, will gladly tell you. Just recently, after a whole year had elapsed, Mrs. Hickman eagerly tells of the wonderful health she still enjoys, and gives all credit to Konjola. She made the following statement:

"When I endorsed Konjola about a year ago, I told how only two bottles of this splendid medicine gave me amazing relief from indigestion, nervousness and kidney trouble. Well, I continued taking Konjola until I had used eight bottles. By that time I had regained my health, strength and vitality, and I am happy to say that these feelings of good health have remained with me ever since. I am still amazed at the way Konjola worked in my case, and I can't find words to express my gratitude for Konjola, the master medicine, if there ever was one."

Konjola contains no alcohol; no nerve-deadening drugs; no heart-depressing chemicals. It is designed to give thorough and lasting relief. Like any worthwhile treatment, Konjola should be taken from six to eight weeks, giving it a chance to produce the best results. And the results will amaze you, as they have countless thousands of men and women.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is sold also at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

VETERANS PARADE AT FRANKLIN FETE

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

This is the motoring season (Ah, yes, we know everything) and it behooves us to say a few words about professional motorists. Professional motorists are bores. Always they are telling of beating the express trains from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia or of making East Liberty from Fifth and Smithfield in eight minutes.

On the other hand, we know of a 67-year-old man who was in Altoona a few days ago and had to make an airplane connection at Columbus, O. He missed the train to Pittsburgh, so he hopped into a decrepit 1926 touring car and drove to Pittsburgh in two hours and 55 minutes, five minutes less than the train's time. The distance was 114 miles. And not once has the elderly gentleman mentioned his feat to us—possibly because we don't know him.

In our private life we like to insult people because that is our nature, but publicly we court everybody's favor. We want everybody to believe that here is a young man who has only good in his heart. And that is why we are announcing to those readers of Sidewalks who are members of the Sigma Delta Phi Fraternity that one of their pins is in a Smithfield street pawn shop near the Monongahela River. It is being held at $3.

Any remarks on the feet, to be in good taste, must be handled delicately, and we intend to be delicate. To make a good start we looked in the dictionary for a delicate synonym and here is what that book said: Feet, n, plural of foot. So we looked up foot, which was defined as "the part below the ankle."

Well, anyhow, delicate or not, Dr. Albert Braun, the chiropodist, says that experiments have proved that a woman takes 300 steps in making a bed and tidying the bedro. n, 80 steps in making a cup of coffee and that a woman walks about 150 miles every week in her home.

Our only hope is that somebody doesn't clip this item and send it to Mr. Edison, for, sure as snuff, there'll be a question in the 1931 Edison questionnaire: If a woman must walk 80 steps to make a cup of coffee, how many steps must she walk to (1) make two cups of coffee? (2) A cup of tea?

Val Oldshue, the East Ender, was standing in Frankstown avenue when a puzzled policeman approached.

"Pardon me," the officer said,

"but could you tell me where No. 6 Police Station is?

Val told him.

"I've only been on the force six days," the policeman explained, "and this is my first day out here. I don't know where the station house is from here."

From Flynn Kirkpatrick, who is disappointed when he can't shoot even fours over the South Hills course, we have learned why Pittsburgh doesn't have good women golfers. It appears that Pittsburgh's courses are hillier (a pretty word, that) than the average course and that the average woman golfer, rather than climb a hill, would bake a cake.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 14.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

See where Mr. Hoover has given up his trip to Glacier Park. They can start in letting those fish eat regular again now. Any man that can stay in Washington this long during such a summer, why really there is not enough left of him to take a vacation. Sure glad to see Joe Robinson come through so strong in Arkansaw yesterday. Those men that he was associated with in London on the conference thought oe was just about one of the biggest men in the country. About '32 you are going to hear an awful lot about this guy. If the Democrats decide to enter a man at all.

MONACA MAN HEADS FIRE FIGHTERS

Tarentum Wins Convention For Next Year; Parade Will be Closing Feature

Election of officers and selection of Tarentum for next year's meeting featured the program yesterday of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association convention in Carnegie and Glendale. Officers elected were as follows:

President, George E. Dietrich, of Monaca; vice presidents, Edward Clawson, of New Kensington, William Strain, of Sharpsburg, and and Henry Weihagen, of North Braddock; secretary, William H. Sharah, and treasurer, James Steel.

The annual parade was listed for 1:30 this afternoon.

Conneaut Lake and Meyersdale made a spirited fight for next year's convention, with Conneaut Lake holding the odds until a few minutes before voting, when the convention suddenly swung to Tarentum.

A midnight show at a Carnegie theater was held last night. The convention will close tomorrow with a mummer's parade.

For the first time in the association's history loving cups were presented to the retiring officers. The cups were presented by the Glendale department. In addition to this, the association presented A. J. Rottler, of Connellsville, the retiring president, a traveling bag. The other officers honored were W. H. Sharah, secretary; H. B. Bach, doctor, and James Steel, treasurer.

Crowds and Color at Franklin's Quintennial 'Old Home Week'

THRONGS UNDER THE SHADE TREES IN DOWNTOWN FRANKLIN, PA., DURING "SOLDIERS' DAY" AT THE FOURTH QUINTENNIAL "OLD HOME WEEK"

HOME WEEK ATTRACTS THRONGS

Former Residents Flock Back for Big Reunion; Guardsmen Trek to Town

By AL GOUGH.
Staff Correspondent.

FRANKLIN, Aug. 13.—Everybody has his day in this fourth quintennial old home week celebration here.

It's the soldier boys' day today. Yesterday belonged to the youngsters. Tuesday, it was the "oldsters." Tomorrow is merchants' day and Saturday is anybodys.

A real old-time reunion for Franklinites, former Franklinites and the foster Franklinites or anyone else that happens along is in its fifth day and going strong.

"Wotta town, wotta time."

PARADE MAIN STREET

They paraded up and down "main street" informally and formally and were scheduled to participate in the gala event of the week, a monster military procession to be reviewed by Gen. George C. Rickards, former chief of the United States Milita Bureau, who is marshall of the day.

Five military and civilian bands were on hand to take part in the parade and Franklin, old and new, is anticipating one grand and glorious event to carry with it its memories for another five years until the next old home week in 1935.

Approximately 800 "kiddies" took part in the Elks' pageant for children yesterday. Dressed in fancy and ludicrous costumes, they joined in a procession from the south end of town to the city park, where a committee of judges awarded prizes. In the parks they frolicked after the parade, ice cream cones, candy and favors being distributed among them, following which they took part in a program of athletic events.

EX-RESIDENTS RETURN

More than 800 former residents of the town have returned for the reunion, according to registration figures. B. A. Brennan, one of the most prominent visitors, boasts that he postponed a trip to Europe in order to come back to his old home town. Mr. Brennan, a retired industrialist and banker, makes his home in Beverly Hills, where he enjoys among other things, sunshine the year round and Will Rogers' neighborly visits from time to time when the Rogers and the Brennans are at home. And he is just as proud of his neighbors as he is of his old home town, he says.

What a time.

Another interesting sidelight of the reunion is the return of C. W. Roemer, of Plumer, Pa. Mr. Roemer arrived in town on Sunday, his birthday, and picture his surprise when led to the very spot on which his old home stood. When taken to registration headquarters, he enthused:

"Why, right here on this very spot I was born and over there in the city park is where we pastured our cows. And look right over there on 13 and Otter streets, where the Anderson furniture store now stands, is where we had our garden. 'What a change' — 'what a change.'—what a time."

EX-DRY AIDE HERE RESIGNS

After 18 years in the government service, Arthur G. McDuffie, former assistant prohibition administrator here, has resigned, it was learned today. He has given up the position as deputy administrator in charge of Eastern Pennsylvania, it was learned.

McDuffie went to Philadelphia with the transfer of prohibition enforcement to the Department of Justice several months ago. While in Pittsburgh he was in charge of the investigation unit. He was associated with the Internal Revenue Department before prohibition. He is to be succeeded by G. J. Simmons.

Dr. Walters Rests Well, Fate in Doubt

Dr. E. R. Walters, 60, who has been ill in West Penn Hospital for the past two weeks, was said to have rested well during the night. His physicians, however, still are doubtful of his recovery. Dr. Walters was public health director during the Guthrie and Magee administrations, and has been medical advisor to the state workmen's compensation board here since 1918.

Fire Damages House In Aliquippa $1,000

Police today were seeking to learn the cause of a fire which damaged the home of Mrs. Agnes Cisano at 434 Sheffield avenue, Aliquippa, last night. The fire started in the attic and damaged the dwelling to the extent of $1,000 according to a police report. The house is owned by T. E. Marshall, Aliquippa.

Hit-Run Crashes Into Milk Wagon

A hit-and-run driver crashed into the back of a Liberty Dairy Company milk wagon, driven by Leon Gardner, 326 Semple street, scattering milk and cream over Federal street early this morning. The damage was estimated at $50.

THREE FIREMEN SUSPENDED

Three city firemen were off duty today, suspended and fined when arraigned before the firemen's trial board yesterday. They were accused of attacking Lawrence Goodman, proprietor of a Wylie avenue market stand. The trio was charged with conduct unbecoming officers.

Fire Capt. Paddy Carroll was named by Goodman as leader in the attack. Carroll and Firemen Charles Geis and Albert Zimmerman are said to have gone to the store intoxicated and to have wrecked a stand of fruit. They were discharged the following morning in Center Avenue Police Court and were immediately arrested again after having made another alleged attack on Goodman.

Carroll was fined $25 and suspended for 30 days in addition to severe reprimand. The other two were fined $15 each and suspended for 10 days.

Beer Search Sends Man to Workhouse

George Morgan, 39, of Elizabeth, pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today to entering the home of John Kress at Elizabeth in search of home brew July 5. He was sentenced by Judge H. H. Rowand to serve from four to 24 months in the workhouse. Two years ago he was paroled for a similar offense.

Old Injuries Fatal To South Side Man

Charles Kiesel, 42, of 1928 Shamokin street, died in the South Side Hospital today from injuries suffered five months ago. He was injured March 24 and admitted to the hospital April 2. The details of how he suffered his injuries were not reported to the coroner.

Jostled by Pair, Loses Purse With $483

A Negro couple jostled J. Schoen, of 92 Kittanning pike, Sharpsburg, while he was alighting from a street car at East North avenue and East street, he told police last night.

Schoen said he paid little attention to the incident until a short time later, when he discovered that his wallet, containing $483, was missing. The victim furnished police with a good description of the couple.

INJURED WOMAN SUES CITY

Mrs. Leah Fingal, Dinwiddie street, and her husband, Harry Fingal, have placed a price of $25,000 on injuries received by Mrs. Fingal, in a suit on file today in Common Pleas Court against the City of Pittsburgh.

It is alleged that her right leg went through the top of a water meter cap in front of 239 Dinwiddie street last July 7. It is claimed the accident would not have happened had not the city negligently allowed the cap to be tilted or dislocated.

3 HURT AS AIR TANK EXPLODES

Michael Stancewicz, of 40 Greenleaf street, and Dan Murovich, 34, of 73 Independence street, burned in an explosion of a compressed air tank in the La-Belle Steel Works, Ridge avenue and Reedsdale street, were recovering in their homes today.

They, with Clarence J. Bachman, 22, of 451 Kathleen street, Mt. Washington, a clerk, whose right hand was lacerated, were treated at the emergency hospital in the plant.

Stancewicz and Murovich were injured as they attempted to extinguish the fire which followed the blast.

Hearing on Voting Machines Tomorrow

A hearing on the purchase of voting machines for Allegheny County will be held tomorrow by County Commissioners. Bids furnished by two companies will be discussed. They are from the Poole Engineering Company of Baltimore, low bidder with a price of $1,120 per machine, and the Automatic Voting Machine Company, with a bid of $1,154.

Bring Home Bacon Police Revolver Team Told

President John S. Herron, of City Council, wants the police revolver team to "bring home the bacon" when it competes in the international revolver team matches August 24 and 30 at Toledo and Camp Perry, O. Council yesterday instructed Controller James P. Kerr to draft a resolution providing for expenses of the local team.

Sergt. Guy Dailey, of the city Detective Bureau, captain of the team, presented the request for expenses, and Herron remarked:

"When you come back home we expect you to return with 'the bacon' and a report on how many bulls' eyes you made."

ZONING HEARING FOR 32ND WARD

A zoning hearing for the Thirty-second Ward, formerly Overbrook Borough, will be held in the Council Chamber, City-County Building, September 17, City Clerk Robert Clark announced yesterday after the matter had been introduced at a meeting of Council.

WATER ASSURED FOR WESTWOOD

Residents of Westwood and sections of the South Hills need have no more fear of water shortage after next Monday, the South Pittsburgh Water Company announced yesterday in a letter to Bureau of Water and John S. Herron, president of council.

The letter, signed by A. E. Geehan, president of the water company, in answer to a request pertaining to water shortage in Westwood homes, said that an extra pump would be installed by Monday.

This, along with one already in use and having a capacity of 2,500,000 gallons daily, will adequately supply the district, the letter averred.

In a petition signed by 50 Westwood property owners and presented to Herron July 29, it was stated "children crave for water, and in case of fire, God help us!"

The drought and the breakdown of a force pump is blamed by Geehan for the lack of supply.

Repairs have been made to the pump, he informed Herron, and this, coupled with the new apparatus, will remedy the situation.

Suit Based on Auto Crash, Asks $35,000

William H. Weller, of Evergreen road, Millvale, has been sued in Common Pleas Court for $35,000 damages by Cornelius J. Beehm and his wife, Katherine M. Beehm, as the result of an automobile accident last June 6.

It is claimed an automobile driven by Weller crashed into the Beehms car while the latter machine was stopped by traffic in Peoples road, Millvale. Both husband and wife allege they suffered serious injuries.

West View Lets Sewer Contract

West View Council at its monthly meeting this week awarded a contract to Ledonne & Casper for construction of a sanitary sewer in Parkwood Acres, to cost $1,200, and passed on first reading an ordinance for improving Mt. Vernon avenue.

Camera Question Box

Today's question—Do you agree with the Boston literary group that the first step for a man to take, who would be a success in life, is to win a fine woman for his wife?

HERMAN LANGLER, assistant shop manager, city—Yes, I agree with that idea. A good wife is supposed to be a help to her husband and she surely would not hinder him in becoming a success.

Herman Langler

MILTON HELFER, optometrist, city—Positively. A man seldom gets very far when he considers only himself. With a fine wife he would make much more progress and would better himself so much more.

Milton Helfer

MISS MARGARET KNOX, saleswoman, Pittsburgh—The right kind of a wife will have a helpful attitude toward her husband's business and will do all in her power to help make him a success. I agree with that idea.

Miss Knox

MISS JANET MANHEIM, cashier, Squirrel Hill—I certainly do. Having the right kind of a wife makes a man ambitious and gives him something to work for and makes him want to show what he can do.

Miss Manheim

MEYER HELFER, shop manager, Schenley Heights—I agree with that opinion. The right woman is always a help to her husband and an incentive to better work.

Meyer Helfer

JOSEPH ERENRICH, salesman, Swissvale—I think a good wife is the best kind of help to a man who would be a success. A glance at the lives of our men who have become successful will show that their wives have also helped.

Bellevue Parish to Lay Cornerstone Sunday

The corner stone of the new Church of the Assumption, Bellevue, will be laid Sunday afternoon with priests from many North boroughs churches participating in the ceremonies. The edifice will seat 1,000 and is being erected at a cost of $300,000.

The Right Rev. Monsignor Martin Ryan, pastor of St. Brigid's Church, Pittsburgh, will officiate. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. H. A. Carlin, of St. Paul's Cathedral.

The parish was organized 27 years ago by the Rev. I. J. McGovern, the present pastor, and the first service was conducted in a stable on Lincoln avenue.

Sues to Regain House Deeded to Daughter

An injunction suit to stop his daughter from selling the house in which he lives and requiring her to deed it back to him is on file today in Common Pleas Court, entered before Judge Harry H. Rowand by C. D. Holes, 66, of Turtle Creek, against Mrs. Della Holes Letham, also of Turtle Creek.

Holes says that about four years ago he was ill several months in the Braddock General Hospital and was perplexed as to how to pay his bill.

At his daughter's suggestion, he charges, he signed a deed making over to her the home property, the understanding being she would get the money on a mortgage and when he was able to handle his affairs again would re-convey the house to him.

After he recovered, he says, his daughter delayed re-conveying the property and finally refused to do so. Holes asks the court declare the deed void and enjoin the daughter from mortgaging or selling the place.

WHERE BLAST BLEW INTO AIR ROOF THAT CRASHED DOWN THROUGH ADJOINING BUILDING

A chemical explosion on an upper floor of this New York five-story building sent the roof soaring and crashing down through the adjoining two-story structure, burying several in ruins. Firemen fought debris and extricated alive a woman among several buried.

HUNDREDS GET WORK IN SHIFT OF FUNDS

$173,000 Transferred to Pay Forces Needed to Keep Many Projects Under Way

Several hundred day laborers of the Department of Highways and Sewers had their jobs saved yesterday when council approved transfer of $173,000 from other funds to continue their employment the remainder of the year.

As the department had exceeded its appropriation because of a large number of projects under way, the men faced a layoff until funds could be secured. Some were to be put on a five-day week basis and others laid off indefinitely.

A conference between Director Edward G. Lang of the Department of Public Works, and President John S. Herron, of Council, resulted in action to secure the transfer. Of the money, $100,000 is taken from the police fund. The rest, Council was told, is to come from various other sources where there is a present excess.

Dry Raiders Seize 3 Braddock Stills

State police and prohibition agents on warrants, seized three stills in Braddock yesterday. Those arrested are Peter Dziak, 921 Washington avenue; Joseph Chops, 1008 Hallet street, and Elizabeth Parlock, 1016 Washington avenue. They were released on their own recognizance to appear before Justice of the Peace W. S. Edwards, of Glenfield.

PRISONERS GO TO JAIL UNDER HEAVY BOND

Squad Reports Smashing Big Gambling Table Following Roundup of Men, Women

As a result of a raid on Boyd's Inn, a cabaret, at 2133 Wylie avenue, Oliver Boyd, alleged proprietor, 25 male patrons and three women entertainers today were being given hearings before Alderman Martin J. Griffin, 2040 Center avenue.

Constables from Alderman Griffin's office and county detectives raided the place last night. Herding the prisoners into one room, the raiders say they smashed a large gambling table. The prisoners were then hustled into a city police patrol.

HEAVY BOND SET

Boyd was held in $9,000 bond on charges of operating a lottery, keeping a gambling house, keeping a disorderly house and possession of liquor.

The 26 male guests were held in bond of $500 each while the three women were held under bail of $1,000 each. All were sent to the county jail.

The raid was made on complaint of a Negro who told District Attorney Andrew T. Park that he lost money at a crap table in the place.

DRYS RAID 3 HOUSES

Raiding three dwellings in Braddock, prohibition agents seized three stills and large quantities of moonshine and released three persons on their own recognizance yesterday.

The raids, according to the agents, were made on the homes of Elizabeth Parlek, of 1016 Washington avenue; Peter Dziak, of 921 Washington avenue, and Joe Chaps, of 1008 Hallet street.

STILLS, RUM SEIZED

Stills, mash and moonshine were seized by prohibition agents in a series of raids in Cambria and McKean counties yesterday.

A 150-gallon still was found in a dwelling at 784 Railroad street, Johnstown, and another of a 100-gallon capacity at 770 Railroad street, the agents reported. Two men were arrested.

Invading various sections of McKean County, the federal officers conducted eight raids and made nine arrests. Liquor law violations were said to have been detected in each.

COAL GAS KILLS MAN, ONE ILL

One man is dead and another is in a hospital the result of inhaling fumes from the burning slate dump of the Consumers Mining Company, Harmarville.

Found early today, one of the men, in whose pocket was a paper bearing the name Robert E. E. Kelly, was dead. He is believed to be from Templeton, Armstrong County. The other, unconscious, was taken to Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, after a rescue team had worked several hours with an inhalator. Regaining consciousness he said his name is Lawrence Hanna, of Franklin.

Jack Medzin and Joe Bickanick, coal company employes, who found the bodies, said the victims evidently had prepared to camp on the dump.

Transfer of Funds Ordered by Council

City Council yesterday directed Controller James Kerr to transfer $18,000 from code account 1.325, salaries of regular employes, to the Mayview City Home fund. Of this amount, $15,000 is for materials and $3,000 for equipment needed there.

CITY-COUNTY IN ROAD PACT

A "gentlemen's agreement" between Pittsburgh and Allegheny County to widen a section of California avenue as part of the Ohio River boulevard project was introduced to Council yesterday at a special meeting.

The "agreement," in the form of an ordinance, provides that the city pay the cost of widening California avenue from Superior avenue to Almore street. This will be an extension of the boulevard to the Island avenue bridge, the ordinance reads. An 80-foot roadway with two 16-foot pavements will be provided.

Upon completion of the work the county will reimburse the city for all funds expended, with the exception of $11,500 for certain street work and $17,500 for repaving of trolley tracks, necessary by reason of relocation. The agreement and ordinance was submitted from the office of Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works.

Certain church properties in that neighborhood which the county was unable to condemn for the work made the mutual agreement necessary, it was said.

WATER METERS TO BE USED

Effective at once, applicants for water service will be required to purchase meters, and "wasters" now using service will be checked up and forced to have meters installed, the Bureau of Water has announced. Meters will be installed at first in the Herron Hill and Squirrel Hill districts, it was stated.

The city has entered into a contract with the Pittsburgh Equitable Meter Company to furnish meters to water users at the following prices, contingent on the class of service ordered: $7.98, $8.17, $11.97 and $17.50.

Recent ordinances passed by Council and approved by the mayor stipulate that the city may set meters on all unmetered lines, with consumers paying costs of installation and repair work to be done by city employes.

NO 'MUSIC,' CHILDREN DESERT CITY'S MERRY-GO-ROUND

WAITING FOR FREE RIDES . . . NO 'MUSIC,' THEY DESERTED AND GRUMPED FOR AWHILE

STEWART THORN — INELDAAN THORN — JOHN HOLLIDAY

Repairs are still underway, but the silenced Schenley Park merry-go-round, operated by the city and free to youngsters, is a-playin' again.

Happy to be back on a musical merry-go-round and on a fine horse like this one, only it happens to be an ostrich. Business's booming!

Two Notes Gone, Calliope At Schenley Park Thumps On

The calliope of Schenley Park's merry-go-round is thumping again today. Two notes are missing, but it is thumping nevertheless. Tomorrow it may be entirely repaired and as musically perfect as it ever was.

Two weeks ago it slipped. Nine hours a day for many years has weakened its pipes. It began to wheeze, stutter, and stop periodically. Then it halted completely.

The gilded horses, goats, lions and reindeer with smiling youngsters astride them whizzed around. The slushing sound of the wheel was its only song. And what is a merry-go-round without music—such as that music is? Picture yourself riding on one without the dinning melodies—choosing to ride a big giraffe with the honk of auto horns in your ears?

The children complained. No wonder. There are too few thrills in a Blue Law town. Their mamas complained, somewhat strangely, too. Harry G. Miller, an attorney whose residence is near the park, "upped" to Jacob Gimbel, operator, and said that if the calliope (called an organ) was repaired, he'd pay the bill. Even the men who lounge around the park circle trying futilely to chisel rides out of Pat Corbett, the gate-watcher, added their bit. This was most unexpected, according to the veteran Mr. Corbett. Said he:

"You know men aren't allowed on unless they have children with them. Lots of them try to borrow the kids from nurse-girls so they can get on. But I know the rogues, every one of them. This is only for the children and the Mrs. and I keep the others off this merry-go-round. That's me orders."

Finally, James Moore, superintendent of parks, called in the organ repairmen. They were busy erecting a big organ in some Heinz place, they said. At odd moments they did come, with shiny new pipes. A few days of this, and the pipes again began to send their strange diffusions into the air—calliope sounds, happy noises.

The melodies are not so robust today. They can be barely heard from the traffic circle nearby. A musician with a fine ear would be able to discern the missing tubes. But children are not so precocious—even in this age. More than 1,500 rode the wheel yesterday. Sundays run close to 3,000. It's free—the city owns it. But business was poor during the non-music period. Pat invites the kiddies and their mamas. But you must observe the sign which reads:

"Stay on your horse until the wheel stops," even though of course, they are not all horses.

Air Passenger Fares Show Huge Increase

An increase of 360 per cent in the passenger business on its transcontinental divisions was reported by the TAT-Maddux Air Lines in July over the same period last year. The lines last month carried 2,704 passengers, compared with 738 a year ago.

The entire system carried 5,049 passengers, compared with 3,621 in July last year. The company's planes flew a total of 212,000 miles.

Beebe Calls Raided Place 'Worst' Joint

"The worst joint this side of the Rockies" was today the term applied to 1225 Clark street by Inspector Albert Beebe in testifying against Bertha Lewis, Negro, of that address. The Lewis woman was fined $50. Police conducted a raid there yesterday.

GETS HIS $9,000 PAYS $25 FINE

A. C. Phillips, of Webster Hall, who was released yesterday while police kept $9,000 found in his possession, was fined $25 at a private hearing today by Magistrate Charles Papale. He got his $9,000 back.

Phillips arrived late for the hearings in East End police court and was taken into the private office of Magistrate Papale.

After the hearing, Papale announced he had assessed the fine because a loaded shot gun had been found in Phillips' car when he was arrested for zigzagging in Baum boulevard Tuesday. He established ownership of the car, the magistrate asserted. He told Papale he was in the real estate business, Papale said.

FLEEING DRIVER BELIEVED SHOT

An unidentified motorist is believed to have been shot by a motorcycle policeman this morning following a half-mile chase through Squirrel Hill, during which he endangered the lives of other motorists by driving at high speed through stop lights.

The driver fled amid a hail of shots after he had wrecked his machine in Forbes street, near the entrance to the Schenley Park golf links.

Motorcycle Patrolman Edward J. Sweeney, who fired at the fugitive, believes he wounded him.

The motorist, without coat or hat, dragged himself from the wreckage of the car and ran into the park. Sweeney fired and the man cried out, continuing his dash for freedom, and escaped.

The auto's tags were issued to the Keystone Garage, 4917 Liberty avenue.

Court Frees Youth After Mother 'Tells' on Dad

Mr. and Mrs. William White of Franklstown avenue appeared in Morals court today against their son, Robert, 19, whose arrest they had caused last night on a drunkeness charge.

Robert, it was testified broke dishes. His father was anxious to have him punished.

Mrs. White addressed the court:

"My husband was guilty of the same offense when we were first married, and I don't think he should ask punishment for our son."

The court laughed and discharged the youth.

2 NURSES HURT AS RAIL FALLS

Two West Penn Hospital nurses are suffering from injuries received when they were struck by a guard rail of a platform used by cleaners working on a building at 633 Smithfield street, late yesterday.

The victims, Velma McKinney, 21, and Ruth Remaley, were cut and bruised when the rail fell to the sidewalk. Their companion, Gladys Briggs, also a nurse at the West Penn Hospital, escaped unhurt.

Two windows in Snyder's hat shop, at 631 Smithfield street, were broken by the falling rail.

The nurses, graduates of the 1930 class, were downtown on a half-holiday.

CITY AWARDS 4 CONTRACTS

Four contracts for amounts totaling $51,312 were awarded to Pittsburgh contractors today by Edward G. Lang, director of the City Department of Public Works. They called for repairs to bridges, erection of a new pumping unit and repairs to water lines.

A contract for $22,475.50 was awarded to Walter S. Rae for repairs to fences and railings of the South Twenty-second Street Bridge. Work is to be completed in 140 calendar days.

For installation of a new pumping unit on the Herron Hill pumping station, the Dravo-Doyle Company will receive $11,250. The unit will boost water pressure in Herron Hill homes, and must be installed within 120 days.

Repairs to Herr's Island Bridge will cost the city $6,656.50. The Aloe Hansen Engineering and Construction Company was awarded the contract, for a 90-day job.

Rae also was awarded an order for repairs to water lines on the Manchester Bridge for a sum of $15,930. Work must be finished within 60 days.

Stopping at the The Orchard, Georgian Bay, Canada are Oliver S. Dewart, Dr. [illegible] A. Lindsay, Mrs. A. E. Lindsay, Frank W. Gill, Lowell C. Hallman and S. H. McKee.

Travel Chatter

Paying a brief visit to New York is Mrs. George H. Flinn, who is at Easthampton, L. I. for the summer.

Mrs. Andrew W[illegible] Robertson of Pamela Lodge, Brownsville road, is visiting her sons, David and B[illegible], who are at Camp Kenwasan, Wallingford, Vt. both Shady Side boys. Before returning home she will visit her daughter, Elizabeth, who is at Camp Robin Hood, Chambersburg, Pa.

Miss Katherine C. Shields of the Ruskin Apartments and her niece, Camilla Emery of Tucson, Ariz., motored to Chautauqua last week, where they are guests at the Athenaeum.

House parties at summer places are the order now. The Don Roses of Sewickley and their daughters, Anne and Margaret Rose, are entertaining a house party of young folks at their Ahmic Lake cottage in Canada.

House Party

Katherine Collins, daughter of the William W. Collins of Sewickley, Peggy Milligan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan, and Mary Franklin Robinson, daughter of the William Christopher Robinsons of Sewickley, all post-debutantes, are among the guests.

Mabel Smithers of Glen Cove, Palm Beach and New York, and Jasmine Goddard, of New York, both of whom have been guests in Sewickley, are in the party, too.

Anne Rose and Mabel Smithers have just returned to Ahmic Lake after being the guests of Betty McKay, debutante daughter of the T. J. McKays of Morewood avenue, at the McKay summer home in Beaumaris, Can.

Tecumseh Sherman Fitch, son of Mrs. Chester Marsh Van Kleeck, William Jones, son of the W. E. Joneses, and Edward O'Neil III, son of the Chauncey O'Neils, of Sewickley, are also guests at the Rose party.

Yesterday I mentioned that Miss Mabel Lindsay Gillespie and Mrs. Frank Schuyler Dodge, of Whitefield, are to be hostesses at a card party this evening at the Mountain View, Whitefield. In the White Mountains of New Hampshire, for the benefit of the Morrison Hospital at Whitefield. I want to add that Mrs. David Lindsay Gillespie, Miss Gillespie's mother, and Mrs. Alfred C. Hunt are among the patronesses.

Resort Festive

On Saturday at a tea on the lawn at the Mountain View House, Mrs. Gillespie and Mrs. Hunt poured. Over 50 guests attended the event.

The Roy F. Hunts, who are at Sugar Hill for the summer, are entertaining Mr. Hunt's mother, Mrs. Alfred E. Hunt, this week.

Anne and Helen Green, of Pittsburgh, who are the guests of their grandfather and grandmother, the I. B. Johnsons, at the Mt. Washington, are seen riding daily.

Stopping at the Strawberry Hill House at Bethlehem, N. H. are the Howard Harpsters.

Mrs. David Lindsay Gillespie entertained recently with a luncheon at the Mountain View House, Whitefield, in honor of the Roy E. Hunts.

SAFETY JUDGES OPPOSE MARKET AS FIRE RISK

A petition signed by 200 Twelfth Ward residents was presented to City Council yesterday, asking that investigations be made at the East Liberty Home Dressed Meat Company at 6830-6834 Upland street, where two fires have occurred.

The market, according to the petition, was destroyed by fire several weeks ago and a previous building was burned on the site in 1926. Should the establishment be rebuilt, structures in the neighborhood will be in possible danger of a similar occurrence, the petitioners aver. They ask that if the new building is authorized, it be of fireproof materials and be constructed under the direct supervision of building inspectors.

Council directed the petition be sent to the bureau of building inspection for further action. H. C. McCord, of 6828 Upland street, heads the list of signatories. Ralph J. Egermann is owner of the market, the petitioners say.

Mexico Takes Up American Claims

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Mexican-American Claims Commission will commence consideration of 120 claims of American citizens against the Mexican government when it meets in its first regular session August 19.

The preliminary session, presided over by the Panaman arbiter, Horacio Alfaro, was held Wednesday. The American claims, amounting to millions of dollars, arise from destruction of American property in Mexico during revolutionary upheavals since 1910.

Unusually Low Price of Sugar and Fruit Makes Home-canning Pay

The continuous appearance of luscious fruits and berries in the market, and sugar at an unheard-of low price, give every housewife the opportunity to put up a wide variety of preserves, jellies and jams at a most reasonable cost. With these home-canned delicacies on hand, the problem of next winter's desserts can be easily solved.

From the viewpoint of health, canned fruit, jellies and jams should appear daily in the winter diet. Many canned fruits are rich in vitamins. Their flavor arouses the appetite, and their sugar content helps to make a meal enjoyable.

Aside from eating jelly or jam with bread or toast, they are a delicious accompaniment for roast meats and fish. And a spoonful used to top rice or bread puddings makes these nourishing desserts more taste-appealing.

As sugar plays an important part in preserving, so can it be equally essential in the preparation of every-day meals. Sugar when used to season canned or fresh vegetables improves their flavor, thereby making them more enjoyable to the taste. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. Events Class Year Opens Oct. 22

The usual substantial and worth while program has been prepared for next year by the Wednesday Current Events Class. The season will open October 22 with the president's day reception honoring Mrs. William Penn Baum at the Chartiers Heights Country Club. For this occasion Mrs. C. A. Orr, a past president, will be hostess.

Attorney Ella Graubert will address the first of the two November meetings, speaking on "Wills and Inheritances" and on November 19 the social committee will have charge of a luncheon that will follow the annual visit to the International Art Exhibit. Judge Sarah Soffel, who has, for years, given a series of political current events before the class, is scheduled for three appearances this season—December 3, February 18 and April 1.

The customary Christmas luncheon and reception for new members is dated for December 17, then in the new year will come a lecture by Dr. A. P. James, of the University of Pittsburgh, preceding which there will be one of the several special luncheons which lend variation to the year's events. Chester Marvin Wallace, of Carnegie Tech's drama department, is to read a play later that month.

A current events round table following another luncheon will be a February affair, and in charge of this will be six former presidents, Mrs. Arthur B. Sivitter, Mrs. W. A. Crawford, Mrs. J. W. Riley, Mrs. Edward Rynearson, Mrs. Owen G. Butts and Mrs. C. A. Orr.

Benjamin H. Williams, of the political science department, University of Pittsburgh, and George Seibel, dramatic and literary critic of the Sun-Telegraph, are the March speakers, and the annual election and the annual luncheon in April will bring the year to an end.

Cards, refreshments and a bake sale will feature the garden party to be given Saturday by the Brentwood Civic Club. The affair will be held at the home of Miss Louise Kaufman, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. C. T. Thomas is chairman of cards, Mrs. Edward Ebs of refreshments and Mrs. Walter Miller of the bake sale.

Garden Party

In the chapter room at Moose Temple, Fort Pitt Chapter No. 130, Order of the Eastern Star, will have a card party Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Elizabeth Stollte is worthy matron of the chapter.

The Pittsburgh Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta Sorority will hold its monthly meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Dr. Helen Gilmore, Walnut street, East End.

A card party will be given tomorrow evening at Serbian Hall, Oakland, by Rigo Sisterhood, Dames of Malta.

Traffic Police Hear Talk on Car Zones

Members of the downtown traffic squad of the police department were addressed on street car safety zones today by Edward B. Lee, chairman of the off-street terminal facilities section of the Better Traffic Committee. The talk was the sixth of a series of traffic lessons sponsored by the committee.

U. S. Boat Inspector Will Address Club

D. N. Hoover, of Washington, supervising inspector general of the United States steamboat inspection service, will be honor guest and speaker at a luncheon of the Propellor Club of the United States, Port of Pittsburgh, Wednesday night in the Keystone Athletic Club.

THE LATE SUMMER WARDROBE SHOULD NOT BE NEGLECTED

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, AUG. 14.—Even though we are beginning to turn our thoughts to fall wardrobes and consider the sporting possibilities of new fabrics and sartorial details, the late summer wardrobe is not to be neglected. It is just at the waning of one season and the rising of another that the fashion wise woman is most careful to scrutinize her wardrobe with a critical eye. A new costume to replace the favorite that is beginning to show the strain of too many wearings adds greatly to the aspect of the entire wardrobe and excites new enthusiasm to the last activities of the season.

SO WHILE COUTURIERS are already showing new sports costumes of rich woolens, knitted fabrics with frosted weaves and fur trimmed suits, they are recognizing the need for late summer silks. Jane Regny for example offers a sports ensemble made in white silk shirting with a narrow satin stripe. As seen in the sketch here both the dress and the jacket are sleeveless and the only trimming is found in the clever use of the striped material.

WE HAVE A TWOFOLD reason for showing the other sports dress and coat made for Mary Garden by Molyneux. One to illustrate the charm of a jacket suit of pale blue tuss or crepe and the other, that it gives us an excuse to tell you that scalloped edges are still a trimming detail of special importance in the mode. Here they are found on both the coat and dress and in many models that we have recently seen, scallops are used to finish a hip yoke, a peplum, a bolero or in any one of the number of unexpected places where they add an interesting decorative note.

LAWYER OPENS TAX DEFENSE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The government rested its case yesterday against Dr. William F. Doyle, veterinarian who turned lawyer eight years ago and collected an alleged aggregate of $2,000,000 in fees for pleadings before the city board of standards and appeals.

He is charged with falsification of income tax returns and perjury for 1927, 1928 and 1929, when he listed a gross income of only $229,000 and collected, the government contends, more than $600,000. The defense was to move for dismissal today and will present witnesses if the plea is denied.

The government called 93 witnesses in presenting its case and each witness testified to paying Dr. Doyle amounts ranging from $500 to $52,000 for pleading for building permits and zoning and fire law concessions before the standards board.

CANADIAN VACATION

PERSONALLY CONDUCTED, ALL-EXPENSE 10-DAY CRUISE
$130

See the Glory of the SAGUENAY RIVER in Old French Canada

THE 10-day tour starts from Cleveland, although ships may be boarded at any stopping point, and takes you down the great St. Lawrence river that flows through picturesque historic French Canada. First you visit Niagara Falls and then steam across the Lake to Toronto, Queen city of Canada. Leaving Toronto you sail among the jewelled Thousand Islands and shoot in perfect safety the series of eight roaring rapids to Montreal. Here you sightsee for a day with hotel accommodation.

On to Quebec by night, down the best lighted waterway in the world. Dawn finds you docked beneath the mist wreathed ramparts of this fortress city. You spend a day on the return trip exploring its quaint, winding streets and promenading its famous Dufferin Terrace, which overlooks from on high the beautiful harbour. You visit the celebrated shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupré. Miraculous cures are reported here and pilgrims journey from the four corners of the earth to worship at this hallowed spot.

Away down the widening reaches of the St. Lawrence to Murray Bay and peaceful Tadoussac. This little village, dreaming beneath its mountain background, is the last port of call before the awe-inspiring sail up the mysterious Saguenay river, guarded by its stupendous capes. A cruise into an old world that lies close at hand. See it before this corner of natural grandeur becomes part of all that is modern. Accommodation, both ship and hotel, is on the most luxurious scale.

Huge collars shall not hide the face this year—nor small ones again fail to frame it. And so by way of explanation of her new, subtle mood, Fashion introduces the which stand up in a new bulkless way that subtracts width from the figure and definitely fits in with our new raised waistlines.

The Pouch Collar
Short Shawl Collar

And when these collars are made of unusually fine furs, placed on high-priced materials, tailored in individual models—as these are—they are exceedingly desirable. And very popular at their extremely reasonable August Coat Sale prices, $55.

Women's Regular and Half Sizes. Misses' Sizes. Black and fall colors.

The coat sketched has the new pouch collar that may either hug the neck gracefully or crush to a short shawl effect. It is imported tweed with Persian lamb collar $55. Other coat groups with the new collar tendencies—$85 and $110.

"To-and-Fro" FROCKS

In a New Kind of Material—Travel Crepe

To wear now—and just the sort of thing to make you ready-for-fall when the first cool day rolls around.

They're an ingenious mixture that is tweed-looking, wool-wearing and silk-feeling—in monotone and duotone patterns. And they flaunt their new pleats and buttons and lingerie touches to prove that—be it ever so ready—this fall's frock will be decorative.

Furthermore, they are wrinkleless, and as appropriate for campus and business as they are for going to and fro. How useful they will be!

The frock sketched, one of three models, has a short-sleeved dress and hip length jacket. It is slightly fitted.

Others are in one and three-piece styles. Regular and half sizes for women, and sizes for misses in these colors.

Going Away? Here's Another Smart Costume

A BLOUSE—A SKIRT
$3.95 $2.95

Vacation's the time when everyone needs lots of clothes, and tries to get as much as she can for as little! So we suggest for those wanted extra costumes:

BLOUSES—of crepe, silk and georgette—very finely done with fagotting, draped collars and lovely tailoring (they were $5.95 and $8.95 models.) Light and medium shades in flower, print or plain patterns. All sizes from 34 to 42 in the lot but not in every style. Special $3.95.

SKIRTS—Flannel, crepe and tweed—that do all sorts of things to bring out the blouses. Yoke, belted and bodice top styles—up to $5.95 models. There's a skirt, in some style or model for every one, and only $2.95.

And just as a hint to the very foresighted—many of both can be worn in the fall!

"Why Greta [illegible]

"Old [illegible] You didn't think I'd try [illegible] Prince of Wales [illegible] Well, [illegible] way, after [illegible] talking with [illegible] thought I ought [illegible] around the deck and I didn't say no. I said I'd have to go get a heavier wrap.

"Did you come in? I didn't hear you."

"No, dearie. You were in the arms of Morphine or whoever it is. You know that string of French pearls I wore? The ones that go with this dress? Well, I took them off and put on an old string of my own. Cost me all of ten cents, believe it or not. With a fake emerald clasp on it you could tell was phony ten miles. Here's the cut-glass emerald."

Greta held out a dainty pink-tipped hand.

"When we got to a dark part of the ship," she went on, "after daddy had tried to encircle my sylph-like waist, I loosened the clasp and the pearls fell on the deck. I picked them up, and you ought to have heard me howl. The fake emerald was gone."

"Lost!"

"No. Down here on my dress-ser. I pried it out with a nail file before I went back with my wrap. Daddy was on all fours hunting for it by the light of matches, and me crying that it was a family heirloom that belonged to my mother, wouldn't Hattie like that?, and I simply couldn't face my uncle, Uncle Alphonse, if it was lost. I threatened to call the purser to have the ship searched. That's where daddy wilted."

Well Protected

"But why, if he thought you'd lost it?"

"Listen angel. That old dodo's got a mamma on the ship. And he was with me. You don't think that is the kind of news you can take home to the family, do you?"

"What did you do?"

"I wept. Copiously. So daddy dug. He asked me how much it was worth, and I said I didn't know, but the jeweler said several hundred dollars. He gave me these few little tokens, and made me promise I wouldn't tell, but go and have the emerald replaced the minute I got to Paris. Oh joy, oh bliss, the bells are ringing."

Greta warbled a snatch from a popular tune.

"I bet he's up there right now, scraping the ice scuppers for emeralds."

"But if he finds out—" Raquel said fearfully.

"Let him. What do I care? He can't do anything about it, can he? Not with mamma ready [illegible]

Disappointed

[illegible] a fit. [illegible] didn't [illegible] Greta. You wouldn't [illegible]

[illegible] be fool.

[illegible] a little [illegible] that [illegible] Kress [illegible] Ah, [illegible] a[illegible] that [illegible] a real [illegible]

[illegible] take [illegible] to [illegible] a break," said Greta, laughing again, "let's count 'em. One hundred. A fifty. Five tens. Look at the five-spots and the lonesome Annies. Four hundred and ninety-nine dollars. The lightwad.

"Four hundred and ninety-nine dollars! That's a hundred dollars, Greta."

"What kind of an errand does he think I can buy with that? I've got a good notion to go up and start crying all over again."

Despite her concern about what might be the result of Greta's acquisitive nature, Raquel could not help laughing at the threat evoked.

"Four ninety-nine," grumbled the innocent-looking Greta, shaking her boyish bob. "Sounds like bargain day in Stacy's basement. Four ninety-nine, marked down from five."

"Well, anyway, he saved a dollar," teased Raquel.

"Yes," ruefully. "He squandered that on dinner in the Ritz Restaurant."

"Are you really going to buy something, a jeweled clasp, with the money?" Raquel asked, curious to know why Greta had taken the risk of being branded as an impostor.

Raquel Refuses

"Am I going to buy something?" gurgled Greta. "I'll say I am. I will buy one wow of a party the minute we set foot in Paris. The good time to be had in Paris on four ninety-nine is nobody's business, believe me."

Maybe you ought to save at least part of it.

"Save for what? Life is darn short, dearie, especially the good part of it. You've got to make hay while the sun shines. And I am some little hay-maker."

"It must be nice to have your own money, though."

"What fun is there in having money? All the fun is in getting it, and in getting rid of it. I haven't finished with old baggy pants yet, not by a long shot. Maybe you'd like to take a whirl at him, old dear."

Raquel shook her head.

"I'm afraid I'd make a failure," she said, jokingly, and paused. Why was she adopting this holier-than-thou attitude with Greta? Hadn't she done the same thing, "dug" with Bill Johnson? The 10-room stone house on the edge of town. The wedding trip to San Francisco. The "loan" from Farrell. The trip on the train to Phoenix when she had schemed not to pay the conductor.

Would she come, eventually, to be like Greta? Getting things out of people for the mere sport of the game?

No. She must not be like that. It was cheap, to get a few dollars in that way. She could earn them. There were other things, beauty, success, not to be bought with dollars. These she must win.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, August 15

The planetary configurations for this day emphasize the unusual, peculiar and subtle. The influence of Neptune, the planet of the mysterious and marvelous, may assist all new projects or those negotiations which may be most successfully manoeuvered by secret and intriguing methods rather than by "open agreements openly arrived at." With this there should be care in signing all writings. The personal relations may be complexioned by subdued, cautious, suspicious or suppressed aspects.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year on which they may safely launch new plans and projects, especially if these combine with large or secret organizations or rings. But these activities involving conspiracy, diplomacy or subtle manipulations should prosper, provided there be care in signing all writings. The tendencies may be toward the mystical or curious and the personal attitude may be subdued or depressed.

A child born on this day may be disposed to those things of a secret, subtle or mysterious nature, and should succeed where intrigue and strategem are important and determining factors.

Time Will Solve Unfortunate Affair of Mixed Babies, Thinks Fay King

By FAY KING.

Science has failed in its effort to decide which are the parents of each baby in the recent mix-up.

The mother instinct has failed also. Both mothers claim the same baby. Both reject the other.

This is the saddest part of the unfortunate affair. That both should want one baby—and neither want the other.

Law and time alone can make a just decision. Each mother should take the best of care of the child in her trust. Both families should keep in touch with each other and the authorities.

In a few years when the children show more marked family resemblance the final decision should be made.

All little babies are sweet and should find love for them in every heart.

You know what I'd like to do? I was tired to get up for me. I threatened. But I want to talk to you for about five minutes undisturbed. Where are the youngsters?"

In their grandmother's room, safe—for the next half hour at least. She has on a story-telling jag today and the boys are profiting by it most enthusiastically, you will be glad to know.

I am immensely grateful to her," I said. "Now here's the situation."

As quickly as possible I told her of the posture of Marion and the letter which Robert Savarin [illegible] until death had sent to Lillian of Harry Underwood's struggle with himself and his announcement that Lillian must go to see the dying man, and of my determination to go with Lillian.

"It leaves you with a load," I said contritely, "but Dicky will be here. I am sure—"

"Even if he isn't, I can manage," she said with the capable sureness of herself which I have found so unfailing. "And if you say the word, load or any synonym therefor, I shall brain you. If the Dicky-bird stays and makes himself responsible for those two older boys, I shall have what used to be described as a 'lead-pipe cinch.'

"He'll be here," I asserted stoutly.

"Can you take Mary with you?"

I stared at her for the fraction of a second before voicing an unqualified affirmative.

"Of course, if you wish it," I said. "But why? I thought Noel needed her."

"He does, but he needs her absence more," she retorted cryptically.

"It's that letter business," she said. "I'm sure of that. If you were going to be here, so that you could find out what it is that's eating his heart out—for that's what's happening—it would be all right to keep Mary here. But as it is now, I think seeing her is bad for him. If she goes away, he'll worry, of course, but it will be a natural sort of worry, even though exaggerated a bit—he's got the fear of Jack Leslie obsessing him, you know. All in all, however, I think her absence will be most salutary for him."

"And there's no question about Mary's needing to get away," I said with the memory of the girl's doleful confidence of the morning still in my ears.

Katherine nodded. "You're sure Lillian won't mind?"

"She is thinking of only two things just now," I said. "Robert's condition, and Harry's chivalry in bidding her to go to him. Nothing else will affect her. But I'm starting in an hour. Shall I tell Mary?"

"Leave that to me," Katherine suggested, "while you make your peace with Mother Graham. Mary can be ready to go in 20 minutes, so I can lie here for a few minutes. What are you going to tell your mother-in-law? Not the truth, I hope."

She smiled up at me wickedly.

"I'm afraid I can't," I said regretfully. "It would take too much explaining. Besides it is Lillian's affair. But I think the excuse of a Christmas shopping trip may do. She knows I have to go into the city soon, and I shall make my excuse true before I come back, if there is an opportunity for me to stop in the city. It all depends upon Robert's condition, you know."

"What did he say the doctors had told him?" she asked. I told her and she looked off into space for a second or two.

"A good nurse never diagnoses, and never prescribes," she quoted from her hospital discipline. "But I'll venture a prediction. Either Robert Savarin lives but a few hours after Lillian sees him, or else her coming spurs his vitality and gives him perhaps weeks of life which he otherwise would not have had. In either case—"

"We will make only a day's stay," I said. "If he goes, Lillian's errand is finished. If he lingers as you predict, she can go back after the holidays."

Exactly," Katherine agreed. "Now what do you want me to look after while you are gone, outside the usual routine I mean?"

I gave her my two commissions concerning the Christmas celebrations and then went to my mother-in-law's room, wondering with trepidation how she would react to my suddenly-planned departure.

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Before the summer is over try to give your feet sand treatments. Run in the sand. Push the toes into the sand. Dig holes in the sand with your heels. There is nothing better for removing callous spots, grating down hardened cuticles, even corns, than running on a sandy beach. Follow with a warm foot bath with baking soda in the water. If feet burn and smart, rub with cold cream and apply cold compresses.

Correct posture is a matter of the mind. When we feel peppy we take the kinks out of the human backbone, stretch the body tall and step high. Slumping shoulders and shuffling gait are expressive of despair. You can turn the idea inside out and say that if you throw back your shoulders and march, stepping briskly, the mental state improves, worries drop away and you're ready to swing the world by its tail. Incorrect posture interferes with free circulation which is necessary for body repairs, body warmth, good digestion and a delicately tinted complexion.

The Marry-Go-Round

The Man of It

To kiss or not to kiss. That seems to be the modern girl's problem. If she does he loves and rides away—and if she doesn't, he goes right past.

The softest spot on earth is the heart of a professional woman-hater. When I hear one vowing that he will never marry, because he can't find an ideal woman, I sigh to think what easy game he will be for some fluffy little thing with a lisp, a weak chin, a chiffon character and a dimple in place of a soul.

A man used to perform feats of courage to prove his love, but nowadays it's a real love if he doesn't even glance out of the corner of his eye at the taximeter, while he's kissing you.

The sweetest vindication a wife can have, is to hear her husband's stenographer verify her own opinion of him.

Nowadays a girl who would laugh at the idea of love in a cottage will cheerfully accept love in a second-hand motor car that is being paid for on the installment plan.

There are three vital moments in the most honest man's life, when he hates to meet his wife's eyes; when he is making a public speech, when he is making a private confession, and when he is trying to thank her for the rotten cigars she gave him for his birthday.

The average man is such a "base materialist" that he can't see the vital reason for candles that mustn't be lighted, vases that won't hold water and cushions that may not be sat on.

The honeymoon is not over until the bride stops worrying for fear her darling may lose his heart, and begins worrying for fear he will lose his digestion, his umbrella, or his job.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Do Romeos Prefer Juliettes Who Pick Expensive Shows?

Does it pay to go easy on the Boy Friend's pocketbook — or does he get sore if you don't give him a chance to play Heavy Sugar Daddy when you go out with him?

That's the question that has raised a cyclone in this department.

Harriet began it—and other things. Harriet, if you remember, wrote us a letter bemoaning her lack of dates, and asking with a lot of heat where an office girl could find Her Man.

Whereupon Albert and Adele both grabbed their pens and burst into hearty response.

Al was sure that Modern Maids were lonely because it cost too much to entertain 'em.

"How about being able to save a little money?" he squawked. "I can't entertain girls and keep myself out of the poorhouse."

And Adele asserted, with loud snorts of derision, that Romeos preferred Juliettes who would take 'em for a cleaning, and step out high, wide and handsome and said her experience proved that when Miss 1930 talked economy and picked cheap shows the Boy Friend went away from there and never came back.

So we yelled for help, and here's Maida with loud cheers for Adele's tune.

"A fellow can't show off if the girl pays half the bill," she says. "There's no kick in it for him. He's got to feel superior or—"

Her letter may make you smash your teeth and throw fits, but here goes!

50-50 PROBLEM

"Dear Miss Sally:

"I've just been reading the letter written by that enterprising young man named Albert, about girls going fifty-fifty on shows, dinners, etc., and I just have to make a few remarks.

"No, I'm not writing to bawl him out. I'm for him. Only I don't think his idea would work out. You can toss your head and so can others, and accuse me of being a traitor to my sex, but I don't see where I am. We, or rather our mothers and grandmothers, yelled for equality and independence . . . and got it! Why not stick to it? That's my idea.

"No, I'm not objecting to Al at all. My 'beef' is this. The Raging Romeos want girls to go 50-50 on dates. Yeah! That's what they say. But they don't live up to it. The letter from Adele was true. I've seen things like that happen myself.

"Hasn't 'showing-off' been a trait of the male sex, from Adam on down? I'm sure you'll agree. And how can a man show off if he can't be the big butter 'n' egg man when he takes a girl out?

"What gives him more pleasure than to show a girl a good time and know that he has paid for it? If the girl should go 'Dutch' wouldn't it take all the kick out of it for him? Don't you think they'd tire of each other? That there'd be no thrill, no mystery, no romance in it? That she'd get to be just an old shoe to him? I do. You know folks don't think a lot of people that 'any old thing' is good enough for.

BELIEVES LIKE ADELE

"I believe just like Adele does. And I've gone out with fellows who insisted on spending money right and left on me. We had a good time at shows, dances, out to dinner. And they came right back for more punishment on their pocketbooks! I don't think they'd have appreciated me acting like I thought they couldn't afford it. It would have nicked their pride. Maybe I'm wrong, but that's the way I've got it doped out. And it seems to work out.

"I've been out with fellows who had to count their pennies, too, and, knowing the circumstances, I've refused to let them spend all they had. Did they come back and ask me out again? No ma'am. They did not. So there!

"MAIDA."

Well! How about it, boys? Who's right? Al? Or Adele and Maida? Does it cramp your style and make you feel injured in your pride if you can't play Lord Bountiful when you take the Girl Friend out?

Or would you appreciate a nice, considerate, economical maid?

And, if you would, how come Adele and Maida both lost out when they tried being that way?

Let's hear all about it! Come on! Speak up, Big Boy.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Sleep and Fresh Air Are Beneficial to Health

We are meant to sleep well and often. When you sleep well you feel well. After a night of perfect sleep you are fit for the day's work.

Sleep is evasive. When found and kept, when it becomes an unbroken habit, sleep repairs the damage done to nerve and cell tissues in the waking hours. It is a recuperative medium, and we can't get along without it.

DR COPELAND

There are many disorders of sleep, too many to include here. One of the most common is insomnia, or sleeplessness. It is due to a variety of causes. It may be due to physical or emotional conditions. It may come from a toxic condition, or a nervous condition, or mental fatigue.

Disturbance of the digestive tract is one of the most common causes for not sleeping well. Worry and anxiety of any sort is pretty sure to keep one awake.

Poorly ventilated and overheated rooms will cause great restlessness. Everyone should sleep with windows wide open in the summer with light covering. Too much covering or not enough will cause wakefulness.

With children as with many adults, insufficient nourishment will cause persistent wakefulness. One of the best things to promote sleep is the drinking of a glass of hot milk, or hot malted milk, before bedtime.

Proper habits of sleep are essential for a growing child, as they are for adults. Going to bed at a regular time helps to fix the habit of sleep.

Babies pampered by mothers and nurses and taken up at the very first cry, or for a trivial reason, very soon become poor sleepers. From the time a child is a week old it should be laid down quietly and the room darkened, when sleep comes on naturally.

In older children who are impressionable and of a nervous tendency, it is best not to read them exciting stories or have them engage in exciting pastimes in the hour just before bedtime.

It is better, also, not to have a ticking clock in the room. It is just as well for children not to know the length of time they sleep.

These are only a few of the causes of sleeplessness. There are often conditions of health and disease where sleeplessness is a marked symptom, but the common causes, which many times are easily overcome, should be attended to at once.

Sleep and rest come most easily when the senses are dulled to drowsiness.

Cultivate an optimistic spirit and teach your child to do the same. Look on the bright side of things. Banish worry and in the natural order of things good, sound sleep may be yours.

Answers to Health Queries

Dorothy. Q.—What do you advise for moles?

A.—Moles may be made less noticeable by the use of the electric needle, handled by an expert. There are chemical preparations which may be used, but must be administered by a skin specialist.

Billie. Q.—Is it dangerous for me to visit the home where a member of the family has tuberculosis?

A.—Not at all if you avoid contact with moist secretion of patient.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you tell me how we are to stand during the wedding ceremony? I understand the bridesmaid stands on my left and my husband-to-be stands on my right, and the best man on the right of my husband-to-be. Is this right?

2. And about the ring—does he put the ring on my right hand or on my left? Some tell me it's one way and some tell me it's the other. A. M.

Yes, all these positions are correct. Your chief attendant stands on your left so that she will be in position to take care of your bouquet and train. The best man stands on the right of the groom so that he will be in position to hand the groom the ring. You stand on the left of the groom, and when you turn to go down the aisle, you walk on the right of the groom.

2. The groom puts the ring on the marriage finger, the third finger of the left hand. I cannot understand how any one could tell you otherwise. I wonder if you have not confused what some one has told you about wearing the engagement ring. The bride usually wears the engagement ring on her right hand during the ceremony, for the wedding ring must not be put on over the engagement ring.

Families Joined in Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A young man and woman were very quietly married without the knowledge of any one. Immediately following the ceremony they informed the parents and friends of their marriage. The parents of both were satisfied with the match and were completely reconciled. Now the parents wish to meet and come together in the proper manner. Should the girl's parents or the young man's parents take the initiative?

MRS. M. W.

There isn't any rule about this post-marriage invitation of one family to the other, but I think that the best way would be to regard this in the light of the pre-marriage rule about this. And that is that the parents of the groom should visit first the bride and her parents.

Greeting the Motorist Caller

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for a young lady to walk to the front gate to meet a young man when he drives up, or is it his place to walk to the porch where she will meet him?

LIGHT HAIR

It is more dignified, and just as hospitable, for her to allow him to come to the door, and ring the bell.

Household Hints

Beat the blankets gently after washing and drying to make them soft and fluffy.

When brass articles are not in use, they should be wrapped in newspaper with small bags of camphor attached to them to prevent tarnishing.

The wise housewife has a stock of lemons, a batch of root beer or gingerale always on hand. Then she does not have to send out for the more expensive ice cream for refreshments every time unexpected guests call.

GEHRIG AND KLEIN PROMISE RECORDS

AMONG THE MAJOR league records that appear certain to be smashed in this year of unparalleled slugging is one in a department that shows more clearly than any other the true value of a hitter. It is the mark for runs batted in during a season. The highest figures ever established by a big league batsman in that all-important offensive branch are credited to Lou Gehrig, the larruping firstsacker who runs Babe Ruth a close second in the Yankee attack, and it is Gehrig himself who promises to boost them before the campaign of 1930 becomes a matter of history.

Lou Gehrig

The present record of all time for runs driven home during a major league flag race is 175, set by Gehrig in 155 games in 1927. Up to date this year, the same player has pounded 140 tallies across the platter. That's an average of better than one per game, and as Lou needs only 36 more to surpass his performance of three years ago and the Yanks still have 38 contests to play, it will be possible for the Iron Horse to fall a little below the average he has maintained so far and yet hang up a new mark.

SOME RECORD-BREAKING OF the same sort also is in prospect in the National League. The greatest number of runs ever knocked in by one player during a season in the older circuit was 159, Hack Wilson, of the Cubs, having reached that peak in 150 games in 1929. For the present season, Chuck Klein, of the Phillies, has 125 to his credit. Even a lower average during the Phils' remaining 43 games will enable him to punch home the 35 more tallies needed to beat Wilson's total.

While the Pirates have no candidates for league record honors in that direction, they are likely at least to have a representative among the loop leaders in the person of Adam Comorosky. The Polish lad has been the Bucs' best run producer all season and is right on the verge of the hundred mark, having hammered in 98 up to date. Not many of the Heydler hitters besides Klein will beat him out if he keeps up that gait to the finish.

COMOROSKY, who leads the National League in triples and was also first in doubles until recently, has a chance for a club record, at least, that of knocking in more runs during a season than any other Pirate ever succeeded in doing.

The Buccaneer top in that respect is 131, set by Paul Waner in 1927. If he can maintain the average of close to one run knocked in per game, at which he has been traveling thus far, Commy's total at the end of the season will be approximately 140.

Adam Comorosky

ONLY ONCE IN the last six years has the leading Pirate tally manufacturer fallen below 100. That was in 1926, when Kiki Cuyler topped the local crew with 92 runs punched across. Next to Paul Waner's record of 131 in 1927 ranks Pie Traynor's total of 124 in 1928. Glenn Wright led the club with 121 in 1925, and with 111 in 1924; while Traynor was first with 108 in 1929, and with 101 in 1923. Carson Bigbee was just one short of the century line in 1922 with 99. No Pirate reached the three figure total in earlier years before the advent of the lively ball. George Whitted took the honors in 1920 with 74, Charley Grimm showed the way in 1921 with 71, and Billy Southworth had only 64 to head the list in 1919.

REMY KREMER retained the distinction of having won more games than any other pitcher in the National League when he defeated the Phillies in the third game of the series at Forbes Field by making a brilliant finish after being found for four runs in the first inning.

The Pirate slab master was the first hurler in the senior league to score 15 victories, reaching that mark before any league rival had totaled even 14. It was the first time this season that he succeeded in defeating the Phillies.

THAT ROUNDS OUT Kremer's list, and he has now defeated every other club in the league. Five of his victories have been won over the Cardinals, three over the Cubs, two each over the Giants and Reds, and one each over the Robins, Braves and Phillies.

Jim Bottomley

Remy has kept up his record of not having fallen below 15 wins in any season since he became a Buc in 1924. That was his lowest mark, recorded in 1928. His highest was 20 in 1926. He has won 122 games all told for the Corsairs against only 63 defeats, within four wins of being a record of two out of every three.

WHETHER OR NOT it's merely a ruse on the part of the Cardinal management to make Jim Bottomley step on the gas remains to be seen, but a rumor comes from St. Louis that the Redbird first-baseman is to be traded next winter. Color is given to the report by an official announcement that the St. Louis club plans to call in Jim Collins from its Rochester farm in the International League. Collins, a former Johnstown player, has developed into a crack first sacker and slugger at Rochester, and it is said that if the recruit looks ripe for fast company Bottomley will be found with some club other than the Cards next season. Before accepting this as a fact, however, it might be well to wait until Collins has beaten out Bottomley for the St. Louis berth. It's apt to prove rather a hefty contract.

BECAUSE THE BOXERS are making financial demands which the Madison Square Garden Corporation declares are exorbitant, several important fistic matches which had been shaped up to feature big outdoor shows in New York during the remainder of the summer season have been called off or at least temporarily sidetracked.

Many fans believe that the New York rule fixing the pay of the fighters in a championship bout at 37½ per cent of the gate to the title holder and 12½ per cent to the challenger is sometimes unjust. For instance in a bout between Young Jack Thompson and Jimmy McLarnin, Battling Battalino and Kid Chocolate, or even Max Schmeling and Young Stribling, the challenger instead of the champion would be the drawing card.

IN THOSE CASES it is held the challenger would have a right to demand and to receive more than 12½ per cent, which is only one-third the amount paid to the crown wearer, but the Gotham promot-

MEDALIST WINS FIRST ROUND MATCH

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Watts Gunn, of Oakmont, medalist in the qualifying round yesterday when he scored a 77, advanced to the second round of the Western Pennsylvania amateur golf championship today when he defeated Les Miles, of Oakmont, 6 and 7.

Gunn, the southerner, who established something of a record in the qualifying round by being the only man in one of the largest and strongest fields to break an 80, held a 6-up lead on Miles at the turn and never was threatened.

"It was his poor playing, not by good playing that put me so far in the lead," Gunn said, following his one-sided victory.

Judging from his showing yesterday and the first round of match play today, Gunn is one of the big favorites to win the championship.

Greer McIlvain, State open champion, was 3 up on R. C. Boucek, of Highland, at the turn, while J. Delany St. Clair, Indiana, was 2 up on his clubmate, Vernon H. Fritchman at the same place. Fritchman is representing Penn State College in the tournament. The summary:

FIRST SIXTEEN.

Watts Gunn, Oakmont, defeated Les Miles, Oakmont, 6 and 7.
Greer McIlvain, Oakmont, defeated R. J. Boucek, Highland, 4 and 3.
Vernon H. Fritchman, Indiana, defeated J. Delaney St. Clair, Indiana, 2 up.
G. C. McClure, Charleroi, defeated H. H. Peyton, Shadyside, 3 and 2.
S. Davidson Horton, Oakmont, defeated J. G. Wyman, Highland, 2 and 1.
Fred Brandt, Jr., Shadyside, defeated Thomas Bruce, Valley Heights, 6 and 5.
Fred S. Wagner, Shadyside, defeated Samuel W. Grant, Butler, 5 and 4.
Samuel M. Parks, Jr., Highland, defeated W. E. McKinney, Oakmont, 7 and 6.

THIRD SIXTEEN.

Charles Fullerton defeated William Adendorf, 1 up, 19 holes.
George Sohns defeated J. S. Sargent, 3 up.
William E. Donahue defeated W. J. Jaquette, 2 up.
James Hammond defeated F. A. Vatos, 1 up.
Joseph W. Oliver defeated W. C. Farquhar, 3 and 2.
E. F. King defeated J. R. Fry, 5 and 4.
Dr. J. H. Rower, defeated H. L. Clark, 7 and 6.
Vernon L. Atwater defeated J. E. Canning, 2 and 1.

FOURTH SIXTEEN.

Leo P. Sheriy, defeated Blair Kuntz, 4 and 3.
Chester H. Lehman won from Tom Underwood, by default.
Baird Young defeated Robert Thompson, 2 and 1.
J. F. Newman defeated C. M. Dettier, Jr., 6 and 4.
F. L. Jones, Jr., won from E. E. Hewitt, Jr., by default.
L. B. Smith won from C. E. Peters, by default.
G. V. Kappel defeated William Mercer 3 and 2.
Dr. W. M. Crumrine defeated W. B. Sheppard, 1 up, 22 holes.

Follow Through Wins Plate Race

KEMPTON PARK, England, Aug. 14.—Glorney's Follow Through, by Milesius from Grisnez, won the Teddington Plate at odds of 20-to-1 today.

Follow Through was three lengths of D. P. Nicol's Sculptor, which finished second, half a length ahead of P. Ellison's Norman Duchess. Nine horses ran. The distance was 7 furlongs and the value of the plate £2,000.

Billy Jacobs Wins In Culver Tourney

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Favorites in the national junior tennis singles championships swept through to the quarter-final round yesterday, except for Jack Cosgrove, of San Francisco, seeded No. 3.

Victim of the only upset the day's play produced, Cosgrove was eliminated by his fellow townsman, Charles Hunt, Pacific Coast junior champion, by scores of 7-5, 6-4.

Advancing into the quarter-finals with Hunt were seven seeded players—Karl Kamrath, Austin, Tex.; Wilmer Mines, Columbia, S. C.; Ray Palmer, Malba, L. I.; Donald Morrison, Washington, D. C.; James Bobbitt, Pasadena, Cal.; Kendall Cram, Nashville, Tenn., and William Jacobs, of Pittsburgh.

LOCALS REACH SEMI-FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Staff Correspondent.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 14.—Dr. John O'Loughlin, ace of the P. A. A., and Edgar Alcorn, youthful Mt. Lebanon star, will carry Pittsburgh colors into the men's singles semi-finals of the eleventh annual Western Maryland tennis championships on the gallery courts of the Women's Civic Club here this afternoon.

Opposing O'Loughlin in the lower half of the draw will be the slashing Uniontown youth, Billy Ramsay, while Alcorn, in the upper sector, will be meeting the redoubtable Washingtonian, Bob Considine, holder of the District of Columbia title.

O'Loughlin crashed the penultimate bracket yesterday by dint of a hard won, though quite decisive 6-3, 6-4 victory over his fellow Pittsburgher, W. J. Clardy, Westinghouse luminary, who had earlier in the day eliminated the rangy Elkins lad, James Allen, 6-0, 7-5. To pass into the quarter finals, Clardy's flashing forehand caused the Winged Head contender considerable anxiety at several stages of the imbroglio.

ALCORN DOWNS BROWN

Alcorn attained the round of eight through 6-1, 8-10, 7-5 triumph over Doran Brown, Elkins dark horse, and later caused rather an upset by clearly outhitting the usually rock-like Tack Hammer, Greensburg tactician and Westmoreland County champion, 6-2, 6-2.

Hammer was most unwontedly erratic in his afternoon session with the Mount Lebanon boy, but this fact in no way detracts from the excellence of the latter's fore and backhand driving game. In a morning contest, Hammer defeated Sullivan, of the P. A. A., 6-2, 7-5.

CONSIDINE VICTOR

Considine hung up a well merited 6-3, 6-4 verdict over B. F. Arkle, blonde Wheeling satellite

Farrell Sets New Record at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Johnny Farrell, of the Quaker Ridge Club, New York, burned up the Keller course yesterday, where the St. Paul $10,000 open starts tomorrow, with a round of 67, five under par, to establish a new course record. Farrell's round was one stroke better than that of Gene Sarazen, of the Lakeville Club, New York, who equaled the former low score with a 68.

Horton Smith, of the Yacht and Country Club, Gragston, N. Y., had a 70, as did Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del., and Leonard Mattson, Keller professional.

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, it's a kind of relief to get a sock at them Quakers after fightin' for more than two weeks straight with the Giants, Cardinals, Cubs and Dodgers. There's four tough clubs to meet in a row, and I think the strain was too much toward the last.

We're beginnin' to hit the ball better again. Bill Doak, the star pitcher of some years ago, is out there throwin' to our batters nearly every day, and I guess Bill is givin' them the right kind of hittin' practice.

FRED LOOKS STRANGE

Fred Brickell looks kinda strange in that Philly uniform, but we're all hopin' he gets away good, because he's a great boy. We miss him a lot on our club.

Brick came onto the field yesterday, and, as he was passin' our dugout, Pie called him to come over and sit down and give us all the latest scandal. Brick turned up his nose, at Pie and says he couldn't afford to be seen loafin' with us Pirates.

But Brick won't get lonesome on the Quaker team as long as Thompson is around. I thought we had some smart crackers on our club, but that guy cuts them loose faster than Nick Altrock.

Nobody can understand why the Phils are down so deep in the cellar. We wuz talkin' about them on our bench when somebody remarked:

.400 FIELDERS

"How can they get down so low with so many .400 hitters?" And somebody cracked back with:

"Maybe they have too many .400 fielders."

That was a fast one, but on the level Shotton has some star fielders. Chuck Klein is gettin' to be a real ball hawk out there and fellas like Thompson, Thevenow and Whitney are stars in the field.

Ripley 'Find' Gives Him Blessing

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Robert L. Ripley has just had proof of the old quotations, "Bread cast upon the waters will return a hundred fold."

When the noted creator of the "Believe It or Not" cartoons was traveling around the world a few years ago, he heard of a Turk who was reputed to be more than 150 years old. Tracing this old fellow to his home, Ripley discovered Zaro Agha, and made him world-famous by using him as a "Believe It or Not" item.

Zaro Agha, now 156 years old, and ambitious to reach 200, is in the United States cashing in the fame Ripley started for him. In a measure, he has repaid his discoverer, for when they met again the world's oldest man bestowed a blessing that is regarded as an omen of good fortune to Ripley.

The artist takes special pride in Zaro Agha's presence in the United States, for the Turk is living proof of one of the most unbelievable of the "Believe It or Not" items.

U. S. Boat Wins Over Canuck Craft

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Thisbe, carrying a full load of canvas in a freshening 12-knot breeze, swept across the finish line yesterday, victor over the Canadian challenger, Quest, for the second time in the third of a series of races for the possession of the Canada's Cup, emblematic of fresh-water sailing yacht supremacy.

In their winning stride again, the Pirates today were aware that they can cause a lot of trouble along the line while they reel off the 45 diamond engagements that remain on their card. As the Pretbooters prepared to meet the Phillies in the fourth contest of a five-game series, the Oaklanders were in possession of four straight victories and once again were within a step of the .500 mark.

Manager Ens will send Heinie Meine to the mound this afternoon. The Buccos expect to look at the smart offerings of Phil Collins, ace of Burt Shotton's sharpshooters. Collins is having a big year with the cellar champs. The clever righthander already has won 11 games and some of his setbacks would have been on the credit side, except for a bad break here and there.

CAN CAUSE TROUBLE

The Pirates long ago gave up all flag ambitions, but they expect to have quite a lot of fun as the pennant contenders go down the home stretch. They have many games to play with the flag fighters and they are out to kick up as much fuss as they can with the leaders. They have caused a lot of moaning as it is. Where, for example, would be the Cardinals if the Buccos hadn't toppled them thrice in the Oakland Orchard a short time ago?

Remy Kremer starred on the mound and at bat yesterday as he registered his fifteenth triumph of the season. M. Kremer gave a remarkable slab performance to the detriment of the Quakers and he caused an uproar in the small audience when he smacked a homer over the scoreboard into Schenley Park in the eighth inning to put a cap on his success. The final score was 8 to 4.

Frank O'Doul gave Kremer and his mates a jolt in the first when he sank a homer into the upper section of the rightfield stands with two Bakerites aboard. The inning produced four big markers and Earl Collard, recruit righthander, seemed to have a mastery over the Oaklanders. But the Waner Act went on in a big way in the seventh and when the scene

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—That Brooklyn-Chicago series is just like two guys meeting in the middle of a tight-rope and fighting to see which one makes the detour. Since the season started I've been waiting for the Robins to crack. But they kept on getting their cocaine from somewhere. I guess the stuff must have run out on them in St. Louis, though. Anyway, those Cardinals certainly took the Robins down a couple of twigs. If Brooklyn doesn't snatch a plurality of those Chicago games, Wilbert Robinson will go on a diet of aspirin and those Brooklyn fans will take a nice cooling draught of lead arsenate.

BUSH CHASED

In [illegible] yesterday's [illegible] time game, Bush [illegible] yesterday relief [illegible] the game and assaulted [illegible] Bush [illegible] enough runs to [illegible] the first three innings. Bush [illegible] before the pestering Brooklyn [illegible] the third frame with [illegible] Robins put up a 5-0 lead. Four successive were [illegible] that as the Robins hammered out 18 hits for 24 bases.

While the [illegible] Little Trains was going [illegible] the New York Giants were having about as much difficulty in their attempt to stay on the heels of the leaders. The Giants had to come from behind in the ninth and score two runs to tie the Cincinnati Reds in the opener of their series. And it took a homer by Fred Lindstrom with Critz on base in the tenth to give them a 7-to-6 victory. As rain at St. Louis kept the Cards and Boston idle the victory enabled the Giants to pick up a half game lost through Tuesday's idleness.

The same rain benefitted the Pittsburgh Pirates who gave away four runs to the Phillies in the first inning then came from behind to win their fourth straight 8 to 4.

A. L. LEADERS WIN

The three American League leaders failed to produce any change in their standing. Philadelphia, Washington and New York all coming out ahead of their Western rivals. The champion Athletics made it three straight over Cleveland by a 7-to-2 score as George Earnshaw won his eighteenth victory of the year. Washington's Senators piled up an early lead of five runs off their old mate, Garland Braxton, then kept the Chicago White Sox from turning their 14 hits into runs to win by a 7-to-4 count. The New York Yankees put on a similar performance, scoring enough runs in the first five frames to offset a sudden weakness on the part of George Pipgras and defeat Detroit, 10 to 8.

Down at the bottom of the standing the St. Louis Browns reversed the previous day's decision, beating the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 2, and gaining a tie in games with Chicago for sixth place. Goose Goslin again took the day's honors, driving in four runs with a home run and two singles.

Sir Gallahad Colt Brings Big Price

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The largest attendance of this season's Saratoga yearling sales was on hand last night for the offering of budding racers from the consignment of Arthur B. Hancock and partners, shipped from Claiborne stud, Kentucky, and Ellerslie stud, Virginia.

Chief interest was manifested in the stock of the great sire Sir Gallahad 3rd, whose get includes a long string of notable winners headed by Gallant Fox.

The Threed's stock farm of Texas bought a dark bay colt by Sir Gallahad 3rd—Fasnet, she by Imp Wrack, went for $30,000. A powerful looking filly by the French-bred sire out of Imp Embassy drew $26,500.

Fight Results

At New York—Mike Gish defeated Leo Quadrini, 6 rounds. Ernie Firmenti defeated Billy Franklin, 6 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Buster Brown and Joey Redfield drew, 10 rounds.

At Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Harry Smith knocked out Joe Kingan, 7 rounds.

At Virginia, Minn.—Jimmy Goodman knocked out Ray Mitchell, 4 rounds.

At Des Moines, Ia.—Louie Maio and Bobby O'Hara drew, 10 rounds.

At San Francisco—Madison Dix knocked out Bobby Ray, 2 rounds.

OLD PUNCH WINS FOR BUCS

The ingredient that was lacking all season now is in evidence in the Pirates' play and is winning games for them. And it is none other than the old Waner brother act. Above Paul is seen following Lloyd home on his circuit clout to put the locals ahead of the Phillies in the seventh inning yesterday. The day before, Lloyd's triple and Paul's double tied the score against the Phillies and Paul scored the winning tally in the fourteenth inning.

UNIONTOWN EASY VICTOR

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 14 (AP.)—Lafayette Post of Uniontown smothered Spangler Post of Washington, 16-2, yesterday in the opening game of the regional American Legion junior baseball championship.

The pitching of Talley, Negro youth and star of the Uniontown team, was too much for the champions of the district and but for a bad break the Pennsylvanians would have had chalked up a shutout.

Washington played poor ball in the field and was charged with eight errors. Bunching hits in the fourth inning off Merklejohn, the Lafayette Post team gathered four runs enough to let Talley take things easy for the remainder of the game.

Today Uniontown clashes with the Delaware champions and Baltimore and Ohio Post, of Baltimore, Maryland champs, will cross bats with Morgantown, W. Va.

GROVER GAINS SEMI-FINALS

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 14.—William Fehrs, Grove City High School graduate last spring, faces Howard Cooper, Youngstown veteran, Robert Redfield, of Smethport, plays Sam Wilhelm, Clarion, today in two of the four semi-final matches in the men's singles tournament of the twenty-fifth annual Northwestern Pennsylvania tourney here.

Wilhelm, W. & J. College tennis captain last spring, defeated George Dehoff, Sharon veteran, 6-3, 2-6 and 6-4 yesterday. Fehrs won over Whiting, of Erie, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3 while Cooper and Redfield had rather easy matches, beating Ray Boland, Sharon, and D. McMillan, Evans City, respectively.

The women's singles, juniors' singles and old timers' singles got under way yesterday. Miss Catherine Crawford, of Slippery Rock, defending champion, won her first match, beating Mrs. George Dehoff, Sharon, in love sets. Mrs. Esther Clark, of Canton, O., won over Miss Winifred Marria, Sharpsville, 6-2 and 6-0.

LOCAL NETTERS NEAR FINALS

and defending champion to enter the semi-final frame.

Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. girl, registered two sparkling wins to pass into the quarter finals of the women's singles event. Opening against Frances Grimes, local junior champion, Miss Sullivan lobbed and backhanded a path to a 6-2, 6-3 decision. Later the winged head performer returned to account for the net rushing Spaniard, Senorita Maycita De Souza, 6-3, 6-2. Other entrants to achieve the round of eight were the defending champion, Marywill Wakeford, of Mobile, the 1929 runnerup, Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, and the Washington chopster, Mrs. Margaret Graham.

DOUBLES STARS WIN

In the men's doubles, the Pittsburgh-Washington Pa., pair, J. Howard Moore and Lou Florian, dropped a tough second round fracas to Doug Thomas and Mullins, of Martinsburg, 6-4, 7-9, 6-0. Clardy and Shields, a Pittsburgh-Winchester combine, downed Ralph and Swan Weber, of Oakland, in round one right neatly, 6-2, 6-1, with the Greensburg duo Don Snyder and Dillinger Hixson outsmashing F. Ferry and Dawson, of Washington, 6-2, 6-3, in the same frame. The summary:

MEN'S SINGLES

Third round—Edgar Aicorn defeated Doran Brown, 6-1, 6-1; F. T. Hammer defeated Paul Sullivan, 6-2, 7-5; W. J. Clardy defeated James Allen, 6-0, 6-3. Fourth round—Bob Considine defeated B. F. Arnie, 6-3, 6-4; Edgar Aicorn defeated F. T. Hammer, 6-2, 6-2; John L. O'Loughlin defeated W. J. Clardy, 6-3, 6-4; William B. Ramsay defeated Ralph Weber, 6-2, 6-2.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

First round—Miriam Sullivan defeated Frances Grimes, 6-2, 6-3. Second round—Margaret Carspecken defeated Emily Bolgiano, 6-0, 6-1; Miriam Sullivan defeated Maycita De Souza, 6-3, 6-2; Margaret Graham defeated Ellen Jane Grimes, 6-2, 6-3; Marywill Wakefield defeated Betty Whitfield, 7-5, 6-2.

MEN'S DOUBLES

First round—Clardy and Shields defeated Weber and Weber, 6-2, 6-1; Offutt and Chesley, Akron, O., defeated Moore and Florian, by default; Davis and Hill defeated Offutt and Brarletta, 6-1, 6-1; Snider and Hixson defeated Ferry and Dawson, 6-2, 6-3; Thomas and Mullins defeated Allen and D. Brown, 6-4, 6-3. Second round—Considine and Robinson won from Jones and Reynolds by default; Thomas and Mullins defeated Moore and Florian, 6-4, 7-9, 6-0.

GODFREY GETS 'RUNAROUND'

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—George Godfrey today was getting the run around.

Yesterday he filed suit against Gunnis and Taylor, the local promoting firm, for the other half of his $10,000 purse for his bout with Primo Carnera here June 23.

Today Bobby Gunnis referred him and his attorney to the boxing commission, which withheld the $5,000 as a "fine" for the foul that ended the bout.

The courts will be called upon to determine whether or not the commission can arbitrarily slash into the purses the promoters contract to pay boxers.

LARRY JOHNSON SUES

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Larry Johnson, Negro light-heavyweight from Chicago, filed a motion in State Supreme Court yesterday for a peremptory mandamus requiring the New York State Athletic Commission to pay him at once $1,292. He claims the sum has been withheld unwarrantedly from him as part pay for his bout with Pete Latzo at Ebbetts Field, June 18.

The commission ordered half of Johnson's purse withheld when the Negro fouled Latzo. The motion will be heard today by Supreme Court Justice Bernard L. Shientag.

Walter Johnson Reported Improved

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Walter Johnson, manager of the Senators, who was sent home yesterday during the game with the Chicago White Sox, was reported to be feeling better this morning, but the club's physician has not yet determined whether he should manage his players today in their final clash with the White Sox.

The famous pitcher was stricken with a terrific headache, and Trainer Michael Martin suggested that he go home.

Johnson only recently joined the team, having just buried his wife, who died suddenly following a long motor trip. Grief-stricken and practically exhausted by his daily pitching to his batters, the condition of the "Big Train" was reported to have temporarily weakened yesterday.

Another thing that probably worried Johnson was the fact he had to return home to his children alone. Yesterday his mother, who came here when Mrs. Johnson died, left for her home in Coffeyville, Kan.

Pitcher Caffrey Signed by Govs

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 14.—Bob Caffrey, of Washington, Pa., was signed by the Charleroi Governors today, and Ernie Walters, of Valley Bend, W. Va., released to make way for the newcomer. Walters failed to show anything in three starts after being annexed by Charleroi following his release from Fairmont.

Caffrey, a sandlot hurler, has shown exceptional ability and is considered one of the best finds of the year.

MRS. GRUBB CHAMP

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Mrs. Augusta Grubbs, of California, again is champion woman archer of the United States. Mrs. Grubbs yesterday completed her second straight national conquest, winning both the double national rounds and the double American rounds. Mrs. Elizabeth Rounsaville, of Pinehurst, N. C., finished second.

GOLF

As Champions Play It

What difference in grip is there between the long iron shot—that is, more than 100 yards—and the short shot?

Answered by
WILLIE MACFARLANE.

There is a difference in the gripping of the club for long iron shots and short ones. When I say long iron shots, this takes a full No. 1 mid-iron and so on down to a full mashie-niblic. Although the difference in distance between the No. 1 iron and the mashie-niblic is considerable, nevertheless both clubs must be held as firmly as possible; and for this reason turf has to be taken, not as much by any means with the No. 1 iron as with the mashie-niblic or the other irons between these, but the shot must have the "punch" just the same. Therefore, the grip must be very firm so that there is no looseness in the wrists. If a ball is, say, anything up to 30 or 40 yards from the hole, and is lying well, the grip on the club is freer with the wrists, yet firm with the fingers; whereas, a bad lie from the same distance requires firmer wristwork because turf should be taken to play the shot well.

PRIMO, GOB GO READY

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—(INS.)—Agreement has been made to virtually all terms for a match in Chicago between Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, Eugene Buckley, manager of Sharkey, said today on his return from New York.

Buckley said it will be necessary for Mike Malloy, Chicago promoter, to comply with certain conditions agreed upon before articles are signed.

It was believed Sharkey will receive a guarantee of $100,000 and 30 per cent of the gate receipts.

18-Year-Old Horse Sets Track Record

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 14.—Lowering of the track record three seconds by an 18-year-old Little Jean, by Arlow H., a pacer owned by I. Brandfast, of Wheeling, W. Va., marked the opening day race program at the annual Jacktown Fair yesterday. The new mark came in the free-for-all pace, when the mare which had once been relegated to the pastures circled the unique Jackto vn track three times in 2:09.

The record is considered unusual inasmuch as the track circles a hill and is noted for its sharp turns. The summary:

Grove, Earnshaw Lead Rivals in Strikeouts

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Bob Grove and George Earnshaw, respective leaders of Connie Mack's left and right handed pitchers, are staging an intramural strikeout contest for the leadership of the American League.

Grove today had 144 strikeouts in 36 games, while Earnshaw had 140 in 35 engagements.

The competition in the National League was not so close, Wild Bill Hallahan, of the St. Louis Cardinals, leading with 125 in 27 games, to 108 in 26 games by Dazzy Vance, of Brooklyn. Charley Root, of the Cubs, was the only other major league hurler to have whiffed 100 or more, having cut down 105 in 29 games.

40-ROUND BILL OF BATTLING TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

That 40-round show at the rate of 2½ cents per round for the general admission fans and a nickel a round for the $1 reserved seat customers at Hickey Park, Millvale, is on tap for tonight. Two 10-rounded bouts, an eight-rounder and two six-rounders make up the program that ought to give the fans a good run for their money and come close to jamming the arena as it was packed for the first time last week.

Tiger West

Tiger Joe West, sharp-hitting middleweight, of Donora, meets Lynn Jordan, Negro, of Akron and formerly of Johnstown, in the 10-round main event with Harry Williams, North Side Negro heavyweight meeting Johnny Urban, of Lawrenceville, in the other 10-rounder.

Al Becker, of Sheraden, boxes Jack Barry, of McKeesport, in the eight-round semi-final. Barry hails originally from Chicago and has met some fair men in that section.

Ross Fields, hard-hitting flyweight, of Weirton, W. Va., and Anastasio Vaquerio, Panamanian, box the second bout of six rounds, and Mose Butch, of Oakland, encounters Jackie Wilson, of the East End, in a return bout in the opener.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Thomas, local Negro heavyweight, loses his bout at Erie, in one of the bouts on a card at Fredonia, Pa., tonight.

The Meyers Bowl hopes to stage the much discussed Jackie Rodgers-Johnny Dattilo bout for September 15, according to Matchmaker John Buck. Both after this time will be forced to put up substantial cash forfeits to guarantee the club they will not call off the match, as has happened twice so far.

The program has been completed for next Monday night's show at the Meyers Bowl, in the main event of which Emmett Raton, Bluewing City heavyweight, meets young Patsy Perrone, of Canton, O., who has won his spurs in previous bouts around here. Chet Stoklosowski, of Akron, meets Johnny Sprowles, of Canonsburg, in the eight-round semi-final and Billy Rose, of Homewood and formerly of Canton, O., is in with Ted Tarone, of Monaca, for another eight rounder. In the six-round bouts, Babe Bertoch, of Homestead, meets Joe Angelo, of Braddock, and Fuzz Mears, of Braddock, engages Hank Roberts, of Rosslyn.

A return bout between Joe Dundee and Buck McTiernan is being planned by the Meyers Bowl for some time next month. McTiernan won their mitts in the same arena last Monday night, but it was called a draw.

Jackie Rodgers will be one of the headliners at Hickey Park next Thursday night. His opponent has not yet been selected.

Maxie Rosenbloom and Jack Harlow box at Spokane, Wash., tonight.

The Toronto seventh Ward A. C. will stage another amateur boxing show at its North Side open-air arena next Tuesday night.

Injury May End Donoghue's Career

NOTTINGHAM, England, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Little Steve Donoghue, credited with being one of the greatest jockeys the world has ever known, may never ride again.

Donoghue, who rode six Derby winners, three of them in succession, is in a nursing home here with his right leg broken in two places just above the ankle as a result of his fall from Pampiona in Monday's races.

Sun Meadow Cops Saratoga Feature

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Two-year-olds featured the day at historic Saratoga again as K. E. Hitt's Sun Meadow, a five to one chance, scored an impressive victory in the field of 13 youngsters, that competed yesterday in the Grab Bag handicap, a six furlong sprint.

MEN! Make No Mistake—Consult a Doctor for Men

MY MESSAGE TO MEN

I want to talk to every sufferer from this and surrounding territory. What I am doing for others I can no doubt do for you. For many years I have limited my practice to the successful treatment of men and their ailments. I invite every ailing man to consult me free and without obligation—so do not put it off, but call today.

WHAT IS YOUR DISEASE?

Is it your blood, nerves, liver, kidneys, stomach, heart, lungs? Do you suffer from enlarged or swollen glands? Have you a skin disease? Suffer from gas, dyspepsia? Do you feel tired, irritable, weak, depressed and debilitated? Nerve disorders wreck many men yearly.

My Success Is Due to the Fact That I Know How!

MEN! You who know and feel the results of overwork and worry—those of you that have been unsuccessfully treated and think there is no help for you, I invite you to call and investigate my modern methods. Many men from this and surrounding territory attest to my ability.

Hours: 9 to 5, 7 to 9, Tues. and Thursdays, 9 to 5, Sundays, 10 to 1.

By TOM BIRKS.

Two big games will be played in the Central League this evening to head the district sandlot card. A battle for the South Hills championship will be staged at Arlington Park when the Beckmans hook up with the league leading Fintex team. Manager Pickles has his boys primed for this game, which means much to the Clothes boys. Manager Lutton, however, wants to win this game whether the Motors team wins the second half or not, so a good battle should ensue.

The other game finds the Lincoln Civics battling for second place in the standing by hooking up with Y. M. H. A. at Magee Field. The Bellefielders are hitting the ball hard, but are not getting good pitching, and the Civics might be able to get a hurler to stop that Behr artillery.

B. O. AT HORNES

The Baltimore and Ohio nine goes to delightful Camp Horne in the Commercial and Industrial League to meet Sam Craig's Horne team. The Campers are battling for second place in the league, so the Railroaders are in for an hectic evening.

Three games will be staged in the City League. The hard-hitting W. O. W. nine travels to Olympia Park to try and wipe out that previous defeat at the hands of Book Shoe. Dormont meets the North Side Civics at the Sali Werks grounds and Pleasant Valley will go to Bloomfield to take on the J. L. Thomas nine. In the Minor League, the Sankey Club will meet the N. S. Aces.

In the Class A eliminations, Verona Community meets the Coraopolis nine and the Jenkins Club of Homestead hooks up with the Swissvale Firemen at West Field, Homestead.

GRAYS KEEP GOING

The Homestead Grays landed their twenty-second triumph in a row last evening, defeating the Carnegie Stars, 14 to 2. Cooper hurled a steady brand of ball for the Grays.

In the C. and I. League last evening the Reick-McJunkin nine landed on the Drave Contractors for an 8-to-2 triumph. The Dan Heeps defeated North Bessemer, 12 to 1, in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit.

St. George took over Mt. Lebanon, 5 to 3, and Iroquois tied Jena, 3 to 3, in the Major circuit.

The Book Shoe nine defeated Edgewood with ease in an independent tussle, 7 to 1. Pleasant Valley walloped the Crawford Stars, 5 to 1, and St. Clair Frogs downed Windgap, 9 to 2.

Reliance Life found Glassport a tough nut to crack and was held to a 5-5 deadlock. Collier Juniors won over the North Side Olympics, 10 to 1, and the winning streak of the Pitcairn Railroad nine was stopped by the Homewood-Brushton aggregation, which scored a 5-to-4 triumph.

RACES POSTPONED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14. (AP.)—Low water in the Schuylkill River has resulted in postponing of the annual Philadelphia outboard regatta, scheduled for Aug. 22 and 23. The new dates, Commissioner William Freitag said will be Sept. 19 and 20.

JAYS WALLOP M.-A. LEADERS

Landing on two Fairmont hurlers for a dozen hits and nine runs, Jeannette defeated the Mid-Atlantic League leaders at Jeannette yesterday with ease. The score was 9 to 2. Jeannette's attack was led by Pasquella, who had three safe hits.

At Clarksburg, the Cumberland Colts again defeated the Generals this time by a 13-to-6 score in a slugfest. Byrnes got three of the Colts' 14 hits.

Johnstown defeated Wheeling 4 to 2, at Wheeling, both of the Stogies' runs being homers, were hit by Kling.

Scottdale tallied three runs in the ninth inning to beat Charleroi, 8 to 5. The game was a nip and tuck affair until the final inning. Stricklin, Charleroi first baseman, set a new league record for home runs when he crashed out his twenty-ninth.

SETS TRACK MARK

CORTLAND, N. Y., Aug. 14. (AP.)—Ostrobothnia, a bay horse owned by former Mayor E. B. Jerome of Rochester, broke the Cortland trotting record yesterday by trotting a mile in 2:06¼, but he failed to win the race. Donna Adair, a bay mare owned by F. D. Gilbert of Ithaca, N. Y., won the second and third heats in 2:07, also below the record of 2:06¼.

W.-J. Quarterback Town's Entire "Force"

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 14.—The police force in East Washington Borough these days may be caught at odd moments receiving imaginary forward passes and booting pigskins gracefully through the air in practice punting as the flatfoots pounds his way through darkened avenues on his midnight patrols.

When the Washington and Jefferson College grid activities get under way, this fellow hopes to hold down a regular quarterback berth in the President backfield. He is Johnny Butler, backfield stalwart last year at the quarterback position. He has developed plenty of interference in breaking up necking parties along his beats, and is developing plenty of stamina through tweetling down traffic light violators at intersections.

MEINE READY FOR QUAKERS

got back to normalcy, the Pittsburghers were out in front.

COLLARD WEAKENS

Collard blanked the Pirates for four rounds, but the home hitters broke through his defense for two triples and two tallies in the fifth. Gus Suhr and Rolly Hemsley produced the long hits. Traynor worked his way around in the sixth and Brother Paul, aided by Lloyd, put the game away in the seventh.

Brother Lloyd was the first Pirate hitter of the stretch round. He dropped a little hit in center. Paul blasted a round-tripper into the upper section of the right stands, and the Buccos were one run in front of the enemy. Manager Shotton changed twirlers twice in the inning, but the Freebooters rushed two more runs over and Kremer added his homer in the eighth.

Frenchy shut the door in the faces of the Quakers for eight rounds after the first. Over a period of five innings he did not allow a hit. In all, the Phillies made only eight safeties.

BUY YOUNG PITCHER

The Pirate management last night announced the purchase of Pitcher Vernon Kennedy, of the Burlington club of the Mississippi Valley League.

The youngster is a tall right-hander, who made a favorable impression on Coach Max Carey when Carey went into the Mississippi Valley territory recently. It has not been decided whether Kennedy will report at the end of his playing season or next spring. He is 21.

Trot Mark Tied By Chestnut Burr

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—The performance of Chestnut Burr, 2-year-old trotter, owned by Frank C. Niles, of Kansas City, Mo., in the second heat of the colt event, when he trotted in 2:08¾, equaling the world's record for a 2-year-old trotter over a two-lap course, featured the second day's racing program.

The Kansas City-owned colt was raced out the first heat by Lew Jennings, owned by R. C. McLematha, of Erie, Pa., but won the second heat, equaling the world's record, held by Virginia Senator since 1927.

BOB WADDELL, STUHLDREHER 'ACE CHAPS'

By JESS CARVER.

Two of the "rightest" of the younger coaches in the country and at the same time two of the smartest, are Bob Waddell, of Carnegie Tech and Harry Stuhldreher, of Villanova. Whether you break it up into two words or make it one, its still Villanova.

The reason these chaps are such right guys and such smart coaches is because they aren't afraid to think along new lines and are not afraid to voice opinions divergent from the orthodox views of the old-line coaches. They don't win all their games, but neither do some of the Old Boys, who are in the heavy dough and get their names in the papers more often.

THINKERS, YES SIR!

Waddell and Stuhldreher, who are the same in manner and approach whether they are winning 'em all or losing (they never lose 'em all), don't think along the same line when it comes to football, but they think, which after all, is the important thing. The Villanova mentor is of the opinion that modern football demands the development of two distinct elevens, one prepped to play open, sensational and flash football and the other of a more conservative style. He's working toward the development of this system at the Main Line institution.

On the other hand, Coach Waddell believes that key men should be developed, one or two sets if necessary, and inserted into the lineup as needed. While he has never definitely committed himself, at least in sessions with me, I gather that he thinks four of the eleven players should be "keys."

"If you've got four good players that you can keep on the bench," Bob claims, "and shoot 'em into the ball game after things have gotten a bit warmed up, you are in a good spot. Put two new linemen, good linemen, and a back or two into the lineup during the first quarter, whether you've a lead or not, and you've improved your ball team 50 per cent."

STRONG FORM IDEA

Bob doesn't believe, as does Harry, that two teams are necessary, he even is of the opinion that it's impossible to have two first class clubs at one time and not have the finger of suspicion pointed your way, but he's strong for the key man stuff.

And apparently he knows whereof he speaks, for with two more strong reinforcements in California last December, Tech would have beaten Southern California.

The Tipoff

Buff Donelli says he doesn't mind being mistaken for Rudy Vallee by the girls so much as the expression of disappointment that comes over their faces when they realize their mistake.

Columbia will bear close watching this fall with its new coach, Lou Little, and an undestroyed new policy of attracting athletes.

Chick Meehan and New York University have never won a Thanksgiving Day football game. They'll beat the jinx this year, however, for they won't play that day.

Those piled-up letters on the Rockne desk which John would like to paw off as his fan mail are only inquiries regarding the Duke-West Virginia clash and requests for the little books of tickets John has kindly made available to his public.

Ever since Elmer Layden II was born the Duke head football mentor has given himself over to baseball and golf on remotely that he may not know anything about the gridiron sport when Sept. 5 rolls around. He talks a real good game of golf.

The vault and high jump standards that were used at the Tri-State Conference championships, the Pitt Interscholastic and the Philadelphia Company meet and that will get a try at the A. A. U. carnival here next week were invented by Wilbur Merriman, the football and basketball official.

ALL-GERMAN TEAM

Muller, California	End
Yoder, Carnegie Tech	Tackle
Ziegler, Pennsylvania	Guard
Schultz, Michigan	Center
Heffelfinger, Yale	Guard
Lindenmeyer, Missouri	Tackle
Stein, Washington-Jefferson	End
Stuhldreher, Notre Dame	Quarter
Steffen, Chicago	Halfback
Hershberger, Chicago	Halfback
Eichenlaub, Notre Dame	Fullback

No doubt a lot of very fine American boys of German origin have been left off this team. It was the pick of a group of coaches who were fanning recently at the coaching school at Notre Dame. Perhaps some of the men on the team will deny that they are of German origin, but, at least, all of their names sound German and each of them was a star in his day.

Knute Rockne

Schultz, of Michigan, certainly was the greatest center of his time, while Hershberger, of Chicago, was the first man west of the Alleghanies to make Walter Camp's All-America.

You may ask whether the German team is superior to the Irish. I am reminded of the football game between Massillon and Canton. In a row over a fumble, the referee, who was threatened by several thousand fans, announced behind his police escort that he would give his decision from the police station.

TILDEN PLAYS SUTTER TODAY

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—(AP.)—Big Bill Tilden led three of his Davis cup teammates into the quarter final round of the men's singles in the annual Eastern Grass Court championships.

With the utmost ease Tilden eliminated Julius Seligson, New York youngster, 6-4, 6-4, in a match that created considerable interest among the largest gallery of the week's play in men's and women's singles and doubles.

SUTTER STEALS SHOW

A Southern youth, Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, intercollegiate champion, stole the spotlight with a spectacular triumph over Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., 6-0, 6-2. Sutter and Tilden clash in a quarter-final match today.

Although Tilden was not extended to the limits of his game by Seligsen, the Southerner in his triumph over Mercur displayed a wide variety of strokes and a thoroughly sound game. Their duel is expected to provide the highlight of the day.

John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., Gregory Mangin, of Newark, and Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., all members of the Davis cup squad, paraded through into the final eight along with Ted Burwell, Charlotte, N. C., veteran, Francis T. Hunter, ranked next to Tilden in the national list, and Richard Murphy, of Utica, N. Y.

HUNTER EXTENDED

Hunter was extended fully to down Bryant Grant, Jr., diminutive Atlanta youngster, 7-5, 9-7, while Van Ryn played sensational tennis to defeat Eddie Jacobs, of Pittsburgh, 6-2, 6-2. Hunter and Van Ryn are paired in another outstanding match today.

Mangin, ranked No. 10 nationally, conquered Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., of Kansas City, with a No. 7 rating, in a hard-hitting duel, 6-2, 7-5. Burwell dropped a set in eliminating Arthur Fowler, of New York, 6-0, 2-6, 6-3, and faces Mangin today.

BELL FACES MURPHY

Berkeley Bell, who had a rather easy time with Edward F. Feibleman, of New York, in a 6-4, 6-3 victory, will oppose Murphy, Harvard freshman star, in the quarter-finals. Murphy bested Melvin Partridge, of New Rochelle, N. Y., 6-4, 6-2.

Miss Alice Francis, of Orange, N. J., accounted for the lone upset in the women's singles and as a result will oppose Miss Helen Marlowe, of Los Angeles, in one of the women's quarter-final matches today. Miss Francis, a first-10 player in 1928, defeated Miss Edith Cross, of San Francisco, ranked No. 3 last season, in a grueling match, 6-4, 3-6, 8-6.

Loyal C Takes Feature at Oval

Loyal C., driven by McKay, captured the trot event on the two-race program at Schenley Oval yesterday afternoon in straight heats. Wack Fast was second in all three heats.

In the second and concluding race on the card, Real Worth took the first two heats and was second in the third. Laura Watts trotted second until the final heat, when Della Axworthy won and forced the Drew entry into third place. The summary:

Loyal C., b. g. (McKay)	1	1	1
Wack Fast, b. g. (Kilmeyer)	2	2	2

Time—2:13, 2:12, 2:21.

Second event, trotting.

Real Worth, c. f. (Evens)	1	1	2
Della Axworth, br. m. (Howell)	2	2	1
Laura Watts, c. m. (Drew)	3	3	3

Time—2:17, 2:17, 2:18.

Long's Sport Comment

ers insist that the terms of some of the stars they have tried to sign are entirely out of reason.

For instance, Al Singer wants 40 per cent to meet Jack (Kid) Berg, and Berg himself asks 25 per cent. Chocolate, before being defeated by Berg, said he would accept nothing less than 22½ per cent if offered a match with Singer, and Jack Sharkey insists on a guarantee of $100,000 for a match with any one except Schmeling. He's willing to take less for another chance against Max.

Tom McArdle

"IT'S HARD TO show a profit when we have to shell out even 50 per cent for the main bout alone," says Matchmaker Tom McArdle. "The ball park owners collect 12 1-2 per cent for rent and the preliminaries cost another 12 1-2. That leaves only 25 per cent for promotion and other expenses. So when one fighter insists on 40 per cent and another must have 20 to 25 before he will sign, you can see that we'd merely be trying to break even if we promoted a show. There would be no sense in working on such a basis, and we're not going to do it. They're all alike. Every prominent fighter has a manager who thinks it is his duty to be cute, to get more for his boxer than the man is worth. There was a time when an ambitious fighter was willing to work for nothing in order to get a shot at a title. Now they're all trying to be cute. Maybe they can find some other promoter who will be stupid enough to give away 60 or 65 per cent for a big match. There have been such suckers, but they never lasted long."

THOUGH RAY PHELPS did not go the full distance on the mound for the Robins when they turned the tables on the Cubs on the second game of the important Chicago series, he gets credit for the victory in the pitching records, and it strengthens his position as the leading regular hurler of the National League in point of percentage.

Phelps has won 12 games against only three lost, a mark of .750. The Jacksonville recruit, the pitching find of the year, had not beaten the Cubs previously, but had lost twice to them. He has now defeated every other team in the league except Pittsburgh. He has yet to start against the Bucs, though he faced them once in a relief role. Phelps has not lost a game on his home grounds. Two of his defeats were suffered in Chicago and the other in Boston.

WHILE WATCHING THE first-place fight between the Cubs and Robins, separated by just two points after the Brooklynites took a brace and downed the 1929 champions yesterday for only the fifth time in 17 meetings, don't overlook the Giants as possible contenders.

The McGrawites pulled right up into the running again by winning in Cincinnati yesterday. They're only three games behind the Robins, and in reality the margin is even narrower, as most of it is in the "Won" column, due to the fact that New York has played fewer games than its rivals. The Giants have lost only one game more than the Robins and only two more than the Cubs, and that's the column that counts.

American Tobacco Series Continue to Show Upward Trend

An upward trend has been reported in sales of American Tobacco so far this year. The result is that leading authorities are certain earnings of the company will be larger than in 1929 when $13.17 a share was reported. Tobacco shares have done little marketwise in the past weeks. However many market interests believe that eventually the good prospects in that industry will attract attention to the stocks. When the general market has improved, American Tobacco probably will be among the leaders in that group.

Hot weather has been an important influence for Liquid Carbonic, and has been responsible for the discussion of increased earnings this year. The fiscal period ends September 30 and prospects are that the results will be better than those of the preceding 12 months when $6.12 a share was reported before deducting profit for management. Thus, a new high record will be established. Reports have it that sales in July and thus far in August were materially in excess of those of the corresponding periods a year ago.

Because oil shares did not move proportionately with other groups when the market was strong last month, tendency is growing to consider those stocks more attractive than many others. Less forced liquidation is probable in most oils during any marked decline. The leading Standard Oil issues are said to be in strong hands, and scale buying has been reported during recessions. Thus any change in the general market should find the oils in a better technical position to make immediate response.

After Tuesday's sharp decline, which carried the market through the July 1 resistance level, it was striking distance of the year's lows touched June 24. Renewed selling forced some of the leaders close to the June bottoms, but the constructive forces showed greater determination to hold the line at that point. Nevertheless, liquidation and professional selling forced a score or more active issues to new lows for the year yesterday. Prominent among issues penetrating new low ground were Bethelhem Steel, Continental Can, American Power and Light, American Locomotive, Checker Cab, Childs, Columbia Gas and Electric, Corn Products, Curtiss Wright A, Hupp Motors, International Nickel, McKesson and Robbins, Montgomery Ward, Continental Shares, Industrial Alcohol, and Safeway Stores.

Price-cutting in the automobile industry spread and the auto shares, in consequence, were inclined toward weakness yesterday, with Hupp and Checker Cab among the automobile stocks dropping to new lows for the year or longer. Hudson followed recent price-cut announcement by marking down prices on the Hudson and Essex to the lowest prices at which these cars have ever been offered. Furthermore, Wall street heard rumors that Ford would cut prices again. Price-cutting in the automotive industry was viewed in speculative circles as likely to be another disturbing influence on business sentiment.

Stocks met another flurry of selling early yesterday afternoon on publication of the weekly steel reviews, which afforded little hope for an early revival in steel operations. Iron Age reported recovery from the midsummer letdown had been retarded by uncertainty over crop damage and a decrease in operations to 52 per cent of capacity from 54 per cent the preceding week. Automobile, farm machinery and canning companies are confronted with the new problem of determining how the crop situation will affect their prospects, according to the trade reviews. Iron Age's composite price for finished steel has dropped to the lowest level since February, 1922, while the pig iron composite is the lowest since 1915.

Motor Trade Has High Mortality Rate

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE LURE OF INFANT industries has been one of the greatest factors in bringing investors to grief, outside of schemes of dishonest origin. Tales of the vast fortunes made by the stockholders in the first safety razor company, by those who bought General Motors 20 years ago, by the insiders in Great Atlantic and Pacific have been the bait which has been responsible for enormous losses.

The prospects for the aviation industry and the future which nearly everyone sees in air transportation have resulted in the development of far more companies than can reasonably hope to prove successful. There is no doubt about the fact that some of the aviation companies formed in recent years will make fortunes for those who had the courage to invest in them in their early days. There is also no doubt about the fact that more companies will eventually disappear from the industrial picture than will survive.

Comparison With Motors

THE AIR INDUSTRY TODAY offers a close comparison with the automobile producers when the first cars were being offered to the public. Both industries sold a new form of transportation. Both had to develop entirely new markets. Both required many new facilities for their growth. Automobiles needed hard roads. Air craft needed landing fields.

The first public interest in both industries was followed by the formation of a vast number of small companies to make the new products. Some of these were adequately financed and were well managed. Some were promoted without any conception of the problems to be met.

In the case of automobiles, the history of the industry was marked by a steady weeding out of the unfit and a steady growth of the companies able to meet the changing conditions and to weather the storms which are met by every industrial innovation.

Concentration in Auto Industry

THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY is 35 years old. In that time 640 makes of passenger cars have been placed on the market. Of these, 45 have survived to the present day. This was made known recently by C. F. Baldwin, acting chief of the Automobile Division of the Department of Commerce.

Consolidations have been responsible for the disappearance of some of the companies but a far greater number has vanished from the industrial picture by liquidation or bankruptcy. Only one out of every 14 companies has continued its existence up to the present. Some of the leading companies today were numbered among the pioneers, others started business in recent years.

Vanishing Names

EVEN THE NAMES OF SOME of the early motor cars have been obliterated from the memories of most of us. Who remembers seeing cars sold under the names of Adria, Anchor, Car Nation, Carthage, United States Long Distance or Vogue? If these are not familiar try to recall Black Crow, Eagle, Climber, Guide, Meteor, Sphinx and Mecca.

From one to 51 new cars have been introduced in the United States every year except one since the Haynes-Apperson and the Pope-Hartford appeared in 1895. Baldwin states that of 186 makes placed on the market before 1905, 11 are in existence today. Between that year and 1910, 129 more makes were introduced of which five remain. From 1910 to 1920, 167 came into existence of which 11 are still on the market. During the next 10 years only 77 new cars appeared but 18 of these are still in public demand.

In selecting an investment in a new industry it is advisable to think of what happened in automobiles and to make sure of the company's qualification to stand the strain of rapid change.

EARLY LOSSES ERASED BY RALLIES

Some Weak Spots Crop Out, But General List Shows Gains as Bears Retreat

NEW YORK, Aug. 14 (AP.)—After another effort to depress prices through recent resistance levels the disorganized mob of bears lost courage and retreated further in today's stock market.

Prices were generally reduced 1 to 5 points during the early hours of selling but losses were well learned on the decline arousing some fresh bull activity that important banking interests may be offering support to the market around recent low levels. Most early losses were substantially made theft calculated although weak spots continued to stand out here and there.

Such wide moving issues as American Tobacco B, Allied Chemical, Alcohol, and Case gained 5 points and more, Case getting more than 20 points above its recent low. Shares recording gains of 2 to 4 points included Radio, Eastman, Union Carbide, American Smelting, Public Service of N. J. and Electric Auto Lite, while advances of a point or so were numerous in important shares.

TOUCHES NEW LOW

Weak features were Republic Steel, breaking more than 4 points to a new low in selling based on disquieting gossip over the dividend, and the International Paper and Power issues which broke to new bottom levels for the year. The class dividend has recently been paid from surplus, and bears argued that the drought would adversely effect the company's Hydro-Electric properties.

As the market has approached the low levels of June the courage of the bears has ebbed. Selling appeared to have dried up and with the unfavorable factors of the business news largely discounted, professional traders waited for news developments in the business situation before committing themselves for anything beyond a quick turn.

The day's news failed to provide any guide posts. A further cut in copper metal prices by some custom smelters from 11 to 10¾ cents, reducing the metal to the lowest prices in more than 20 years, was regarded primarily as an effort to move stocks, but brought some selling of the red metal shares early in the day.

Kennecott directors meet for dividend action next week, and Wall Street understands a further reduction in the payment may be ordered.

SCRAP PRICE RAISED

Wall Street saw a fleeting glimmer of improvement in the steel outlook with announcement that steel scrap prices had been advanced 25 cents a ton at Pittsburgh, but this was later explained as reflecting a scarcity of first grade material rather than any increase in demand from the mills.

Speculative sentiment has rarely been as perplexed and confused as it is at the moment. Some commission houses look for lower prices after the technical rally is completed and most advocate a sidelines position. The fact that the volume of selling has decreased with each successive bear drive, however, has provided grounds for hope in some quarters that the market may be about sold out. Brokerage circles have interpreted its recent action as indicating that stocks are strongly held and that only some wholly unexpected and particularly grave news from business would be likely to induce any general liquidation. In the meantime, however, weak situations continue to crop out, which damages confidence.

Call money again renewed at 2½ per cent, but was available in good supply in the outside market at 2. The brokerage loan figures to be announced late in the day, were expected to show a large decline.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 14 — Wheat advanced late today, influenced by reports that bankers would finance the Canadian growers' pool, and that provincial governments would probably guarantee the bankers' loans. It was reported also that the heavy selling which tumbled wheat prices down yesterday at Winnipeg was for Chicago account. Export business today in North American wheat was estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, mainly from the United States, with Liverpool and Chicago prices widening to about 18 cents, the greatest difference so far this season.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The raw sugar market was firm early today, due more to a lack of selling pressure than aggressive demand, although there was a sale of 26,000 bags of Philippines in port to a local refiner at 3.15c delivered. Cuban were held at 3.25c.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 4.50c for fine granulated with buyers still limiting purchases to nearby requirements only.

STOCK MARKET SHOWS TRADE CONDITIONS

Weakness Recognition of Fact Sentiment Improved Without Business Gain

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

(Copyright, 1930, by Merryle S. Rukeyser)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The midsummer spell of weakness in the stock market constituted a recognition of the fact that since the late June recovery sentiment had improved without corresponding gains in actual business conditions.

After the market daily prices for a time became deadlocked and operations for the day were light. Then selling and shading appeared to prevail against the market in the form of crop damage by the drought. Superficial speculators apparently are more fearful of bumping into disaster as to the economic consequences of the drought than statisticians who recognize that the final damage will be mitigated by higher prices for the crops actually harvested.

Mr. Rukeyser

During the prohibited bull market, which culminated nearly 11 months ago, repeated excesses on the upside were resorted to. It is illogical to assume that there will be no excesses on the down side. The stock market reflects emotion as well as prudent analysis and is perpetually prone to move too far in both directions.

TURN SEEN

Business at present is subnormal, and is at as low a point as at any time since the recession started more than a year ago, but evidence that a turn is accumulating. There seems to be a growing disposition on the part of financiers to await the event of tangible improvement rather than to run the risk of premature anticipation of the development. Meanwhile the artificial bullishness stirred up a few weeks ago by optimistic brokers has proved a boomerang. It seemingly attracted weak buying which has been unable to stand the gaff of intermediate setbacks. Though the rally proved a false start it may well be that time will prove that stocks were cheap for the cash buyer who is in position to withstand temporary vicissitudes.

Meantime economic conditions are distinctly favorable for the purpose of bonds. Many competent observers believe that a substantial upturn in bond prices will precede a new bull market in stocks. Irrespective of that contingency, the ups and downs of recent months have emphasized anew the desirability of a balanced investment diet consisting of reserves of cash, short and long term bonds, preferred and common stocks. Such a balanced diet constitutes a hedge against the uncertainties of the business future.

This is obviously a miniature golf course year. The building of such playgrounds seems at the moment to constitute America's most thriving industry. The National Lumber Bulletin estimates that the immediate lumber requirements for such courses is $1,600,000, and that ultimately the figure may be increased to $50,000,000. Fifteen thousand miniature courses have already been built, and many thousands more, it is said, have been projected. It is evident that recession has not curbed the play instincts of Americans.

FREIGHT CHANGES

Gradually the railroads are increasing the proportion of manufactured goods carried as freight. The Class I railways last year got 55.1 per cent of their tonnage from products of mines, and 21.6 per cent from manufactures and miscellaneous. The corresponding percentages for 1920 were 57 per cent and 20 per cent respectively.

As an antidote "to incautious" brokerage advices a firm of investment counsellors advise:

"There have been many pronouncements that with business in the trough of the depression there is a 'big boom ahead.'

"We sound a word of caution, hoping that it may fall on the ears of conservative investors who are more interested in permanent gain than in speculative profits.

"Before you consider buying anything be certain that each security you now own is of the best and properly proportioned to your total fund. Buying more securities when those you own are weak is building your financial house on sand."

This is sound advice. It is futile to ask what is good in the market. Securities should be suitable as well as sound.

Chicago & Alton Net Income Off

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Chicago and Alton, one of the first railroads to report results for July, reported net operating income for the month of $144,263, compared with $610,666 for July, 1929. Net operating income for the seven months ended July 31 totaled $247,455, compared with $2,014,721. The figures for 1929 included $339,553 back mail pay.

Byllesby Gas Deal Involves Big Line

The Central Public Service Corporation has obtained full production rights in part of the natural gas lands owned by H. M. Byllesby interests in Eastern Kentucky. The company will enter production and piping of natural gas and will construct a 260-mile 18-inch pipe line to cost $12,000,000.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—[illegible] stitutions showed a disposition today to bid for a few high grade railroad and utility bonds at or slightly above their best prices of the year. Otherwise the trading in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange was a routine affair.

GRAIN TRAFFIC LARGER ON C. B. & Q.

June Net Best for That Month Since 1926; Volume Shows Good Gain in July

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad is making a considerably better showing this year than either of its joint owners, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railways. Burlington's June net operating income was the best for that month in any year since 1926, while both of the Northerns reported the smallest earnings for any June in five years.

In July the volume of traffic on the Burlington held up better than that on the two Northerns. Grain loadings on the Burlington in July were particularly impressive, gaining more than 25% for the month over last year.

Burlington will earn about $14.90 a share on its stock this year if results in the second half year are relatively as favorable as the showing for the first six months. At present, however, the chances seem good for the road to do even better compared with the past five years in the second six months than it did in the first half. Volume of traffic moving over its lines is holding up closer to last year's levels than that of any other large road in the Northwest, and the Burlington gave indications in June of making important savings in maintenance of way expenditures.

Each of the Northerns own 830,179 Burlington shares, together constituting 97.19 per cent of the total outstanding. Burlington's earnings are taken into the income accounts of the Northerns only to the extent of dividends received, which have been at the rate of $10 a share annually for the past nine years. In this period Burlington has earned a balance over and above dividend requirements equal to more than $27 a share, and has expended approximately $100,000,000 on capital improvements.

Particularly in recent years has the Burlington developed an impressive earning power, reporting for 1929 earnings equal to $17.37 a share, and in 1928 to $15.38 a share. When the Northerns feel that the time is ripe the Burlington can be called upon to provide an increased source of non-operating income for them.

SPAIN DENIES JERSEY LOAN

MADRID, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Denials were made at the offices of the government oil monopoly and the department of the treasury of any knowledge of a reported offer by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to lend Spain $100,000,000 for the oil monopoly. Nevertheless rumors persisted on the bourse that the offer had been made, but had been declined by the government.

In some well informed quarters it was thought that some such negotiations may have been under way.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—S. R. Hunt, vice president and treasurer of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, denies that the company is negotiating to lend the Spanish government 1,000,000,000 pesetas, or $100,000,000, in return for the Spanish oil monopoly.

RUBBER STOCKS HIGHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—July consumption of Crude Rubber by all classes of manufacturers in the United States was 29,894 long tons, against 34,463 tons in June, 41,526 tons in July, 1929, and 37,407 tons in July 1928 according to an estimate by rubber manufacturers association. Consumption during the first seven months of 1930 is estimated at 249,775 long tons, a decrease of 19.6 per cent from 1929 and an increase of 0.3 per cent over 1928.

Imports of Crude Rubber into the United States during July totaled 34,084 long tons, against 42,653 in June, 44,252 in July, 1929 and 33,382 in July 1928.

Total domestic stocks of Crude Rubber on hand and in transit on July 31 are estimated at 152,001 long tons, against 131,484 on June 30, and 95,536 on July 31, 1929.

May Railroad Wage Figures Show Gain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—During May, 162 class one railroads and 16 switching and terminal companies paid $229,628,656 to 1,601,485 employes, as compared with $225,760,235 paid to 1,572,866 employes in April and $250,745,324 paid to 1,714,389 employes in May, 1929.

BUILDING LULL HITS GENERAL ASPHALT

Highher Oil Returns Fail To Overcome Low Volume In Roofing and Flooring

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Net profit of General Asphalt Company for the first six months ended June 30 is likely to be in the neighborhood of $260,000, which would be equivalent to about 60 cents a share on 413,333 shares of no-par common stock. This would compapre with a net profit of $461,760, equivalent to $1.41 a share on 210,614 shares of common stock in the first six months of 1929, after preferred dividends.

The last six months of the year usually turn in the larger portion of the company's profits. In the last half of 1929 the company earned $1,295,334 after all charges, which was equivalent to $3.13 a share on 413,333 shares of common stock then outstanding.

ROYALTIES LARGER

Royalty oil accruing to General Asphalt from production, exclusive of that under litigation with the Colon Development Company, averaged around 6,800 barrels daily during the first six months of the current year, compared with about 3,900 barrels daily during the first half of 1929. General Asphalt's share of oil shipped during the first half of the current year averaged around 4,631 barrels daily, compared with roughly 3,658 barrels daily in the corresponding period of 1929.

Although revenues accruing to the company from oil royalties during first six months showed an upward trend they were insufficient to offset the smaller volume of the company's roofing and flooring business. Intensified competition in the asphalt road paving business also affected the company's earning power during the period.

During 1929 for the first time in the company's history dividends were paid on the common stock, this issue being placed on a $4 annual basis. In addition during 1929 all the outstanding $4,203,800 6 per cent bonds were redeemed through the issuance of rights to stockholders and the 66,082 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock converted or retired.

GOOD CASH POSITION

Authorized capital stock was increased during the year to 1,000,000 no par shares, of which 413,333 shares were outstanding at the close of 1929.

Company's current position at the close of 1929 was strong with current assets of $8,360,765 against current liabilities of $968,888, a ratio of nearly 9 to 1. Cash item of $3,106,640 alone was more than three times current liabilities.

COPPER SELLS AT 10 3-4 CENTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(INS)—Copper dropped to a new low today when reports in the financial district credited custom smelters with selling the red metal at 10¾ cents a pound. Large producers, however, are said to be holding to the 11-cent basis.

Copper shares have been persistently weak in trading on the New York Stock Exchange over the past few days. In early activity today common shares of Anaconda, Kennecott and other important copper companies were quoted at close to their lowest levels of the year.

Transcontinental Oil Deal Approved

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—Stockholders of the Ohio Oil Company at a special meeting ratified terms for acquisition of Transcontinental Oil Company.

The stockholders also approved the increase in authorized common stock to 7,000,000 shares no-par value from 2,400,000 $25 par. The $25 par stock will be exchanged for new stock on the basis of one share of old for two shares of the new.

NEW OFFERINGS

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(AP)—New securities offered today include:

City of Detroit, Mich., $15,000,000 2⅞ per cent notes priced to yield 2.70 per cent, by National City Company.

State of West Virginia, $5,000,000 4 and 4½ per cent bonds to yield from 2.15 to 4.25 per cent, by syndicate headed by Chase Securities Company.

DAILY TRUE STORY

"Eben," said Capt. Hodges, "th' widder Johnson will git you—now mark my words."

"No use of scarin' Eben," Mrs. Hodges remonstrated.

"I leave it to you, Elvira, didn't you say, yourself, that this Widder Johnson was like to rope Eben into th' more or less holy bonds of matrimony?"

Mrs. Hodges flushed a little.

"I said she was a right likely woman active an' smart, and that like as not she'd be settin' her bonnet for some nice man like Eben.

"There, Eben, Elvira has finally cast anchor in th' harbor of truth.

"When this Widder Johnson or any other woman keelhauls me up to a weddin' altar, Sam, there'll be apple orchards in the middle of th' Atlantic."

Capt. Eben Wingate rammed tobacco into his cuddy pipe with a calloused thumb and glared across to the tiny, but neat little cottage on the edge of the river.

Only a month before the Widow Johnson had come from up Delaware way, bought the cottage, had it painted and settled down. What had been a sort of dump she had made into a lawn, and already flowers were growing on the water's edge, just above the tide-water line.

She had a little landing built with an arbor on it, and vines growing from tubs of earth.

Capt. Wingate, from his fine old-fashioned homestead, had watched her. Her tiny bit of land abutted on his vegetable garden.

He had just told his old crony of wind-jammer days, Captain Hodges, that the newcomer had improved the looks of the shore wonderfully because the drab old shack had been an eyesore since there between the Wingate and the Hodges properties.

"Men is helpless with widders, Eben. They decide on marryin' some feller and he's just as good as married right then."

"Better," snorted Captain Wingate, "much better until he is married."

Widow Visits

"Me and Elvira don't think so."

"You was a sort of marryin' man, Sam. I'm just a tough old salt used to a master's cabin alone, and I don't propose to take any second officer along with me."

"You'd be th' second officer, she'd be th' master, when you got married."

"Do stop pesterin', Eben," Mrs. Hodges pleaded.

Captain Wingate eyed Mrs. Johnson a little more warily after this.

He had an old pilot house that came from the wrecked Susan S. on the edge of his lawn for a summer house. He used to sit there in fair weather, smoke his pipe, read the Maritime News and watch the craft come up the river.

His sailing days were over. As he said, he had made a safe harbor at last, with a cargo of stocks and bonds that would keep him in plenty all his days.

Only a few days after Capt. Hodges had warned him that the Widow Johnson would surely marry him, willy-nilly, he was sitting in his pilot house arbor, smoking and watching an English iron tramp nose up the river, when he saw the widow approaching.

She had stepped over the low dividing hedge. She had something in a basket and was headed for him. Capt. Wingate eyed her coldly. He told himself that whatever bait she used, she wouldn't get a rise from him.

"Good morning, Cap'n Wingate," she greeted. "I brought you some moon flowers."

"I have my doubts, Madam, about any flowers growin' on the moon," he said coldly.

The Widow Johnson laughed and flashed white teeth. Capt. Eben wondered if they were real or store.

"These are vines, Captain," she said, "and they have white blossoms called moon flowers. If you would set them out here they'd grow up over your little summer house and be pretty."

Capt. Eben Wingate did not have it in him to be ungallant.

"Madam," he said, "that's kind of you. I'll plant them. And I've got some strong new roots from an old wisteria I fetched home from Spain 20 years gone. If you'd like them they'd bloom in another year over th' poop deck of your front porch."

The Widow Johnson smiled at him.

Wingate Annoyed

"I'd love them, Captain."

She helped him plant the moon flower vines and he could do no more than take up the wisteria roots and go and help her plant them by her front porch.

Capt. Sam Hodges coming home from the repair dock that he owned and leased, leaned on the widow's newly whitewashed front gate and watched proceedings.

"Ahoy, there, Cap'n Eben, are you tryin' to kedge Mis' Johnson's cabin out to deep water?"

He chuckled. Capt. Wingate was downright annoyed.

"Your sense of humor," he bellowed at Hodges, "is covered with barnacles!"

Capt. Sam Hodges went his way, laughing lustily.

He stopped off at Eben's place next day.

"I warned ye, Eben," he said, "that widder woman'll shanghai ye and ye'll come to when it's too late and married."

"A man's got to be polite, but don't you worry none. I ain't got no use for wimmin—in th' fust place they don't know a barnacle from a binnable, they don't know nautical talk and a body'd have to stop and translate all he said into land-lubber English. Then, wimmin is like ships, it costs more to rig 'em than they're worth, don't you worry none."

Now Capt. Eben, Mrs. Hodges said, it ain't so, but a mite of it, ye'te would make your days happier.

Like a shark's jaw it would, Mrs. Hodges. Wimmin is helpless and timid and they can't stand a leetle strong salty language now and then. A man like me has got to cuss right peart when he stubs his toe or breaks his pipe, and I don't want no woman turnin' pale an' tellin' me I'll roast in eternal hell. She let 'makin' in name of th' land' go nash.

Jest th' same, Eben, Capt. Hodges declared, you're a goner, that widder woman'll get you.

He went to the closet and brought out a bottle.

Now, Sam, I wouldn't take much of that stuff, his wife said.

Jest a leetle, Elvira.

Nother thing, Eben said in a low voice after she went out, a man wants his toddy and he don't want no woman measurin' out a half-finger drink when he feels he needs four fingers.

All wimmin is like that, Eben.

Sure, that's why I ain't married none of 'em.

Capt. Eben started to drink.

Here's to your new mate, Cap'n th' widder woman, Sam said.

Calls Doctor

Capt. Eben choked on the last of his drink.

All that summer he was just friendly with the Widow Jones. In the winter when he fell on the ice she helped him into his house and used his telephone to call a doctor. Then she took over a whole pie and a big pot of broth which she heated.

She ain't goin' to catch me with none of that bait, the captain told himself. But he couldn't, as he explained to his old friend Capt. Hodges, be beholden to no woman, and so he took over a small bundle.

It's a shawl I picked up in Algiers 10 years back with my compliments, fer your kindness when I fell. Ain't stand on ice on a slantin' deck, but this land ice is diffrunt."

The Widow Johnson blushed a little and thanked him.

When summer came the wisteria he gave her blossomed as did the moon flower vines she gave him. They discussed them now and then.

When a car just nicked the Widow Jones as she was crossing the street, Capt. Wingate, who was close at hand, cursed the driver until he turned pale and drove away at top speed. Wingate then started to apologize.

"That's all right, Cap'n Wingate, it was just what I was thinkin'," she said. "Cussin' never done anybody any harm and it's a big relief at times."

She was pale and trembling.

"A little drink of toddy would help you, Madam," he said, "and I'll fetch some over. I got it when I made port in Ireland some dozen years ago."

"I'd love a nip," she said.

He brought her a pint and she mixed two stiff ones. Both of them drank and he warned her to watch out for crazy drivers who'd run a man down to death on his own doorstep.

It was late June when a fancy mahogany catboat came sailing across the river. Capt. Wingate had just finished painting the rail to the Widow Johnson's floating landing with it's trellis and tubs of vines.

The catboat headed straight for the landing.

"The fool," yelled Wingate.

"Luff, luff, LUFF her, you pop-eyed fool!" yelled the Widow Johnson, and then as the boat came right on, "Let go your main sheet you blanked land-lubber, put her to stabbord, put her—"

Craft Crashes

The craft smashed nose on into the landing, crashing the newly painted rail and crushing the bow of the craft instantly. The Widow Johnson and Capt. Wingate helped fish out two young men in white duck and yachting caps.

"You so-and-so lubbers ought to stick to kiddie cars," she cried. "Look there, you tied your main sheet—only a blear-eyed congenital illiot would do that, of all the—ignorant such-and-such fools—"

She went on like that for several minutes.

The young men paid her for the damage and went away to get help to raise their sunken catboat.

"Madam," said Capt. Wingate, "where did you learn that language?"

"My paw and my grandpaw was seafarin' men. I made many a trip with 'em, and I guess I oughta apologize, but I got so downright mad at them fools lashin' down a main sheet's th' same as suicide."

"Madam, Mrs. Johnson, that's different."

"What do you mean, Cap'n?"

"I said I wasn't never goin' to marry, but you are different and if you'll marry me, by George Harry, we'll go and git hitched this very afternoon! You're a mate I could sail along with all the rest of my days, you don't faint at a nip of toddy and you understand my lingo and you talk like any decent sea-farin' person should have talked to them doods will you—"

"Of course I will, Cap'n—I always intended to marry you," she said.

Pinchot in Hard Fight With Unscrupulous Foes

Signs multiply that the gubernatorial election in November will be no mere formality, no mere ratification of the Republican primary, but a real contest.

Whether Gifford Pinchot runs as the Republican nominee or as the candidate of the Square Deal Party, he seems certain to face a hard fight. But he should win support from the decent elements through the very ferocity and unscrupulousness of his foes.

As a sample of the lengths to which Pinchot's enemies are prepared to go, there may be cited the situation which led to his taking title to the name "Square Deal Party" after having first pre-empted the name "Fair Play." It had been publicly announced that if he should be denied the Republican nomination through the Supreme Court decision in the Luzerne County perforated ballot case he would run independently as the "Fair Play" candidate. Thereupon the Forester's enemies, with conspicuous disregard for fair play, arranged to pre-empt the name in some of the smaller political sub-divisions and to place in the field "Fair Play" candidates who were really hostile to Pinchot. That is why it became necessary for Pinchot to organize the "Square Deal Party" secretly and have the name pre-empted simultaneously and suddenly by loyal supporters in 208 legislative and congressional districts covering the whole State.

The threat that came from Philadelphia yesterday that if Pinchot's claim to the Republican nomination should be upheld by the Supreme Court the Republican organization there would support James M. Hemphill, Democratic nominee, by voting for him on the Liberal Party ticket, is another example of the difficulties that confront the Forester.

But often men make friends through their enemies, and the bitterness and trickiness of the fight that is being waged against Pinchot should commend him to the favor of enough voters to assure his election, in view of the fact that he is admirably equipped for the governorship to begin with. A gallant fighter never lacks friends, and when the contest is with a treacherous opponent who strikes foul blows popular sympathy is always with the honorable man.

"Rank Hypocrisy" in Blue Law Enforcement

Judge Edwin O. Lewis, of Philadelphia, but voiced the thought of intelligent people throughout the State when he denounced as "rank hypocrisy" the manner in which Pennsylvania's Blue Law of 1794 is being enforced.

The crowd in the court room applauded Judge Lewis' remarks, which is simply another confirmation of the fact adduced by the Sun-Telegraph's poll that public sentiment favors a change in the Sabbath observance statutes.

The case in which the judge expressed his opinion was one involving baseball players arrested for playing on Sunday. There certainly is hypocrisy in classifying and prosecuting as a crime an innocent pastime in which the majority of the citizens see no harm on Sunday or any other day, especially when other sports, such as golf at the country clubs, are played on Sunday with impunity.

Blue Law enforcement is marked by inconsistencies, with what is fish in one part of the State treated as flesh in another. Witness the prosecution here of proprietors of miniature golf courses, while in other sections there is no interference with them.

The law should be repealed.

Names, if Landmarks, Should Not Be Changed

The letter of the Allegheny County Association of Township Commissioners to the County Commissioners, requesting the name of Sawmill Run Boulevard be changed to Liberty Boulevard, directs attention to a tendency that is all too common, a tendency to supplant historic, distinctive place names with trite, commonplace names of no particular appropriateness or significance.

Since it is ordinarily written "Saw Mill Run Boulevard" instead of, correctly, "Sawmill," the present name is perhaps a little cumbersome. The fact that the boulevard connects with the Liberty Tubes offers some justification for the proposed name, and the fact that it is a new highway makes a change less objectionable than would otherwise be the case.

But have the township commissioners reflected that the name "Sawmill Run" is historic and distinctive, whereas every city has a thoroughfare named "Liberty" and Pittsburgh itself is already supplied with a Liberty avenue and a West Liberty avenue and McKees Rocks with a Liberty street?

There seems to be in some quarters dislike for names that are quaint or unusual. When Mucklerat was changed to Forest Hills and Shousetown to Glen Willard, landmarks that preserved the memory of pioneer families were effaced, but it could at least be said in extenuation that many persons regarded the original names as rather uncouth. That, however, cannot be offered in justification for changing the fine old Indian name of Shannopin to the banal South Heights, nor does it apply to the proposed change in the name of the Sawmill Run Boulevard.

Old place names, if landmarks, should be preserved, and in casting about for new names, preference should be given those with a distinctive and native flavor.

Dobbin Should Travel Next to the Curbstone

Opponents of the proposal that horses be barred from the downtown streets as a cause of congestion presented some good arguments at the hearing before the Better Traffic Committee. It is probably true, as they contended, that parking of automobiles in the streets does more to impede the flow of traffic than the slowness of old Dobbin.

One cannot but be impressed, also, by the argument that horse owners pay taxes and are as much entitled to the use of the streets as drivers of motor cars.

There is one thing that drivers of horses can do—and that without any great inconvenience—that will help materially to expedite traffic. They can stay on the extreme right-hand side of the street, next to the curbstone, at least on streets where the area next to the curb is not occupied by parked cars.

We are aware that it is much more pleasant to drive a wagon on car tracks than on rough paving stones, but when automobiles must trail the wagon because it is unlawful to pass it on the right and dangerous to pass it on the left, driving a slow vehicle on the car tracks makes for congestion—also for bad language by the motorists.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

It follows that gynanders arising thus must always take their origins in eggs of the two X sex and that never more than half of the individual can be of the other or one-X sex.

In silkworms, another type of half-and-half gynander has been found. This, it seems, owes its origin to the abnormal production of eggs with two nuclei instead of one, which are then fertilized by two separate sperms.

H. G. Wells

As a result the two sides of the body can differ in regard to many inherited characters, just as can ordinary brothers and sisters. In bees strains occasionally crop up which throw a definite percentage of gynanders.

One recent observation, though as yet quite unexplained, must be mentioned because of its sheer strangeness.

It has been found that if the chrysalids of swallow-tail butterflies, just after they have been formed from the caterpillars, are dropped on the floor or jarred by tapping the box containing them with a hammer, they produce a considerable proportion of gynanders.

These are of unusual type, in that they are always patchy and that individuals of either sex may exhibit small regions of the other sex. The cause of the phenomenon is as yet completely obscure.

But in all the other cases the cause is always some little miscarriage of the normal chromosome machinery.

A chromosome is delayed in its movements on the spindle; a female germ cell fails to divide its cytoplasm after dividing its nucleus; an egg divides a trifle too fast for the sperm that fertilizes it—little accidents, but irrevocable. There is none of that mysterious "regulation to the normal" here, which we often hear of as a universal quality of developing life.

The little accident leads to a wasted life, a monstrous individual, a biological absurdity. The process, for all its intricate complexity, is mechanical and regardless of any ideal of harmony or perfection in the result.

SECTION 6. SEX HORMONES

We come now to the various kinds of sexual abnormality found in the higher animals and in mankind.

So far as structure goes, we vertebrates begin our embryonic lives not as males nor as females, nor even as neutrals, but as both.

Our chromosome constitution is determined, it is true, the double X or single X has already decided for female or male. Nevertheless, the sexual organs themselves remain still male-female — hermaphrodite.

When the sexual apparatus first develops, it consists of a single pair of gonads (which will become either ovaries or testes), but for the rest, in the ducts, for example, between gonads and exterior, it has the rudiments of both sexes. It has a foot in both camps.

But soon it becomes evident to which sex the embryo really belongs. If it is going to be a boy it enlarges the male rudiments while the other remain undeveloped. And the other way round if it is going to be a girl.

So it comes about that the adult male has rudimentary bits of femaleness here and there on his body; rudimentary nipples, for example, and deep in his pelvis a very small rudimentary uterus.

And the characteristic male parts can be traced in the female. These facts are simply the result of the way the body develops.

Now the chief agents in the molding of this bisexual groundplan into the form of one sex or the other are the sexual hormones, substances shed into the blood by the ovaries or testes.

The ox is dull and quiet, has horns intermediate in shape between those of a bull and a cow, is larger boned than a bull and puts on fat more readily; the gelding is structurally very little different from the stallion but their temperaments are poles asunder; the capon preserves the cock's plumage, but his comb and spurs remain rudimentary and he never crows or pursues hens. The same is true of females with their ovaries removed, though the visible changes are generally less.

The spayed sow, however, is not only neuter in behavior, but fattens more quickly than the normal sow.

In birds remarkable changes may follow the removal of the ovary, hens and ducks changing into the plumage of cocks and drakes (though without assuming masculine behavior) at the next moult.

WILLIAM HARVEY

By Archibald Henderson

Not long ago, the world united in celebrating the epochal discovery of the circulation of the blood. William Harvey was one of a great group who lived in England's spacious and creative days—a contemporary of Shakespeare and Jonson. Born at Folkestone on April 1, 1578, he received the finest education the age could afford. First he studied at Canterbury and Cambridge; and afterwards traveled to Padua, studying deeply there for five years. At the age of 24 he took the doctorate in medicine at the University of Padua; and later, took the doctorate in medicine at Cambridge University, where he was graduated at the age of 29.

In the London of James I, he established a practice and had some of the distinguished figures of the day as his patients, notably the Lord Chancellor, Francis Bacon, and the Earl of Arundel. But it is clear that he was devoted, not to the practice, but to the scientific study of medicine. Harvey's specialty was anatomy; and in 1609, he secured the appointment to the staff of St. Bartholomew's Hospital; and six years later he received the post of professor of anatomy and surgery.

The long studies and reflections over the movements of the heart and their consequences found expression in his very first lectures at St. Bartholomew's, in the very year of Shakespeare's death. The earliest statement of his discoveries regarding the circulation of the blood is found in his note book, as follows:

"It is plain from the structure of the heart that the blood is passed continuously through the lungs to the aorta, as by the two clacks of a water bellows to raise water. It is shown by the application of a ligature that the passage of the blood is from the arteries into the veins. When it follows that the movement of the blood is constantly in a circle and is brought about by the beat of the heart, it is a question, therefore, whether this is for the sake of nourishment or rather for the preservation of the blood and the limbs by the communication of heat, the blood cooled by warming the limbs being in turn warmed by the heart."

Harvey won a place of distinction in the life of the great capital. In 1618 he was appointed physician extraordinary to James I, and upon his death he became physician in ordinary to Charles I. Although he had long since matured his views and often lectured on the subject, it was not until 1628 that his epochal book on the circulation of the blood was published.

Although it is generally acknowledged to have laid the foundations of modern physiology, it fell upon alien and unsympathetic ears. It was said that "he fell mightily in his practise; 'twas believed by the vulgar that he was crack-brained, and all the physicians were against his opinion and envied him."

Another important contribution to science was Harvey's treatise, the work of exhaustive practical researches, entitled "Studies of the Generation of Animals." He showed his genius in his work, which enunciates the doctrine that all the higher animals and plants are derived from a single cell. Harvey's great generalization is still quoted in the classic phrase: Omne vivum ex ovo.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

It is said of Clemenceau that he loved many women, but his friendship was given only to a few. And the same might be said of all men—for love comes often between men and women, but only rarely do they achieve friendship.

Nor is this because women are incapable of friendship, though many have said that they are. Between themselves women have strong and beautiful friendships. But with men it is different. It is different because the needs of men and women are different.

A woman's deepest need is for children. She may deny this. She may protest that she doesn't even like children. But her denials cannot change the fact that, physically and emotionally, she was made for motherhood and that only through motherhood can she fulfill herself. So it is inevitable that she regard every man as a potential father. It is also inevitable that she should regard him as a baby. For every man was once some woman's baby. And all men, to all women, are still helpless little boys. They may love those little boys—and need them greatly. But they can never take them quite seriously.

So though on the surface a man and a woman may be friends and equals, they have entirely different attitudes toward each other. Either unconsciously, or with deliberate intent, the woman becomes a wife-mother to the man. Becomes possessive and proprietory. Pets and punishes him. Insists upon being personal when he wants to be impersonal. And when he resists her invasion, either grows hurt and angry or abandons him as a hopeless prospect.

Frequently you hear men say that you "can't trust women—they don't respect confidence—they haven't a sense of honor." That isn't true. Women are as honorable as men, but by a different code . . . the codes of wives and mothers, with its special rights and exemptions.

But naturally these tactics are incomprehensible to a man. He hasn't the same need to be a father which the woman has to be a mother. He isn't always instinctively searching for a wife or a child. Marriage was never his natural vocation. It was hung on him. He belongs to the trail—she belongs to the hearth.

So there's the split. For friendship, with its freedom, is a habit of the trail—but because of that same freedom, it is an enemy to the hearth. And the woman, with the feel of babies in her blood, can never quite neighbor with the man, with the feel of the sky in his. They can never—quite—be friends.

BUT AS LONG AS THEY CAN BE LOVERS, DOES THAT GREATLY MATTER?

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A cop tried to scare a kid for using a beanie on birds in the park. "What's your name and address and the names of your parents?" says the cop.

"How do I know?" says the kid. "My Pa and Ma has both got divorces lately and married again right today to other folks, and I'm half time with each of 'em, and they've both moved this morning and ain't found a new place yet. So I can't answer none of them questions without lyin', and I ain't goin' to lie for nobody."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

A Shadow

All grief is but a shadow
That swiftly passes by,
A shadow that can only vex
One hour the tranquil sky;
While joy is like the sun's self,
Serene, untouched always
By any wisp of cloud that casts
Its shadow on our days.

If man would but consider
How fugitive is pain,
How many are the hours of sun
To just one hour of rain;
Then he could meet and conquer,
Triumphant over all,
The darkest hours that come to him,
The deepest shades that fall!

All grief is swiftly passing,
A bird that spreads its wings,
To hide for but a little time
The sun-bright heart of thing!

Text For Today Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.—Gal. vi: 1.

(The text for today is suggested by the Rev. Floyd Stadtfeld, pastor, First Brethren Church.)

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Rainmakers

The rainmakers of America and suburbs have had a good chance to exploit their damp habits this month.

"Bugs" Baer

The sun has been shining like a new dime. It has been so dry that even the ducks and geese have put their webbed spats away until wetter notice.

We have every kind of climate in America except the kind you can use. And when we get a drought we get it right from the last notch on the vacuum cleaner.

That's where the rainmakers step out and waltz their stuff. Anybody can be a rainmaker. There are no diplomas or certificates for this soggy industry.

Just walk into any town and say, "I'm a rainmaker. I can make two blades of grass grow where but a miniature golf course grew before. Show me where to sleep, give the flivver a drink of gasoline, toss my wife a bale of hay, and in the morning I'll turn on the rain and make Noah look like a sandman."

All towns want rain. So the rainmaker is as welcome as orange juice with castor oil.

They wine him and dine him that night. In the morning he meets the mayor on city hall steps which have been carefully soaped.

Then the news reels grab the rainmaker and he indorses 17 different brands of the same cigaret.

After that, he walks out into the parched valley. Myriads of awed citizens look on as he burns incense to the Joss of Umbrellas.

Setting up a screwy-looking apparatus in the fields, he waves his arms and chants, "Let there be rain."

That makes the government weather bureau sore because it gets paid to do the guessing and all amateur mistakes are bitter competition.

Well, there ain't any rain. So the rainmaker touches off a smoke bomb and three chocolate eclairs and repeats, "Let us have a gross of rain in fancy and assorted sizes."

Still, there ain't no rain. And to make the glue all the damper, there ain't going to be no rain. Nevertheless, the rainmaker continues to mumble, "How about a little rain before I get good and sore?"

And there ain't no rain. The crowd suddenly realizes that the rainmaker must have checked his paper hat with the immigration authorities on the wharf. It proceeds to chase him toward the newly discovered pole. And if he is smart he keeps on running until he meets a thundershower in a more distant and far better clime.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

HAMBURG.—Hamburg received the deepest wound of all in the war. First to eat black bread, the falling mark tumbled first into oblivion here. Prosperity depending so solely upon its enormous port, it was bled white, its swift rhythm clogged.

Universal commerce was obliterated by stoppage of navigation and complete loss of its merchant fleet. That it survived these blows, together with crushing terms of peace, smacks of elbow grease. The city decreased in population from a million to 700,000.

But the venturesome Hanseatic spirit crushed to earth, like truth, arises. Today it tops the million mark in a remarkable come-back. That it established successfully its now famous University of Hamburg after the revolution is, too, a triumph for Kultur.

To my notion Hamburg is the least sentimental about the Kaiser. I might add my impression Germany's greatest hatred is for Belgium. England next, and France least of all. Germans believe that had Belgium offered no resistance they would have taken Paris and won the war in quick-time.

Hamburg's port is a bee-hive and has caught up with its before war traffic. That web uniting German commerce with all far-flung outposts of the world has again been spun. Long quays and harbor basins are alive with ships. The fastest train in Europe is between Berlin and Hamburg.

Hamburg has an exquisite setting. The Alster River forms a lake, around which the city is built in semi-circle. The lake is animated with pleasure boats and its banks are terraced and forested, giving the ensemble appearance of a watering resort.

Yet the city is all business. Rank is gained solely by personal ability. Night life is unknown, and I am told only two restaurants feature dancing. Its staid citizenry reminds me of Alfred Henking, sedate banker of our town, who was a German-American.

Hamburg offers the quintessence of cosmopolitanism. Through its vast shipping it is in touch with the entire world. In a steamship office, an old friend, the Herr Direktor, talked, as I waited at his desk, in five different languages over the telephone and added a superb linguistic finish by turning to inquire in pure Broadway: "How's every little wrinkle?"

While old merchant houses remain, they are vanishing. Those are long warehouses with front doors on the street and back doors facing shipping canals that thread the town. In the beginning they were a united dwelling house, office and warehouse under one roof. Modern office buildings are separating business association from family life. Hamburgians today catch trains to New Rochelles.

This is a summer overcoat town too. At 5 in the evening an icy mistral pops up, and those caught off guard to fancy teeth chattering. In a cab to the hotel this evening Billy sat in the front seat doing the neatest hula I've seen since Gilda went Park Avenue. He doth not care for the cooth, the thithy.

I'm sorry it is too late to back the hotel manager into a corner and find out if this town is the home of Hamburger steak.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

When a person is shy and unwilling to mingle with others without urging, he or she is thought to have an inferiority complex.

It means that the victim of such thoughts believe that others know more and vanity suggests keeping away from the wiser ones.

You may be this sort of person and so you are considering, possibly, your lack of education, limited experience and brain capacity and wondering how long you can keep up your present standing.

You envy those who have a firm foundation to stand on and think they have so little to worry about in comparison with yourself.

If the truth were known almost everybody is more or less of a bluff in certain ways.

Those you consider so well fortified for the battle of life may be no better prepared than you are for your struggle.

You might be surprised to know how many men and women are holding jobs and filling them satisfactorily whose qualifications are not up to the standard supposed to go with the job.

But they don't admit this to others and will not allow themselves to consider a thought or suggestion that they are not as able as anyone to do the job.
